BOMB BRITISH: DUCE'S THREAT

WPA IN FLURRY TRYING TO GAIN DEC. 1 JOB GOAL

See New Extension of 'Deadline.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—With but two days remaining before the Dec. 1 deadline set for the transfer of 3,500,000 persons from relief rolls to jobs, the Works Progress administration today was engaged in a frantic last minute attempt to reach a goal which seemed impossible of attainment within the time specified.

In what was interpreted in many quarters as a move to detract attention from the failure of the WPA program, Administrator Harry L. Hopkins has been away from Washington during the last few days making vigorous speeches in various communities and attacking critics of the boondoggling aspects of his work relief campaign. Meanwhile his harassed organization continued the struggle of inventing jobs and putting men into them.

Figures Are Unannounced.

Official figures concerning the extent of employment under the program have not been made public since Nov. 19, when there were 1,132,758 persons on the relief rolls to be put to work if the 3,500,000 total was to be attained by Dec. 1. That meant the employment of 566,379 persons per week in the two weeks remaining.

Unofficial reports stated that this average had not been reached and that there probably will remain at least a half million persons uncared for at midnight next Saturday. Hopkins repeatedly has asserted that all federal relief will terminate by Dec. 1, but this always has been coupled with the statement that the 3,500,000 total would be employed on that date.

It is probable that an official announcement will be made Saturday that the total of 3,500,000 has been reached. There will be no opportunity to check this assertion and in informal talks with WPA officials it was learned that while the statement may be technically true it will mean only that the employment of that number of persons has been authorized.

Expect Change in Deadline.

Just as the original Nov. 1 deadline was pushed back a month, so it is now expected that the Dec. 1 date will be set back to Dec. 15 at least.

Even if the announcement should be made that the 3,500,000 mark has been reached, it would be necessary to continue relief to hundreds of thousands after Dec. 1 because of the delay in sending pay checks to those employed, it was pointed out. WPA pays the workers only twice a month and persons shifted to employment rolls at the last moment would receive no checks until Dec. 15. In the interim they would have no means of support.

While the announcement was made Nov. 16 that 26 states had been cut off federal relief, nothing was made public about the amount of the final relief allotments given these states. It was considered possible that these states were given enough to carry them well into December.

WPA Betrays Anxiety.

President Roosevelt, in his message to congress requesting the 4 billion 880 million dollar appropriation, specified that the 880 million dollars would be for direct relief, but one billion 180 million already has been spent, some 300 million dollars over the limitation designated.

The organization betrayed its anxiety over reaching the 3,500,000 mark in a recent order permitting the use of skilled labor on miscellaneous projects. This was a departure from the original plan to put men to work according to their skill. It was seen as a reversion to the old haphazard CWA days when a school teacher might be put to work digging ditches—and usually was.

Santa Comes to Town; 6 Children Injured in Crash

GALT, Ont., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The first 1935 visit of Santa Claus to this city today resulted in a tragedy when a crowded stairway in a store collapsed. Six children and a woman were seriously injured. Many others suffered minor hurts. Santa Claus was holding court on the fourth floor and elevators and stairs were crowded to capacity.

HITLER'S POLICE JAIL HUNDREDS IN NEW 'PURGE'

Foes of Rule Seized; Germans in Terror.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Visions of a new Nazi terror arose in Germany today when it became known that hundreds of enemies of Adolf Hitler's régime have been arrested and carted off to jails or concentration camps.

About 80 men were seized by the secret police in raids conducted in the Frankfort district alone. Most of the others were arrested in and near Berlin in the course of raids which have been proceeding for days.

The first inkling of the raids was given when a number of minor Nazi party officials in Berlin were jailed for embezzlement and violation of party principles. Yesterday Hitler summoned Rudolph Hess, his chief deputy, into consultation and immediately there arose reports that party members incapable of being controled are to be punished severely.

Plea for Better Treatment.

Many of the arrested persons are connected with the socialist movement, or were, in the days of the republic. Juergen Jurgensen, 52 years old, former Socialist deputy in the reichstag, was released from a concentration camp a few weeks ago after being held a prisoner for more than a year. Jurgensen called on Herr Kube, a Nazi leader, with whom he had worked in parliament, to plead for better treatment of prisoners in the camp.

Kube assured him he would intervene in their behalf, but 24 hours later Juergensen was rearrested and taken to the notorious concentration camp at Papenburg together with a number of other former labor leaders.

Herr Heinch, former Berlin police major, who was dismissed from his post when the Nazis assumed power in 1933 because he had quelled riots staged by Nazi students, was transferred to Berlin's grim Moabit prison this week. He was accused of agitating against Hitler's rule among police officers and soldiers. His pensions were stopped and his wife and three children are penniless.

Families Hard Hit.

The outlook is regarded as pitiful for those affected by the arrests in the roundup of enemies of the Nazi dictatorship. Most of the prisoners are heads of families and their wives and children do not know where to turn for relief.

Authorities meanwhile finally admitted that the Association of German Nationalistic Jews had been suppressed and that their leader, Dr. Max Naumann, is under arrest. This group, which was composed mostly of war veterans, desperately had sought to reach an agreement with Nazi authorities in order to keep their association alive. In their pleas the Jews emphasized their affection for Germany. Dr. Naumann is accused of having made incorrect statements about the treatment of Jews by winter relief authorities and of having "endangered relief measures of the government."

Seek to Ease Butter Shortage.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—In an effort to ease the butter shortage, which is stirring unrest in German households, Nazi authorities of East Prussia, one of the biggest butter producing districts, have decreed the following:

The production of whipped cream is forbidden.

Coffee cream and sour cream must not contain more than 10 to 11 per cent fat. Fifteen per cent of the milk heretofore used for the production of cheese will be transferred to the production of butter.

The delivery of milk for drinking purposes is further restricted and the compulsory collection of milk from the peasants is extended.

Protestants Get Ultimatum.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Confessional synod leaders were in almost continuous session tonight after Hans Kerrl, head of the Nazi department of church affairs, issued an ultimatum that the synod coöperate with his committee or be dissolved Monday.

Instead of intimidating the Protestant leaders, informed sources said, the ultimatum welded them together anew and prevented a split that seemed imminent, as they sought to devise a method of continuing to preach the gospel according to their doctrins even if their organization should be dissolved.

AND NOW FOR THE ANNUAL STRUGGLE

Clipper Ends 8,000 Mile Hop in Manila

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 29 [Friday].—(AP)—The China Clipper swept to a landing on Manila bay today, completing an 8,000 mile flight from Alameda, Cal., with the first load of air mail ever carried across the Pacific ocean. The Clipper left Alameda last Friday.

Eleven hours and 25 minutes out of Guam, starting point of her last lap, the four motored craft alighted after circling Manila for nearly an hour. Army and navy planes escorted the huge flying boat and the entire Asiatic fleet of the United States and other boats saluted the Clipper.

Favored by Tail Winds.

Favored by good tail winds, the flying boat covered the final lap at an average speed of 144 miles an hour.

When the Clipper left Guam, 1,700 miles from Manila, Thursday at dawn several thousand bronze skinned natives turned out to bid farewell to Capt. Edwin C. Musick and his men as their big ship rose from the calm waters of the bay. They shouted excitedly and waved their arms. Gov. George A. Alexander and a detachment of United States marines also looked on.

Carries Letter to Quezon.

Capt. Musick carried in his pocket an air mail letter for President Manuel Quezon of the island commonwealth from President Roosevelt.

The commander and crew had their Thanksgiving dinner yesterday and then a long sleep before starting the last leg of the trip.

Guam added its quota of air mail letters to the thousands the China Clipper is carrying to Manila and the orient from all over the world.

GIVE HIM A GOOD BAND, THEN JUST WATCH CLAUDE!

Mrs. Rose Zutman ate Thanksgiving dinner yesterday in her apartment at 711 South Central Park avenue and then went downstairs to visit a neighbor. Later she heard the radio turned on in her apartment.

Fearful of burglars, she called the Fillmore street police and Detectives James Biever, Michael O'Rourke, and Emil Piksa arrived and entered the apartment with drawn pistols. In Mrs. Zutman's bed they found a man sleeping.

He was awakened and between hiccoughs identified himself as Claude Corbin, 41 years old, of Mason City, Ia. At the Town Hall police station he said he had stopped in the Zutman apartment "just to get warm."

"Why did you turn on the radio?" he was asked.

"A good band always puts me to sleep," Corbin replied.

RIFLEMAN HITS PILOT AS PLANE FLIES OVER WOOD

Bryan, Tex., Nov. 28. — (AP) — A marksman with a high powered rifle wounded George W. Barnes Jr. near the heart as the youth and a companion, Byron Black, flew in an open cockpit airplane over a wood near here today.

Barnes, son of the live stock specialist of the Texas A. & M. college extension service, was rushed to a hospital here. Physicians said the wound was serious but that he probably will recover.

Black and young Barnes, an amateur photographer, were en route to the college to photograph the annual Thanksgiving day football game between the Cadets and Texas university.

Officers searched the wood but without success.

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Seriously ill from tropical malaria, Prof. James H. Breasted of Chicago, one of the world's foremost authorities on the ancient civilizations of Egypt and the near east, was carried from the steamship Conte di Savoia when it docked today after a voyage from Naples.

Dr. Breasted, who is 70 years old, became ill Tuesday and was placed under the care of the ship's surgeon, Dr. Giovanni Valenzi. The archæologist was attended in his cabin soon after the ship docked by Dr. J. Bentley Squier, professor of urology at Columbia university. He was then taken to the Columbia-Presbyterian medical center.

Heads Oriental Institute Here.

Dr. Breasted, who is director of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago, sailed from New York on Aug. 18 to attend the international convention of orientalists in Rome as a representative of the National Academy of Sciences.

Later he went to Egypt. At Cairo, on Nov. 16, he announced that he had obtained from the shah of Persia permission to ship to Chicago 30,000 cuneiform tablets which were dug up on the site of ancient Persepolis by one of the Chicago institute's expeditions. These tablets, it is believed, will greatly increase the world's knowledge of early Semitic languages.

Return Set for December.

It had been announced that he would probably return to Chicago in December. It was not made plain whether his health became impaired before he boarded the Conte di Savoia, although Dr. Valenzi said he probably caught the malaria while in Egypt.

Dr. Breasted was accompanied on his trip by Mrs. Breasted, the former Imogen Richmond. She went from the boat to the hospital. There it was said tonight that Dr. Breasted's condition was good.

Ruben Is Very Put Out but Needs Extinguishing

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Ruben Colinsky leaped to his feet in the court of Federal Judge Leon R. Yankwich.

"Put me out! Put me out!" he screamed.

"Put him out," the court concurred. The bailif shoved Colinsky from the room.

"I'm not out—extinguish me—I'm on fire!" yelled Colinsky.

Investigation disclosed Colinsky had put a lighted pipe in his coat pocket. He was burned slightly.

FRENCH O. K. OIL EMBARGO; LONDON WORRIED BY JAPS

Requests Tokio to Explain Actions in North China.

BULLETIN.

NANKING, China, Nov. 29 (Friday.)—(AP)—The government submitted a formal note of protest today to Japan over the seizure of Fengtai, near Tientsin, Wednesday. The note handed to the Japanese embassy by the foreign office said the seizure of the railway center by Japanese troops violated treaty pledges.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 29 (Friday).—Whether China likes it or not, her railways in north China will receive Japanese "protection" hereafter, the foreign office announced today. Japan has warned the Chinese railway bureau not to move locomotives or coaches at Fengtai, junction near Peiping. The Japanese action is intended to "protect" the railway, it was said, inasmuch as Japan is under obligation to do so under terms of the boxer protocol of 1900.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—British diplomacy today appeared to be greatly preoccupied over the Japanese occupation of key railway junctions in north China and the apparent intention of Japanese army leaders to seize the five northern provinces and set up a puppet régime patterned after that established in Manchukuo under the guise of an autonomy movement.

It is evident that Downing street has first hand information about Japan's intentions in north China, for a high official of the Japanese embassy called there at noon.

Foreign Office Silent.

The foreign office declined to make a comment on what the visit was about. Foreign office spokesmen said the British chargé d'affaires at Tokio is constantly talking with members of the Japanese government, but has yet made no report.

The North China railway which has been taken over by the Japanese outside Peiping is largely British owned. It is, in fact, a security held for a former British loan to China.

It was indicated that a British protest note to the Japanese might be forthcoming as soon as the British can line up the proper support. The United States is the best bet for that support. Barring that, Britain must turn toward Russia, which would be a more complicated affair.

Seek U. S. Support.

The British are particularly anxious to get American support for their politics in China. The politics there has been a stumbling block, due to the fact that the British left the

3 Point Italian War Program Ready, Rome Reports.

WAR FRONTS

(1) London observers saw a lessening of England's desire to clamp down an international oil embargo on Italy. Reports from Rome said that should the oil embargo be enforced a "suicide air squadron" was ready to bomb the English fleet in the Mediterranean. London correspondents accordingly found Great Britain uneasy about the oil situation and now anxious to keep the United States from taking too strong a stand.

(2) Japan's seizure of railways in north China also affects Britain inasmuch as some of the railways are British controled. Britain is asking Japan for an explanation of her plans and would like the co-operation of the United States in dealing with the Japanese as well as the Italian problem.

(3) On the Ethiopian war front rains have held up the Italians but new drives by the Duce's armies are predicted within a few days.

BULLETIN.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

PARIS, Nov. 29 (Friday).—Premier Pierre Laval has destroyed Benito Mussolini's hopes for further postponement of an oil embargo against Italy, informed sources said today, driving the Italo-Ethiopian crisis into its decisive stage.

Yielding to the insistence of British Ambassador Sir George Russell Clerk, these sources said, Laval made clear to Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerruti that if Il Duce did anything "desperate" in the Mediterranean France and other league of nations powers would stand solidly, unreservedly behind Britain.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

ROME, Nov. 28.—Responsible persons with high connections said tonight a war that might be a world war would be certain to result if the league of nations placed an oil embargo upon Italy.

These persons were not officials. They said Premier Mussolini, at a midnight session of the Fascist grand council Nov. 18, adopted this three point program to be used if an embargo is applied:

1. Italy would withdraw her ambassadors and ministers from all "enemy" countries [those applying the oil sanctions].

2. Italy would quit the league of nations.

3. Italy's "death squad" air force of the navy would strike immediately at the British fleet in the Mediterranean. This is reported to be a force of 125 pilots pledged to go to certain death. Each would carry one huge bomb in his plane, pick out an enemy warship and dive upon the vessel.

Sudden, Desperate War.

It would be a sudden, desperate war in an attempt to break through the ring of fifty-two besieging nations, these sources said.

Information on this plan was said to have been given by Premier Mussolini to Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, here last Saturday and through the Italian ambassadors to Premier Laval of France and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, on Monday and Tuesday.

It was knowledge of this program, these sources continued, that caused postponement of a meeting of a league of nations committee scheduled for tomorrow to consider an oil embargo.

[The British foreign office yesterday denied it had been advised of Mussolini's plans to fight an oil embargo.]

"Oil Means War."

A government spokesman, interpreting the phrase "oil means war," said war might not be immediate but oil would be "another step which might eventually lead to European hostilities." Beyond that officials do not go.

Mussolini plainly recognized the possibility of a European war as a result of league sanctions in a speech to the country the day before his troops entered Ethiopia. Il Duce declared: "To acts of war we will respond with acts of war."

What constitutes "acts of war" was never defined officially, but authori-

Mussolini meanwhile ordered about 2,500,000 Italian schoolboys to be given officers' training. He instituted a 30 hour obligatory military course in grade, intermediate, and university classes, with examinations that count toward graduation.

Financial experts said today sanctions and patriotism have solved Italy's gold problem.

The gold drain, it was said, has been halted by public offerings so great that before the end of the year Italy may increase her reserve by 50 per cent.

Gold gifts are being received by the Fascist party in every community. An authoritative financial source said the people will give huge sums in gold, amounting to 50 lire [about $4] for every man, woman, and child in Italy.

BALDWIN SNUBS LONDONDERRY FAMILY TWICE

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, who often extols the ways of British statesmen at the expense of European dictators, has by his double snubbing of the politically and socially powerful Londonderry family this week given an example of autocracy without precedent in the modern records of politics and society in this country.

First he dropped the marquess of Londonderry from the cabinet without explanation and then even more ruthlessly declined Lady Londonderry's offer to place her house at his disposal next Monday for the traditional reception on the eve of the opening of the new parliament by the king. His only explanation is that such a party would not be "opportune."

Abandonment of the reception breaks society tradition running back to the Georgian period which flourished all through the Victorian and Edwardian reigns. There usually have been 2,000 guests at these receptions, half of them women who made it a great occasion for gowns and jewels. In recent years the function has been held exclusively at the Londonderrys.

NEW BOULEVARD SPEED LIMITS TO AWAIT SIGN POSTS

The new speed limits for Chicago's boulevard system, announced on Wednesday, will not become effective until signs have been erected to designate the 20, 25, 30, and 40 mile zones, George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district, said yesterday. A tour of the boulevards yesterday showed that many drivers were obeying the new limits in the belief that they were already in effect.

"The signs will be put up in a few days or a week," Mr. Donoghue said. "I note that Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, terms the new limits 'ridiculous.' In reply I want to say that these limits will be modified in the light of experience.

"The worst thing, from our own standpoint, would be to slow up trafic to the point where jams result, so I can promise that everything possible will be done to avoid that situation. The new limits are merely our present estimate of the safe driving speeds for each boulevard; if we find they can be increased with safety, that will be done."

ELLSWORTH SHIP SAILS TO LAUNCH HUNT FOR FLYER

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Wyatt Earp, supply ship of the Ellsworth expedition, said in a message to the New York Times and the North American Newspaper alliance tonight it had moved closer to the Bay of Whales preparatory to starting a search for Lincoln Ellsworth, who took off early Saturday for a flight across the Antarctic continent.

ITALIAN PLANES DESTROY ENEMY 'HOLDOUT' FORT

2 Squadrons Rain Bombs on Daggah Bur.

ROME, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Official Italian dispatches said tonight that Daggah Bur fortress, Ethiopia's "hold out" point on the southern front, was demolished by a Fascist air bombardment.

The announcement said two squadrons of five planes each flew over the fortress at intervals of four minutes. Each squadron dropped half its bombs.

After circling the city for five minutes, the combined squadrons swooped down and let loose the remainder of the bombs and "fulfilled their assignments," the communique stated.

Rains Stop Italy in North.

Rains hampered Italian operations in northern Ethiopia today. While Italians insisted their troops would press on in mountain marches, hunting down enemy bands regardless of the weather, military forces foresaw a rainy period that might hinder the rapid advances expected after the arrival of Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

The new commander-in-chief, coming to replace Gen. Emilio de Bono, had been expected to arrive yesterday, but torrential rains which flooded the port of Massaua, Eritrea, kept him from his command for at least another day.

On the southern front, Italians claimed they held the strategic center of Gorahai after frustrating Ethiopian tactics devised to split Gen. Rodolfo Graziani's army.

Ethiopian Attack Balked.

Italian sources said the Ethiopians planned an attack near Dolo, on the Ethiopia-Italian Somaliland border, to threaten Italian supply lines and force a return of part of the troops advancing through Gorahai.

The Italians said this move was expected by the Ethiopians to weaken the Gorahai garrison for a mass attack. The plan miscarried, however, Italian correspondents said, when the Fascists turned back the Ethiopians several days ago at Lamma Shilindi.

Italy Disarms Natives.

ADIGRAT, Ethiopia, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Italian high command decided today to disarm the population of the occupied territory. Armed followers of chieftains coöperating with the Italian army have been ordered to exchange their rifles for rifles of Italian manufacture for the sake of uniformity.

The decision to disarm the populace marks a diametric change in Italian policy. Hitherto, the Italians permitted the Ethiopians to keep their arms as part of an effort toward conciliation.

Emperor Off for Front.

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie left today for Dessye to take command of his warriors attempting to repel the Fascist invasion.

A huge military escort was provided for the ruler, who traveled by automobile. He was accompanied by Tecle Hawariate, former minister to France and representative at Geneva, who also is one of Ethiopia's best military strategists.

"I leave without knowing when I return or if I shall die for my country," the emperor told the abuna [high bishop] of Ethiopia's Coptic Christian church. "But if I never return, I shall be happy knowing that you, my father, are in my place. Give me your benediction and do not forget me in your prayers."

Haile Selassie returned only last week from an airplane survey of the southern front. Dessye is in eastern Ethiopia and is field headquarters between the northern and southern armies.

The government claimed today its attacks on the Italians were bearing fruit on both fronts.

VICTOR HARRISON REDMOND.

Upper Marlboro, Md., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Full investigation of recent activities of Victor Harrison Redmond, convicted in Washington of two sex offenses, was ordered tonight by Lieut. Joseph Itzel, Baltimore detective in charge of the inquiry into the slaying of Corrina Loring, Mount Rainier church worker.

Arrested today in Baltimore, Redmond was questioned for three hours here and ordered held.

Itzel declined to say whether Redmond is being held in the Loring investigation. The prisoner was arrested on a warant charging attempted assault Sunday on a 12 year old Mount Rainier girl.

Investigators said they want to know whether Redmond was in Mount Rainier between Nov. 4, when Miss Loring, 27 year old church worker, disappeared, and Nov. 9, when she was found slain near her home. She was to have been married Nov. 6.

CONTROL OF ARMS LAW OFFICIALLY IN EFFECT NOW

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The national munitions control act, important cog in the administration's neutrality machinery, became effective at midnight tonight.

Beginning tomorrow, all manufacturers, importers, and exporters of "arms, ammunition, and implements of war" must be registered with the new munitions control board established by executive order of President Roosevelt under legislation enacted last session.

The new regulation becomes effective at a time when the administration is seeking to discourage by presidential enunciation exports to the East African belligerents, Italy, and Ethiopia.

ITALIANS POISED FOR OFFENSIVES ON TWO FRONTS

Set to Smash North and South at Same Time.

BY SIR PERCIVAL PHILLIPS.
[Special Correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph and Chicago Tribune.]
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Nov. 28.—Offensive operations on a large scale are expected on both Italian fronts in Ethiopia in the near future.

Gen. Rodolfo Graziani's southern army has nearly completed preparations for a smashing blow toward Harrar.

A series of parallel motor roads have been built across the desert to the present front line covering Sasa Baneh. A new air base has been established at Gerlogubi and reinforcements estimated at 40,000 men have been brought up by a great fleet of trucks in the past month.

Sasa Baneh is Spearhead

Although the attacking army has been split into four columns, spread fanwise from south to southwest, Sasa Baneh is believed to have the doubtful honor of forming the spearhead of this offensive.

It is in the Sasa Baneh area that the heaviest concentration has taken place and large numbers of tanks and armored cars are reported to be massed there.

Supporting forces lying along the Shibeli river and its tributaries have made some progress since the last news was received, but they still are far from being able to participate in a rapid converging movement on Harrar which is the reason for their presence.

Columns Advance.

One of these columns following the Shibeli has reached Omein and another, diverging from that river, has followed the lesser Madisso river as far as Burdora in the direction of Sasa Banek.

Still a third column, which started due north from Dolo near the Kenya border, has its outposts in the vicinity of Kaleeh.

The renewed activity of the Italians this week coupled with reports received from the Ethiopian lines indicates this advance is imminent, although one observer estimates it will take Gen. Graziani at least another two weeks to finish the preparatory work.

Plan Offensives at Same Time.

Italians who arrived here from Mogadishu, Italian Somaliland, stated it is the intention to launch simultaneous offensives on the north and south and that the latter may be delayed until the army from Eritrea is ready to test its strength in the mountains south of Makale.

Airplanes have been scouting in large numbers over the rearward areas between Harrar and the Ethiopian main positions and during the last five days all camps and base depots have been subjected to intensive bombing.

Jigjiga has escaped up to now, but the Ethiopians have no illusions about the fate of the town when the big push begins. Every so-called village—a majority of which are no more than names on the map—fifty miles beyond the Italian entrenched front line has been repeatedly plastered with high explosives from the air.

Italian flying columns in small high speed tanks and armored cars have made daily raids through the thinly held Ethiopian outposts penetrating as far as twenty miles at some points and pouring a deadly machine gun fire on all fugitive troops within range.

No attempt is made to hold the ground covered, the columns invariably returning before nightfall to within their own lines.

These rapid surprise attacks meet small opposition as the Ethiopians always take cover at the approach of the Italians.

This, however, is in accordance with the plan of defense imposed by Wehib Pasha, Turkish officer—despite the opposition of his Ethiopian superiors—of not giving battle even in a limited area until the Italians are again moving in mass.

Ethiopian Raids Ineffectual.

The Ethiopians tried some raiding tactics by night, but beyond surprising two small columns and capturing some truck laden with food they do not appear to have hampered the Italians.

Harrar continues to be the source of the wildest rumors. One of many canards is that Emperor Haile Selassie's recent surprise visit by airplane to Jigjiga was to settle a serious quarrel between Wehib Pasha and Ras Nasibu, in which British military observers intervened, and that the campaign, at least in the south, is being conducted in accordance with advice from British officials.

Truck Falls 700 Feet on Mountain; 2 Escape Death

TERNI, Italy, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A truck with a trailer loaded with cement skidded through the protective wall on a mountain curve near here today and dropped 700 feet. Two men aboard the truck were not killed.

CONFIDENCE IS VOTED TO LAVAL; STILL IN DANGER

French Budget Debate to Be Real Test.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Premier Pierre Laval's anti-devaluation cabinet won an immediate vote of confidence, 345 to 225, today from the chamber of deputies in the first skirmish of the reopening of parliament, but the danger of an eventual defeat still lay ahead.

A real test is expected when Laval's economy decrees are debated. The question of disbanding so-called Fascist leagues is scheduled tentatively for consideration Dec. 3, followed by debate on the budget.

The premier won his first battle in an attempt to force acceptance of his decree laws for the defense of the franc before the chamber discussed the Fascist situation.

Socialists Plan Fight.

Edouard Herriot's radical Socialists, who hold the balance of power, have indicated they will oppose the government on some decrees. They said today's vote giving financial debate priority over discussion of the Fascist leagues "does not mean we accept all decrees."

While Laval's policy of trying to keep the Italo-Ethiopian war from spreading to Europe only indirectly is in play, it figures in the rivalry of political extremists.

The rightist national front is friendly to Italy and opposed to sanctions. The anti-Fascist popular front supports league measures and accused Laval of leniency toward Premier Mussolini.

Tell Danger to Franc.

The danger to the franc, it was said in government quarters, lies in the chamber upsetting the budget's balance by failing to ratify deflationary decrees, thus shaking investors' confidence.

If the government is unable to borrow sufficient money to pay deficits, it might be forced to seek funds through devaluation.

The vote today came a few minutes after parliament reconvened, with the chamber heavily guarded. Soldiers from the provinces reinforced Paris troops.

Laval, in presenting his motion to give precedence to the budget over all other matters, said:

CITY GETS SNOW AS TEMPERATURE DIPS TO LOW 20S

Cold accompanied by light flurries of snow swept into Chicago yesterday on northwest winds. The mercury sank steadily from a high of 37 at 3 a. m. to 23 at 8 and 9 p. m., and the official forecast indicated that today will also be cold, with a possible minimum by daybreak of about 15. No heavy snow is expected.

Almost the whole of the midcontinental area was in the grip of winter last night. A 40 mile gale lashed the Great Lakes and kept many ships, especially along Lake Michigan, in port. Thermometer readings below zero were recorded in North Dakota. Roads in Iowa, where near zero is looked for today, were glazed with sleet. Even points along the Gulf of Mexico had temperatures far below normal.

The Polar Bears club, an organization that claims to have no fear of ice water, held its first dip of the season in the lake at the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday. Charles Seaborg, 77 years old, 5878 Magnolia avenue, who goes swimming every day, led a band of 25 into the waves. The water temperature was 37.

CHICAGO SHARES ITS BOUNTY ON DAY OF THANKS

Many Feasts Are Held for Needy and Sick.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Chicago observed Thanksgiving yesterday with the traditional feasts and holiday activities. Few unfortunates were forgotten as the city shared its bounty.

At the Martha Washington Home for Crippled Dependent Children, 4558 South Michigan avenue, a turkey dinner with three kinds of dessert was served to the 32 children through the kindness of Mrs. Al Kessell, 1342 Independence boulevard, one of the many friends of the children.

"And the only trouble," reported Mrs. L. T. Hatch, superintendent, "was just as one child said, 'Why can't that turkey have 32 drumsticks?'"

Provides Dinner for 2,000.

At 120 East Cermak road Harry Block provided dinner for 2,000 needy men and their families as his annual method of giving his own thanks.

"We'd have gone hungry today if it weren't for this," declared John Matz, 1628 Richmond street, unemployed for three years and the father of eight small children, as he thanked Mr. Block. "It's the first real meal the kids have had this year."

Down on South Halsted street some 1,000 casuals ate roast beef and pork provided by the "evangelist cop," Sergt. Edward DeVries and neighborhood business men at the Trinity Gospel mission, 203 South Halsted street.

The men trudged into the mission canteen in groups of 100 from 10 a. m. until late at night. There they were first led in prayer by Sergt. DeVries, who combines working at the detective bureau with nocturnal preaching at the mission, and then were led to the feast, DeVries' eighth annual party.

During the day more than 5,000 persons visited the Edward Hines Memorial hospital where the 1,750 patients—war veterans—and the 800 employés enjoyed a typical holiday dinner, which included 2,600 pounds of turkey. Afterward the veterans were entertained with a motion picture show and received free cigars and cigarets.

The old mansion of John [Bet-A-Million] Gates at 2944 South Michigan avenue was the setting at 2 p. m. for a feast as lavish as any that "Bet-A-Million" ever staged when 185 boys of the C. Y. O. Home for Dependent Boys gathered for their Thanksgiving dinner. Ten turkeys, with the trimmings, were served in the tiled dining room which once was a tiled stable for Gates' prize horses. The Rev. V. J. Moran is director of the home.

Feast for Old People.

The 45 inmates of the Scottish Old People's home at Riverside also ate turkey, provided by A. J. Clonick, 1475 South State street. Another dinner, for the financial benefit of the home, will be given tomorrow night at the Palmer house by the Illinois St. Andrew society, founded in 1845. Tomorrow's dinner is the society's annual "feast of the haggis."

There were banquets at the County hospital, made possible by 450 pounds of turkey and a ton and a half of chicken; at the Oak Forest infirmary, where 4,200 inmates ate goose dinners, and at the Chicago Waiters alliance, 180 West Randolph street, where unemployed waiters and their families dined.

At the county jail Warden Frank Sain provided a dinner for his 700 prisoners that included roast chicken and pumpkin pie.

38 Women "Guests."

In the woman's ward 38 prisoners sat gayly around a festive table, decorated by themselves with paper turkeys, orange paper, and Puritan place cards. Before their meal was served a gray haired woman arose to intone an impassioned prayer of thanks. She was Miss Anna Malloy, former welfare worker who now is a prisoner awaiting investigation for an alleged attempt to assist in bribing a juror.

Upstairs, in the debtors' prison, Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, looked up brightly from the tin pie pan in which her Thanksgiving dinner was crowded.

"I should say I am thankful today," she declared, nodding her bright auburn head. "I got my favorite piece of chicken—the wing! And look at my room there," she continued, pointing to her nearby cell. "I'm not so worse off, and I'm mighty glad to be alive."

But Mrs. Nottingham Pays.

Mrs. Blacklidge's dinner was paid for by Mrs. Suzanne Nottingham, who won a $7,500 judgment against her for the theft of the affections of Policeman Norman Nottingham.

Over at the Bridewell, the 2,160 men and 115 women prisoners ate chicken, and afterward a cigar was provided for each man and a roll-your-own cigaret for each woman. Mrs. Mary Carter, 1246 Adams street, who at the age of 50 is serving a 30 day stretch for disorderly conduct, expressed her thanks.

"Me, I'm glad to be here," she said. "This was my first good Thanksgiving dinner in 32 years."

Among the evening entertainments were the annual turkey dinner party of Zaris, a Russian-American club, held at the Hotel Sherman; and the sixteenth annual Thanksgiving concert of the Salvation Army band, given at 1512 Madison street.

HE CALLED HER "IRISH"

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Clark Gable, the Hollywood screen star, and Della Carroll, blonde New York show girl, as they appeared on the S. S. Pan America during tropical cruise. Back in New York, Miss Carroll was quoted as calling Gable "a girl's dream, a divine dancer, and a marvelous lover." By "marvelous lover" she said she meant the way he holds hands.

He "Can't Remember"

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Della Carroll wasn't angry today, but she was hurt. For Clark Gable declined to play the leading man's part in her romance of a lifetime.

All the way from Hollywood, Gable tossed a discordant note into the shipboard interlude described by the petite platinum blonde of the stage.

"I can't remember anyone by that name," Gable announced.

This unromantic pronouncement burst into the turkey course of a Thanksgiving dinner at which Della was a guest in Westchester county.

"Oh," cried Della. "I'm surprised to think that he could say that.

"Of course he knew my name. The ship's purser introduced us. Clark called me Della at first, and afterwards he called me Irish."

She paused over his final blow: "There wasn't any romance on shipboard."

"Well," she philosophized, "maybe he didn't want the publicity. I don't blame him. I'm not mad. I was sort of hurt for a moment, but I'm not mad."

And Della added that there are the pictures showing her with Gable on the ship.

"He seemed willing enough to have them taken. I did not coax him."

13 Patients and Wife at President's Table.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was honored at Thanksgiving dinner tonight as the first citizen and founder of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

At a raised table in Georgia hall, decorated with chrysanthemums, autumn leaves and pumpkins, Mr. Roosevelt sliced into a 50 pound turkey. At the table with him and Mrs. Roosevelt were thirteen patients, envied by their fellows for their luck at drawing lots for the places.

More than 350 were wedged into the dining hall. During the meal a program of entertainment was offered by patients. At its conclusion the President accepted on behalf of the foundation an oil portrait of Dr. Leroy W. Hubbard, the first physician to give his services to the colony.

Traces Research Advances.

In accepting the painting, the President made an impromptu address in which he traced the growth of the resort and outlined research in combating infantile paralysis. Mr. Roosevelt went from the resort to the governor's mansion at Albany, N. Y., and later into the White House.

The President drove to Georgia hall from the little White House and took his seat amid cheers of the dinner guests. Before he poised his carving knife, the Rt. Rev. H. J. Mikell, Episcopal bishop of Atlanta, asked a blessing. The President brought with him a cane, the gift of an admirer, for which patients also drew lots.

Before going to the celebration the President completed the speech he will deliver tomorrow at a homecoming rally of several hundred thousand southern Democrats in Atlanta. The address, he said, will run from twenty minutes to a half hour.

It is to be a defense of New Deal policies and an elaboration of the benefits to the country claimed by the administration. It is believed the President may seize the opportunity to answer the criticism leveled at him by Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, who will be on the platform.

Talmadge Demands 3 Answers.

Yesterday Talmadge demanded that the President defend himself against three specific accusations. One was that the AAA and the Bankhead cotton control act are unconstitutional and injurious to farmers. Another was that communistic influences were discernible in the TVA, particularly because brain trusters have refused to erect denominational churches at Norris, Tenn., the TVA fountain head. The third was that No. 1 Brain Truster Rexford Guy Tugwell, as rural resettlement administrator, is spending more money on his Washington pay roll than on rural rehabilitation.

The President will motor from Warm Springs to Atlanta, pausing at Fort McPherson. The address is to be delivered at the stadium of Georgia Institute of Technology. The President will return here after the speech and remain until he leaves to make his address at Chicago before the American Farm federation Dec. 9.

MARIE, LAGGARD OF THE DIONNE QUINTS, AT LAST BEGINS TO WALK

CALLENDER, Ont., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Little Marie has been pitied as the weakest of the Dionne quintuplets, the one who always tagged along behind her sisters. But today, when they were 18 months old, she stood up and declared herself among the select circle of "quints" who can walk.

Marie was crawling on the Dafoe hospital floor when her mother and father, Elzire and Oliva Dionne, dropped in from their farmhouse across the road to watch the youngsters celebrate their 18th month "birthday." Marie stood and walked five steps in her mother's direction.

"La petite peut enfin marcher," cried Mrs. Dionne [the little one can walk at last]. It was Marie's first real walk, although she had taken a step or two before. Her sisters, Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, and Emilie, all are toddling about every day. Marie may yet outstrip her sisters in one respect. None of them has yet spoken an intelligible word, but Marie coos or grumbles quite eloquently.

TRIPLETS AND 3 SETS OF TWINS IN ONE FAMILY

Whitesburg, Ky., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—George Melton, 38, farmer of the Buckhorn creek section, boasts of a record family today, especially for one of his age. His wife gave birth to triplets last night—two girls and a boy. They now have 16 children, including three sets of twins. There are five boys and eleven girls, all husky mountain youngsters, in the family. The wife is 34. They were married young, "but got an early start," in the words of the happy father.

"There's no stopping me," Melton continued. "There'll be a large family of us before it is over with. I contemplate 21, possibly 23. My father's list stood at 27 and I have always said that I could at least do as well as dad."

Edward Causes Himself Some Needless Trouble

Edward Caldwell, 16 years old, 5423 Brookbank road, Downers Grove, forgot that yesterday was Thanksgiving. On Wednesday he decided he didn't want to go to school for the rest of the week, so he bicycled to Evanston and told the police there that he was lost. His father called for him yesterday and informed him there is no school until Monday. "I never thought of that," Edward said.

POLICE TO OPEN WAR ON TRAFIC NOISE NUISANCE

Exhaust Muffler Law to Be Strictly Enforced.

BY HAL FOUST.

Capt. David Flynn, head of the police trafic division, yesterday promised relief from unmuffled and inadequately muffled exhausts of automobile, motorcycle, and truck engines. During the month starting Sunday his motorcycle men and accident prevention squads are to give more attention to this noise nuisance.

These trafic patrolmen have been picking up violators of the muffler laws occasionally, but offenders are still common. Trucks and motorcycles seem to be the worst offenders. Any motorist, on a routine drive between home and office, can note one or more noisy exhausts.

Mufflers Required by Law.

It is not Capt. Flynn's idea that the motorcycle and accident squad men should neglect their other duties to arrest muffler violators, but while patroling trafic it takes only a minute of a policeman's time to issue a summons for a noisy exhaust. City ordinance and state statute require all motor vehicles to be equipped with adequate mufflers.

Since Nov. 1 the following defendants have each paid $2 fines in the "cafeteria" Trafic court for infractions of this law:

Edward Cavanaugh—2931 North Talman avenue.
Ben Levin—1946 Cortland street.
Frank Hodky—1445 Mohawk street.
George Simonsen—3073 Burling street.
Harry Lemmer—834 Hinman avenue, Evanston.
John Alzier—1921 Sunnyside avenue.

SAFETY COUNCIL GIVES WARNING OF HOLIDAY SEASON TRAFIC PERILS

During the month of December 56 persons will die and 1,920 persons will be seriously injured in trafic accidents, the Chicago Safety council estimated yesterday. The council said these figures could be materially lowered. It made the following suggestions:

If you must load your arms with bundles, try to carry them low enough so as not to obscure vision.

Don't rush headlong into a stream of motor trafic while thinking of what presents you must buy.

Pedestrians will find themselves moving faster and with less risk if they will await the proper signal from policemen or stop and go lights.

Don't try to get on or off a moving vehicle. If you do, this Christmas may be your last one.

2 Others Seriously Hurt at Crossing.

Sibley, Ia., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Four members of an Iowa farm family were killed and two others were seriously injured today when a Rock Island passenger train struck their automobile at a crossing near Sibley.

The dead:
John Schmidt, 42, Sibley.
Mrs. Schmidt, 36, Sibley.
Two daughters, Arlene, 13, and Marlyn, 2.

A son, Roger, 16, and a daughter, Margery, 18, were taken to a Sibley hospital where physicians said their condition was serious.

Blame Slippery Pavement.

The Schmidt family, which lived nine miles southeast of here, was driving into Sibley when the accident occurred. The train crashed into the center of the automobile, demolishing it.

The paved highway was slippery from a light snow and it was presumed the car skidded when Schmidt applied the brakes in an effort to avert the crash.

Three Killed, Six Hurt in Crash.

Jackson, Mo., Nov. 28.—(AP)—A man, his wife, and their infant son were killed and six persons were injured today in an automobile collision 13 miles west of here.

The dead:
Paul Hoffmann, St. Louis.
His wife, Mrs. Marie Hoffmann.
John Paul, 3 months old.

Milo Parker, Hartford, Ill., driver of the other car, and five passengers were taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital by a bus. Parker suffered a fractured right arm, William Elsperman, 15, son of Mrs. H. C. Elsperman of Van Duser, Mo., suffered a broken arm, and his 13 year old brother, Edgar, a broken wrist.

Mrs. Elsperman, Raymond Meredith, and Miss Dorothy Martin, the latter two of Hartford, were cut and bruised.

Three Die in Crash.

Killed in Ambulance After Being Hurt in Earlier Crash

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Edward Oftel, 30, Cambridge, Minn., was killed today while riding in an ambulance which collided with an automobile while he was being taken to a hospital after a previous car crash.

DRIVER IS KILLED AND 7 INJURED IN MOTOR COLLISION

2 Small Children Among Victims of Crash.

Ray Logan Bachtel, 27 years old, 150 North 20th avenue, Maywood, was killed and four men riding with him were injured yesterday when their automobile was struck and overturned by another car at 17th avenue and 31st street in La Grange Park. Erwin Meier, 19 years old, 1302 South Schofield avenue, Berwyn, driver of the other car, and two children who were riding with him were also injured.

Bachtel and his party were bound for New Lenox, six miles east of Joliet, on a holiday hunting trip and were traveling south in 17th avenue when the accident occurred. According to the police, Meier failed to halt for a stop street as he drove west in 31st street.

List of Injured in Crash.

Those injured in Bachtel's car were his brother, Leroy, 32 years old; Harold P. Valch, 23 years old, and his father, Albert, 55, both of 17 North 8th avenue, Maywood, and Nick Pascellino, 28, of 4101 Carroll avenue, Chicago. With Meier in his car were his nephew and niece, Robert Meier, 4 years old, and Elizabeth Meier, 6, both of 1043 Home avenue, Oak Park.

All were treated at the Berwyn hospital and Leroy Bachtel and Pascellino were allowed to return home.

A radiator cap from a Pontiac automobile was the only clew the police could find to the automobile which ran down and killed Robert Roberts, 73 years old, 7046 Eberhart avenue, at 102d street and Commercial avenue shortly before midnight last night. Roberts and a companion, John F. Anderson, 56 years old, 1530 East 87th street, got off a street car, walked around it, and were run down by the auto, which did not stop.

Roberts was instantly killed. Anderson was severely injured and was taken to the South Chicago hospital. Roberts was an engineer for the Rosenbaum grain elevators, 102d street and the Calumet river. Anderson is employed by the same concern. Witnesses were unable to give a description of the auto, but police found the radiator cap at the scene and hope to trace it.

The light from these lamps does not strain the eyes. Each is designed to furnish plenty of soft light for every seeing need. Five Reasons Why These Lamps Give Better Light

1. Reflector is translucent, gives adequate soft, glareless, direct light to avoid eye strain.
2. Reflector throws light upwards, reduces contrasts, gives soft, general illumination.
3. New lighting principle—100—200—300 watts from the same bulb.
4. Shade is lined with "light reflecting" material.
5. Shade is wide enough to distribute light over whole working area.

SIX DIE IN FIRE SET BY BLAST; 11 ARE INJURED

Apartment Building Razed by Flames.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Police and firemen, after an exhaustive search, expressed belief tonight that six dead and eleven injured accounted for all the victims of a gas explosion which converted a two story apartment building into a flaming death trap early today.

Among the dead was Mrs. Belle Stephens, 78, believed by firemen to have lighted a match near a leaky gas stove that caused the explosion.

Victims of Tragedy.

Other dead: Dewitt C. Turbeville, Fort Worth, 81; Mrs. Dewitt Turbeville, about 78; Mrs. Lola Kirby, 24; Howard Kirby, 2; Miss Ozelle Hollingsworth, 18.

The Turbevilles had just prepared a happy Thanksgiving dinner provided by friends whose basket of food replenished a larder down to one onion and two apples.

Miss Margaret Agnew White, a friend, told how she and others had provided the couple with a "basket of food, enough to last them for several days."

Tells Story of Explosion.

Mrs. Cary Cashion, sister of Mrs. Stephens, sobbed out the story of the tragedy:

"Belle always tended the stove. I got up and went into the kitchen and Belle got up to light the fire in the bedroom. Then I heard an explosion and saw a flash. I managed to get out the back door somehow."

Mrs. Stephens, her clothing in flames, was blown into the hall. C. S. Slater, who lived across the hall, beat out her blazing dress and carried her outside, but she died of burns in a hospital later.

Fire Marshal Ligon said an investigation showed leaky connections on a gas stove in Mrs. Stephens' room.

Bodies Found in Hall.

Huddled at the end of a second floor "blind" hallway firemen found the bodies of Mrs. Kirby, Miss Hollingsworth and the Kirby child. Near by the bodies of the Turbevilles were found in their room.

Mrs. Jesse Bowden, 60, trapped upstairs, leaped from her window and ran to a back fence. Rescuers were forced to tear down the fence to move the terrified woman to a hospital. She suffered a fractured skull and burns.

Miss Ruth Bellen, 29, was treated for a fractured spine and burns, and Mrs. Minnie Robinson, 49, suffered a fractured skull.

4 Die in Farm Fire.

Beaumont, Tex., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Eddie Vayon, 40, tenant farmer, and three small daughters, were burned to death in a farmhouse fire late today resulting from a gasoline explosion.

The children were Lillian, 10; Margaret, about 3, and Anna, 1 month old.

Vayon and his family were moving into the house and had drenched the plain board walls of a front room with gasoline to clean them. Heat from embers in a stove ignited the fumes and caused an explosion.

The children were asleep on a bed in the room. The father rushed in to save them. Mrs. Vayon grabbed at his clothes through a window but he tore loose and disappeared into the interior.

AUTO INJURIES KILL WOMAN.

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Injured in an automobile accident near here, Tuesday morning, Mrs. V. S. Moore, 29, of Manhattan, Kan., and formerly of Sterling, Ill., died last night at a local hospital. Her husband is a CCC camp lieutenant at Bradley, Mo.

TWICE PAROLED, CONVICT SEEKS LIBERTY 3D TIME

Potential Police Killer Gets Hearing Monday.

Twice previously paroled after he had been convicted on charges of robbery with a gun, Sarsfield Horan, 32 years old, Chicago robber, will seek his third parole at a meeting Monday of the state board of pardons and paroles at Joliet. Horan is now serving a sentence of 1 to 14 years on a charge of assault to kill a Chicago policeman.

Horan's scheduled parole hearing was disclosed yesterday through the receipt of a letter from the board by Policeman Hugh Olsen, the complaining witness in the case. The letter requested that Olsen express his attitude on granting freedom to Horan, either by appearing at the hearing or by letter.

Fourteen Year Criminal Record.

Police records at the detective bureau revealed that Horan has spent most of the last 14 years in prison, except for two brief periods when the parole board cut short his sentence and placed him back on the street. In each instance, the record shows, he was rearrested within a few months on other robbery charges and returned to the penitentiary.

Horan's criminal record dates back to Jan. 25, 1921, when he was first convicted of robbery and sentenced to the Pontiac reformatory. Two years later, on Dec. 15, 1923, he was granted his first parole. Within three months he was rearrested, and on April 17, 1924, pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery and was again returned to Pontiac. Six other robbery charges were stricken from the record.

Paroled a Second Time.

In 1925 he was transferred to Joliet penitentiary, where he remained until Dec. 22, 1933, when he received his second parole. A year later, on Dec. 6, 1934, he was found guilty on the assault charge and sentenced to serve 1 to 14 years in prison.

Horan's last conviction resulted from an attempt to kill Policeman Olsen when Horan and two companions, riding in a stolen auto, sought to escape from a police squad.

Fires on Fallen Policeman.

As Horan jumped from the car Policeman Olsen gave chase, but stumbled and fell to the ground. As the policeman fell Horan turned and fired five shots at him. Horan escaped, but was captured by police three days later.

Ellis Cox, secretary of the board, explained yesterday that, although Horan's plea will be heard by the board, he did not think any action would be taken. Under the law, he declared, all prisoners are entitled to a hearing before the board after they have served the minimum of their sentence.

FIND STUTTERING BY 24 ENDS WHEN THEY WALK ON ALL FOURS

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Twenty-four stutterers have shown marked improvement, even to a complete cessation of their disability, when they spoke while walking on all fours. This strange new phenomenon, for which no explanation has so far been discovered, is reported in the current issue of Science, official organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The results, which may throw new light on the mechanism of stuttering, were obtained in a series of two dozen cases studied this summer in the laboratory of biolingulstics, University of Michigan, by Hazle Geniesse, author of the report.

"When the stutterer assumed this position," the report states, "the absence of speech rhythm and lack of coördination decreased."

In an effort to explain the phenomenon the report presents a theory on the cause and mechanism of stuttering which, if corroborated by supplementary researches, may open up new avenues in the treatment and elimination of speech defects.

KILLED IN FEED MILL.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—James Chambers, 59, operator of a feed mill at St. Francisville, Ill., was killed late yesterday afternoon when he was caught in the machinery while adjusting a belt on a corn sheller.

MYSTERY BLONDE HUNTED IN CRASH OF GIFT FUND CAR

Investigators yesterday were seeking to determine identity of a young woman who early Thursday demanded of the police that they release Lawrence Ross, 32 years old, 3300 Lake Shore drive, shortly after his arrest for driving an automobile into a safety island at Michigan avenue and Monroe street. The car was loaned to the city for use in the Christmas fund drive.

The young woman asserted that both she and Ross were employed by the Christmas fund. Later it was learned that Ross, at least, was not known to officials of the fund. Whether the woman told the truth regarding her own status remains to be determined. City investigators also were seeking to determine how Ross got possession of the car.

Ross is to appear before Municipal Judge Eugene Holland tomorrow on a charge of reckless driving. He lives in an apartment rented by Joseph A. Rosenberg. Mr. Rosenberg last night refused to give any information about Ross or his whereabouts.

CHOIR SINGER DIES TODAY FOR WIFE SLAYING

Fort Madison, Ia., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Reginald Tracy, former choir singer convicted of plotting the murder of his wife, sat on a prison cell cot tonight awaiting the march to the gallows tomorrow morning.

Guards served him a Thanksgiving dinner of chicken tonight but reported his "appetite didn't seem to be so good."

Tracy's elderly mother, who a month ago pleaded futilely with Gov. Clyde L. Herring to save her son's life, came from Manchester today to bid him good-by.

Mrs. Flossie Fear, 33, and Tracy confessed they hired a former convict, Adolph Berg, to kill Mrs. Tracy during a faked holdup Oct. 4, 1934. Mrs. Fear is serving a life sentence at Rockwell City women's reformatory. Berg is a fugitive.

FIND MEANS TO TAKE PAIN FROM TOOTH DRILLING

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Finding at last of a substance which makes the dentist's drill a painless instrument was announced here today by Columbia university.

The new substance, which, it was stated, will materially affect the practice of dentistry, was discovered after twenty years of research by Dr. Leroy L. Hartman, professor of dentistry. The substance, described as a "desensitizer," as yet without an official name, is a solution applied to the surface of the tooth. It not only prevents pain, it was stated, "but offers the possibility of saving teeth now lost through extraction."

The desensitizer, Dr. Hartman revealed, is based on a new theory of pain and the recognition of a previously unknown substance in the dentine of the teeth. The price of the chemical will be controled by the university to make it available to all.

BRAZIL SMASHES RED REVOLT; 138 SLAIN IN FIGHTING

1,300 Rebellious Soldiers Seized as Rebels.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Brazilian government today announced the complete suppression of a communist inspired revolt and said 138 persons were killed in the four days of savage fighting.

The nation was rapidly returning to normalcy, although a "state of siege" is in existence.

President Getulio Vargas advised governors of the various states that estimates of the dead in the states of Rio Grande do Norte and Pernambuco totaled 100 and officials said 38 were killed here when a revolt was smashed yesterday.

Eighteen soldiers died in fighting around the barracks of the Praia Vermelha [Red Beach] and 20 others were slain when federal aviators bombarded the aviation school.

76 Treated for Wounds.

Among those killed here were six army officers, 15 sergeants, and one civilian. A survey of Rio de Janeiro hospitals showed 76 persons were taken to hospitals for treatment of wounds.

With the situation apparently well in hand, the federal government sought to arrest more socialist plotters. Some 1,300 soldiers of the regular army are under arrest and 300 of them have been taken to the Isle of Flores, near the capital, for safekeeping.

The revolt, which was strongest in the north, broke out among non-commissioned army officers. Those arrested face court-martials.

In Natal, which was captured from the rebels yesterday, a hunt was being pressed for hundreds of rebels.

Hails Defeat of Reds.

President Vargas, it is declared, intends to enact a law discharging all naval and army officers having "communistic ideas." In an interview the president said:

"The swiftness and efficiency with which military forces dominated the communistic elements, as well as the irrepressible hostility of the civil population against conjurers, comes to show once again how extremist doctrins and their methods of bloody violence constitute the antithesis of the Brazilian soul and feeling.

"Communism is an exotic plant which never will take root in our society. A people which has religious traditions, traditions of country and family as ours has, could never identify its political and human destinies with a barbaric ideology which fanatics of the Russian creed wish to implant in Brazil.

"The army, as always, rose to its mission. The revolt, which produced in the armed classes the cruel, perverse sacrifice of several officers full of youth, patriotism, and professional devotion, holds within itself the best testimony that they refused to follow comrades misled into the communist adventure."

HUERTA RETURNS TO MEXICO; ENDS 11 YEARS IN EXILE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Eleven years of exile ended today for Adolfo de la Huerta, president of Mexico in 1922. More than 500 persons greeted him at the railway station on his arrival. He came from Los Angeles, Cal., where he has spent many years as a teacher of singing.

De la Huerta was forced to flee to the United States after he fought unsuccessfully against Gen. Alvaro Obregon in the 1924 revolution.

The former president insisted his visit "has no political connections," but there were rumors he is to be offered a government position by his friend, President Lazaro Cardenas.

Statistician Declares State Owes $16,741,791 to Schools

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The state of Illinois owes its public school system a total of $16,741,791, according to a statement issued here tonight by L. R. Grimm, research statistician for the Illinois State Teachers' association.

The deficits were itemized by Grimm as follows: State property taxes that should have been turned over to the schools by the state school distributive fund in 1931, 1932, and 1933, $6,708,539; due the Chicago board of education in compensation for teaching the blind, deaf and delinquent, $2,384,256; due other school districts for excess costs of teaching handicapped children, $440,662; shortage in the payments that should have been made to the schools by the distributive fund in the two years ending June 30, 1935, $7,000,000; and shortage in the distributive fund payments since July 1, $208,333.

$7,000,000 to Relief.

Grimm asserted that for the two year period ending last June the legislature appropriated $21,000,000 for the schools, but that for the first eight months of the twenty-four the money went to relief purposes; this accounting for the $7,000,000 item.

"Although the law directed the governor, the state auditor, and the state treasurer to fix a state property tax to raise such part of the $21,000,000 as was not derived from sales tax transfers, these officials refused to do their duty," Grimm declared.

Sees Little Hope of Payment.

It was the statisticians opinion that a large part of the more than $6,000,000 due prior to June, 1933, would never be paid because the delinquent taxes from which it would have to be drawn will neyer be paid. Further, he alleged that the school tax rate was fixed too low in those years to produce the entire amount due the schools under the legislative appropriation.

Grimm averred that he had no political ax to grind in the matter, but that he wished to correct "inaccuracies and implications" in a letter recently sent by Gov. Horner to H. E. Thornton of the Rockford Chamber of Commerce. The governor was quoted as stating, in this letter, that state aid to schools in the four years ending June 30, 1932, was $26,771,024, and that in the four years ending June 30, 1936, the state aid would total $56,230,086.

MOTHER'S MILK DATA LACKING, NEW DEAL SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Nobody knows how many nursing mothers there are in the country. This is the latest complaint of the New Deal social planners, who claim that the lack of information hampers their study of the milk industry.

Possible competition between nursing mothers and the lowly cow is what worries the New Dealers, and they set forth their plight in a section of the NRA consumers' division report on the milk industry. This section was not disclosed in the official summary released to newspapers but came to light today. It read in part:

"When we speak of milk we mean 'cow's milk.' However, there is a small amount of goat's milk consumed . . . but the amount is so small as to be negligible. A large source of supply generally ignored in estimates of milk consumption is mother's milk. Surprisingly enough, very little is known about the amount of this delicacy consumed."

AIR PASSENGERS WILL SEND EXTRA BAGGAGE BY RAIL

Major Plane Lines Plan Added Service Free.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Passengers riding the major airlines of the United States soon will be allowed to carry not only 35 pounds of baggage on the plane they ride, the present weight limit, but will also be able to send an additional 100 pounds of baggage to their destinations by railway express without extra charge.

This will be made possible when express agencies and transport operators conclude details of a tentative agreement reached in a series of conferences here during the last two weeks, it became known yesterday. The new baggage arrangements probably will be put into effect on the transcontinental lines about Jan. 1, the same time the new credit system which makes it possible to obtain 15 per cent reductions on one way fares is installed.

The proposal to increase the weight of baggage which airline passengers may send without extra charge was made to the operators during a recent conference when the organization of the new air transport trade association was approved. It constitutes a part of the broad program undertaken by the operators to stimulate travel over the commercial airways.

Weight Limit Protested.

For years passengers traveling the lines have complained that the 35 pound limitation prevented them from carrying on an airplane journey more than the bare essentials for a two or three day jaunt.

Many other travelers, particularly those who planned to take cruises or ocean voyages, avoided the airlines when traveling in the United States because of the ruling by the airline operators that they must pay what many considered exorbitant charges when more than 35 pounds of luggage was carried.

Seeking new business among such travelers the lines have sought out the railway express agencies. Bargaining over rates has consumed some time but now, according to some of the airline officials, the railway express authorities have offered rates for airline travelers' baggage which will make it possible for the lines to give this service without extra charge.

Send Baggage Ahead.

It is planned that the airline traveler who must carry with him the extra 100 pounds of baggage will send this to his destination from one to two days ahead of his own departure by plane. The luggage will be picked up at his home and delivered without any charge although railway passengers who are allowed 150 pounds on a ticket must pay for the hauling of their baggage to and from railway stations.

According to those present in the conferences the lines will offer this service on a limited scale at first.

Opens Fire After Quarrel Over Dog's Barking; Seized

The barking and howling of a police dog owned by Anton Lenzinger, 39 years old, 820 Leland avenue, a mechanic, annoyed other tenants in the building. Last night the janitor, Theodore Therault, knocked on Mr. Lenzinger's back door and told him, "You'll have to do something about that dog." A quarrel followed. Lenzinger went inside and returned with a pistol. He fired four shots into the porch ceiling. Therault called police, who jailed Lenzinger.

Ask Death Penalty

Edwardsville, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Death penalties for two 15 year old Edwardsville boys will be asked by State's Attorney Lester Geers in the Madison county Circuit court here, he said today, after they had made confessions in which each admitted his part in the killing of John C. Higgins, deputy county treasurer, early Tuesday morning. The boys also admitted beating Margie, 7 year old daughter of Higgins.

"This is an extremely aggravating case," said Geers, "and it is my intention to ask the supreme penalty."

The boys who confessed are Everett Rambo and James Jarrett, member of the freshman class of the high school. Geers said it has been established that Rambo beat the child and also fired the fatal shot. He said that Jarrett entered the home with Rambo but retreated as the girl cried while she was being beaten.

Rambo had previously implicated himself and charged Jarrett with firing the shot. Jarrett denied having any part in the killing until yesterday, when he made his first admissions.

The amount of money taken was small, said George Grosshans, superintendent of the company.

UNCONSCIOUS MIND IS KEY TO SHIRLEY TEMPLE

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Shirley Temple is just an ordinary little girl, "except for her unconscious mind, and the mystery of how it functions probably never will be fully understood," Dr. Neil D. Warren, university psychologist, said today.

Dr. Warren watched the six year old at work and at play, used portions of the Binet I-Q tests on her, and played "brain-teasers" with her.

The conclusions he reached are:

"Consciously, she is an ordinary child, naive, sweet tempered, highly perceptive, with a well developed memory.

Unconsciously a Genius.

"Unconsciously, she is a genius, with a native and unreasoning grasp of the requirements of her work; she acts without being aware she is acting.

"An unusual case of dual personality, in which the unconscious is developed far beyond what we think of as normal."

He said part of her success could be explained by the deep interest she has in her work, comparing her to the American boy who is an expert on baseball.

In her games Shirley is no different from any other little girl, he said. Her imagination operates normally with dolls, as when she is "playing house," and she establishes perfectly normal relations with her playmates.

Observes Her on Set.

Observing her actions on the "set," Dr. Warren was struck, he said, by her ability to take direction while apparently oblivious to the director.

It was a scene from "Captain January." Perched high on a platform, far from the camera and the director, Shirley continued to play with her little stand-in, Mary Lou Eislib, all the time directions were shouted to her.

Finally the cameras started. Although Shirley had given little indication of having heard, she played a complicated scene, in which dance steps were interspersed with dialog lines, with perfect precision.

"Her unconscious was aware of the directions, even though she consciously wasn't paying much attention," Dr. Warren said. "That is probably a key to her whole psychological setup."

JUDGE TO SEEK FACTS FIRST IN RECEIVER QUIZ

Questionnaires Will Go to All Concerned.

The first definite step toward straightening out the chaotic conditions that have kept Cook county receivership cases dragging in the courts for years will be taken within the next few days, Superior Judge Walter P. Steffen declared yesterday. Judge Steffen has been assigned to make a complete investigation of an estimated 50,000 receiverships and work out a procedure that will not only keep the courts constantly informed of the status of each case but will speed the cases through the courts to settlement.

The first step must necessarily be to learn what cases are pending and to get accurate, up to date histories of them, said Judge Steffen, who has been relieved of ordinary courtroom duties for 90 days to complete his task. To obtain this information and to uncover instances of suspected defalcations, the judge is preparing questionnaires to be sent out as fast as possible to receivers and to the originators of foreclosure litigations.

History of Cases Demanded.

The receivers will be required to give specific foreclosure histories of their respective properties, a financial accounting, an explanation of their lack of progress in disposing of the cases, and explanations if reports have not been made every three months, in accordance with chancery court rules.

The originators of foreclosure litigations, usually bondholders or creditors, will be required to state what efforts they have made to make progress in their suits, to bring the properties to sale, or to coöperate in reorganization plans.

Intimating that there is evidence that instances of defalcations exist, similar to the recent $10,000 shortage in the accounts of Receiver Daniel W. Cahill, Judge Steffen stated such discoveries will be followed by summary contempt of court action, or action by the grand jury. [Cahill was indicted and is in the custody of the state's attorney's office.]

No Properties to Lose.

No properties will suffer from any money shortages, since all receivers are bonded, the judge asserted, adding that the company which bonded Cahill, who held 21 receiverships, has notified him it stands ready to make good the defalcation as soon as the exact amount is determined.

Commenting on the receivership tangle, Judge Steffen declared the receivers and lawyers representing receivers, owners, and creditors are to blame. Judges, he said, are so taken up with their regular routine of court business that they have had to depend upon receivers and attorneys to bring foreclosure matters to their attention. He criticized especially the laxity of receivers in making periodic reports:

"The rules of the courts require reports by receivers every three months. We know numerous instances where no reports have been made for three or four years. In addition the reports made are woefully inadequate. The new procedure we are working out will put a stop to that careless handling of receiverships once and for all."

NEW QUAKES HIT HELENA; LITTLE DAMAGE IS DONE

Helena, Mont., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Earth shocks that ranked in intensity with the major tremors of a few weeks ago jolted Helena today, but the city escaped serious damage.

The jars started at 8:41 a. m. Chicago time, extended over a 250 mile radius, and were recorded for 10 to 15 seconds here. Weather bureau officials called them the fourth most severe in the series of 1,052 earth movements felt in Helena since Oct. 12.

Damage was confined, however, to weakening some of the buildings torn by previous shocks.

Helena newspapers said reports from Great Falls and Butte termed the quakes today the hardest felt so far at those cities. Great Falls is about 100 miles north and Butte about 70 miles southwest.

MRS. SALISBURY IS THROWN FROM HORSE IN HUNT

Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, 1415 Astor street, was knocked unconscious yesterday when her mount fell in taking a post and rail jump as she was riding with the Mill Creek Hunt club near Milburn, in Lake county.

She was carried into the clubhouse by other members of the hunt and was attended there by Dr. Theodore Proxmire of Lake Forest. After being revived Mrs. Salisbury who had suffered painful bruises, decided that she felt well enough to go home rather than to a hospital. Her fall was on the last of 55 jumps on the hunt course.

Two other riders also were thrown from their mounts, but were not seriously hurt. They are Miss Jean Schweppe, daughter of Charles H. Schweppe, and J. Sanford Otis.

BRITAIN MOVES TO HALT JAPAN IN NORTH CHINA

May Seek Aid of U. S. in Protest to Tokio.

Americans out on a limb in 1931-'32, when the Japanese invaded Manchuria and Henry L. Stimson, as secretary of state, with his high powered notes, discovered the British were not backing him on the interpretation of the nine power treaty which he had invoked.

[The nine power treaty was signed Feb. 4, 1922, by the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, China, the Netherlands, Belgium, and Portugal. The signatories pledged to respect the sovereignty, independence, and administrative integrity of China, to provide the fullest opportunity for China to develop stable government, and to maintain the "open door."]

Britain now wants to assure the United States this will not happen again. The London Evening Standard quite admits Britain seeks to give this assurance. Commenting on the Japanese maneuvering, it says:

"Here Great Britain's burden is lightened by the fact that we have the opportunity of coöperating with the United States. This is Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare's task."

Hear Uprising Looms in Italy.

Thus it is quite evident that Japan's movement in China completely overshadows Premier Mussolini's threats of a possible war in Europe. According to private advices here, Mussolini's mysterious movements of troops in connection with his threat to resist an oil embargo with his army if necessary were a bluff and that actually he was facing a big political explosion at home.

According to information here, the Italians are in a state of great unrest. In some quarters it is said Mussolini is nervous and depressed and fears there may be an uprising against him. The latest news is that he would welcome any honorable peace in his war against Ethiopia.

The danger that Il Duce might grow desperate and start shooting up the Mediterranean was mildly reflected in a meeting of a subcommittee of Stanley Baldwin's cabinet. The committee, it was announced, discussed what the British should do to meet immediately the pressing problems of sanctions and their relationship with the United States—a relationship which is also causing some worries here.

Seek to Curb U. S.

After having gotten President Roosevelt's government committed to sanctions, the British now have the problem of devising a plan to keep the United States from going ahead with the oil embargo. Such an embargo from the British viewpoint is no longer expedient, since the general applications of oil sanctions might drive Mussolini wild and create a big job for the British in the Mediterranean at a time when the British fleet is anxious to get to Singapore.

So it appears that Sir Ronald Lindsay, ambassador to the United States, will shortly pay another visit to the state department to discuss the matter.

British Request Explanation.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The British government instructed its embassy in Tokio today to inquire into Japan's intentions in view of the secession movement in north China and to remind her of the existence of the nine power treaty.

The British diplomatic action came swiftly after the news the Japanese had occupied stations along the North China railway.

Polite inquiry of Tokio does not mean, of course, that the British are invoking the nine power pact or preparing to do so. The British have "reminded" the Japanese of its existence several times before, notably during the conquest of Manchuria and the fighting in Shanghai in 1932 without taking further action.

Chinese Troops Revolt.

TIENTSIN, China, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Japanese reports said today a Chinese garrison had rebelled against the Chinese national government and was marching northward to join a campaign of secession. The reports aroused fears of bloodshed in the northern autonomy movement.

Japanese said 700 Chinese troops had deserted at Tsangchow, 50 miles south of Tientsin, and were proceeding to join the independence movement. Autonomy has already been declared in 25 counties, most of them in eastern Hopeh province.

Meanwhile, more Japanese troops arrived here.

Three thousand Japanese troops are stationed in Tientsin and strung communication lines connecting with Tangku, where two Japanese destroyers have anchored.

Chinese forces were withdrawn from the Tientsin-Peiping area.

Japan is rushing a huge air base to completion, and when it is finished 50 airplanes will arrive for "maneuvers," Cheng Keh, the mayor of Tientsin, announced.

Talk of War Crops Up.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 28.—(AP)—War talk cropped up throughout central China today as a result of Japanese military operations in north China.

Informed sources said the Japanese military movements had gone so far that little possibility remained of a compromise with the Nanking central government in the crisis arising from the north China autonomy movement.

Japanese disapproval of Nanking's program for reforms in northern provinces and the Chinese government's emphatic denouncement of the autonomy program apparently reduced hope of amity between Nanking and the north should the Japanese army press its activities.

WALDORF URGES U. S. TO BE THANKFUL FOR AN ACCURATE PRESS

The nation has cause to be thankful for a growing interest in peace and public health, and a public press which makes accurate information readily available, Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf, Methodist bishop of Chicago, yesterday told more than 2,000 Methodists at the Chicago temple. Bishop Waldorf called attention to the advance of science and "freedom of the gospel" as additional reasons to be thankful.

"Above all," he said, "I thank God for a newsgathering system that enables us to learn with accuracy each morning what is going on somewhere on the other side of the world."

More than 1,000 persons attended a community Thanksgiving service at 11 a. m. at the University of Chicago chapel, in which fifteen churches participated. A thanks offering was collected for the United Charities and the south side child guidance center.

Seven Protestant churches participated in a community service at the Woodlawn Lutheran church.

MUSICAL BANDIT IN OHIO PRISON REPAYS VICTIMS

Cleveland, O., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Five Cleveland families received Thanksgiving greetings in the forms of checks today from Joseph Russell, who is serving a term of fifty-five years in Ohio penitentiary.

The checks, totaling $90.60, were sent to persons who were victims of Russell's depredations eight years ago when he was known to police as "Specs," the "goggles bandit," and a very troublesome person.

Philip Segel, a butcher, received a check for $20, the amount he turned over to Russell in 1927. Alex Pram, who once operated a small confectionery store, received $20. A. C. Stevenson received $10.60, the amount he lost in the robbery of a drug store in 1927. Two other $20 checks were distributed, one to Mrs. Margaret Stasz, another to H. W. Chapman.

Russell went to prison in 1927 when he was 19. He could play a trombone and became soloist in the prison orchestra. He earned the money by writing articles for a music magazine.

FIGHT EXPECTED OVER EFFORT TO BALANCE BUDGET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The announced objective of Chairman James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.] of the house appropriations committee to come within half a billion dollars of balancing the 1937 budget is expected to arouse heated debate in the next session of congress.

Buchanan is one of the most powerful Democrats in the house and he is known to have been in disagreement with the administration spending program. While he refused to make the flat statement, his friends declared that he and President Roosevelt exchanged heated words in arguing over the next budget in their recent conference at Warm Springs, Ga.

Hopes for Accord.

"I hope," Buchanan said today, "that the President and I will get together, though I doubt that I will get all I want because I am pretty extreme on budget balancing."

This statement was the tipoff on the attitude of many Democratic leaders. Their views do not differ much from those of leading Republicans who have assailed extravagances of the administration. Many Democrats are as much appalled at New Deal spending as their opponents, but are barred from talking by political considerations.

President Roosevelt has not made public his views on future relief expenditures, but the large group of congressmen whom he controls are said to be prepared to fight for large appropriations or the theory that the government must continue its relief program until after the 1936 elections.

Opposes Relief Dole.

Buchanan presented the opposite view with an assertion that private industry gradually would absorb the unemployed and that the government should get out of the business of caring for the idle.

The Texan's prediction that President Roosevelt would not ask for more than a billion dollars for relief during the next fiscal year was discounted by many observers. Their opinions were that Mr. Roosevelt will ask congress for 2 billions at least.

2 FOOTBALL PLAYERS ABSOLVED IN MORALS QUIZ AT ARKANSAS U.

Fayetteville, Ark., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Dean W. N. Gladson, acting president of the University of Arkansas, today announced the exoneration of two of four members of the football team who had been implicated with other students in charges of "gross immorality" following a fraternity house party three weeks ago.

Dean Gladson yesterday disclosed the expulsion of seven men students and said others were being investigated.

"The charges involved gross immorality," he said, asserting the university would make public no names, but that the matter concerned "an affair at a fraternity house the night before homecoming day."

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. # BORAH WARNS OF NEED FOR CARE IN WAR POLICY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—A warning that the administration must proceed cautiously in any move to strengthen present neutrality laws was sounded by Senator Borah, senior member of the senate foreign relations committee.

In a statement, Senator Borah declared that any move, whether in congress or outside, that might be interpreted as supporting league sanctions was likely to embroil the United States in European difficulties and dangers, but he indorsed the administration's policy of holding exports to belligerents down to a normal peace basis.

Speaking of the administration's reported plan to ask the next congress for stronger neutrality laws, the Idahoan warned that "this is a matter in which the American people are vitally concerned—we have found from experience that we sometimes get into war by trying to keep out," he said.

SOMETHING CAN BE DONE ABOUT IT.

The traction fund in the city's keeping has a face value of about 66 million dollars. Fifteen per cent of it is in cash or highly liquid assets. The rest is invested in tax anticipation warants, running as far back as 1928. Some of the warants—particularly the older ones—are of doubtful value because tax delinquencies have been high and are still high.

As matters stand it seems probable that 10 or 15 millions and perhaps more must now be written off as lost. Unless tax collections improve the rest of the fund will gradually be exhausted in financing city and school deficits. The fund was accumulated at the expense of car riders for the improvement of the transportation services of the city. Instead, it has been used to subsidize the goverments and is gradually being frittered away. Probably the fact that the traction fund was and is there to be drawn upon explains in considerable measure the reluctance of tax collecting officials to act energetically in recent years.

The traction fund ought to be put to work for the purposes for which it was collected. Local transportation in Chicago is wretched, not because the managements of the existing lines are incompetent but because the facilities are grossly inadequate. There are not enough rails, not enough cars and buses to handle the trafic. The buses, which carry only 2 per cent of the total number of passengers, constitute the only wholly new facility which Chicago has received in a quarter of a century. In addition, the Illinois Central's suburban lines have been electrified and a few elevated and surface line extensions have been made, but together they do not begin to meet the accumulated need. There is no city in the western world of anything like Chicago's size and importance which is so inadequately served.

For the present at least there is no reason to expect the investment of additional private capital in large amounts. The elevated lines are in receivership. They have never paid a dividend on their common stock and all the underlying securities are in default. The financial situation of the surface lines, which are also in receivership, is a little better, but not enough better to attract much new capital. The proposed consolidation of all the transportation services in a single company, with a new charter, may invite new capital, but no one can feel very hopeful about the prospect.

The 50 million dollars, more or less, of good assets in the traction fund remain therefore as the only certain means of buying additional local transportation facilities for this community. Fifty million dollars is not enough to complete a thorough job, but it will permit a substantial start. The city administration and the council committee on local transportation should be at work now, determining where that money can be spent to best advantage in the light of immediate needs and with a view to fitting the 50 million dollar program into a comprehensive plan of improvements. Perhaps the data and findings of the older engineering surveys are no longer valid; if so, a new survey, which would include a study of the possible uses of the steam railroad rights of way, should be undertaken by the best engineering organization that can be found in the field of local transportation.

If such a study were to be begun tomorrow it could hardly be completed in less than a year. After the report is in, the city government would still have to examine the recommendations and determine where the 50 millions are to be spent. Contracts would then have to be drawn with the transportation companies to assure that either the city treasury or the car riders would get a return on the investment.

At best, then, a start toward providing the city with added facilities will not be made in less than two years, and after the start is made the money will be expended over a period of several years more. It is not necessary, therefore, for the city to start liquidating the fund at once, but the decision to spend the money should be made at once and at the same time plans should be made for mobilizing the money as it is needed.

One reason Chicago's transportation services are so deficient is the feeling on the part of vast numbers of straphangers that nothing can be done about it. They have forgotten that improvements can be made because it is a quarter of a century since they have seen any. They have even forgotten that they have in their own city treasury a sum sufficient to buy a considerable measure of improvement.

Once the log jam is broken, once a demonstration is presented of what can be accomplished, it is probable that much more will follow, for public opinion will then demand the full program.

FALSE ADVERTISMENT OF AN EXPENSIVE REMEDY.

Throughout the depression the volume of mail received by THE TRIBUNE in the shape of manuscripts, pamphlets and books has been exceedingly heavy. The inflow is nearly all on one subject, what can be done to get the country out of the depression. Some people having time at their disposal think up plans to be executed by the government for bringing back prosperity. Others read in the voluminous literature along the same line which has been brought forth during the past few years and are impressed. In either case they send to THE TRIBUNE expositions of what ought to be done. And, faithful to a long established principle, we always read our mail, burdensome as adherence to the rule has become under the avalanche of depression cures.

The volume is so overwhelming that a procedure has been devised to facilitate the handling of our swollen mail. After the schemes have been read in our office, and whatever of news has been extracted, they are deposited in a large cabinet which has been dubbed the "Panaceas File" or the "Medicine Chest." Thus involuntarily we have become a collector of native remedies for economic misery. And this is a collection effort of no mean proportion. In volume, if not in satisfaction, it is far beyond such popular forms of collecting as that of canes, horse pictures, miniatures and first editions. Our assembly of panaceas is not merely a collection; it's an undertaking.

Out of the medicine chest, from time to time, a number of remedies have been withdrawn and installed in a second cabinet, smaller than the main medicine chest, but still quite substantial. This file is labeled "Our Planned Economy." It contains those panaceas which the Roosevelt administration has been administering to the country to cure it of its ailments. As the New Deal doctors have been caring for the patient for nearly three years, we are not being inexcusably impatient when we inquire what has the prolonged use of the medicine done for the sick. In a series of editorials beginning with the present one it is our purpose to go through the "Planned Economy" file, medicine by medicine, and see whether and to what extent the treatments by the New Deal physicians have helped the country to get well.

One of the first medicines prescribed by the Roosevelt doctors was Panacea No. 8,709,432A. This was a remedy directed toward getting us out of the depression by increasing our trade with the orient. China is a country with a low standard of living. Give a country of that size and of that condition adequate purchasing power, says the label on this bottle, and the inhabitants will buy enough of our washing machines, automobiles, telephones and vacuum cleaners to set our industries humming. To give the orient the purchasing power, the New Deal doctors said, was no trick at all. China is on the silver standard. Their money is silver. Increase the price of silver and our customers will have plenty of money to buy what we want to sell them. Neat, plausible, and convincing—enough for a government willing to try anything. The President ordered the course of treatment to proceed. We have seen a picture of the patient before taking the remedy, now let's look at the photograph three years later.

The price of silver rose, not by the government willing that it do so, but by the use of money. With the government buying, the price of silver went up from 25 cents to 80 cents, settling back then to 64 cents per ounce. Taking this medicine has cost the government hundreds of millions of dollars. And now for the payoff. By this time surely the Pacific ocean must be alive with vessels rushing to get American goods over to our oriental customer, whose enrichment is so important to us. But American curling irons, motor boats, and bathtubs are not moving in great volume from the western ports. In fact, this scheme which was supposed to promote trade with China has practically stopped all of it. We are selling a smaller amount of goods to the Chinese people than in a long historical record and the reduction has been caused by the workings of Panacea 8,709,432A, which was supposed to increase our trade. The high price of silver has drained China of her silver money, creating a severe depression in that country. In order to have any money at all with which to do business, China has been obliged to make an arrangement with the British government, with resulting advantages to the English. The doctor who prescribed the silver remedy was a quack. His medicine hasn't helped at all to get us well. But we shall be paying the bills incurred by the doctor for many years to come.

MR. FARLEY'S FINE CYNICISM.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Speaking at a Democratic rally in Portland, Ore., Postmaster General Farley, who is also chairman of the Democratic national committee, chairman of the Democratic state committee of New York, and chief patronage dispenser for the national administration, predicts the reëlection of President Roosevelt next year. There is no cynicism about that.

But when he assigns as the principal reason for a Roosevelt triumph in 1936, "You can't beat somebody with nobody—and the Republican party has nobody," he indulges in hyperbole.

Postmaster General Farley, although insisting that the Republican party "has no candidate who commands the respect of a majority of its members" and "not even the outline of a program," recommends that they nominate Mr. Hoover for President inasmuch as "he represents more closely than any other individual the philosophy of those who are assailing the Roosevelt policies." This is cynicism.

Mr. Farley, however, takes in extensive territory when he characterizes President Roosevelt as "somebody" and every Republican who criticizes his policies as a "nobody." Current events have a peculiar habit of raising "nobody" to the exalted rank of "somebody," and reducing "somebody" to "nobody." Political history abounds in such instances.

Moreover, Gov. Roosevelt was nominated for President in 1932 on a ballot which showed Connecticut, Massachusetts, and New Jersey solidly against him, and his own state of New York against him by a vote of 63 to 21. It is now Mr. Farley's boast that recent elections in New York showed a Democratic majority of 500,000.

In the coming year less attention will be paid to the Republican "nobody" than to the Democratic "somebody." As Theodore Roosevelt once observed, "It is the habit of the people to vote against candidates they know and dislike, and for candidates they don't know and don't dislike."

Present disagreements in the Republican party arise for the most part from consideration of real or prospective candidates who are well known. If the G. O. P. convention should select as the party's standard-bearer next year some "nobody" who merely believes in balancing the federal budget and keeping government out of business, he might easily develop into "somebody" before November.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

BILL BORAH bursts out as a presidential candidate as a native son of almost all the states I can think of. He is from Idaho, but he was born in Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin, went to school in Ohio, graduated from something other in Indiana, was baptized in New York, vaccinated in Massachusetts, inoculated in Pennsylvania, cast his first vote in Georgia, herded cattle in Texas, and mined for gold in California. Had his tonsils taken out in Michigan and his appendix in Kentucky. Anyhow, every state seems to be looking around for some tie that binds it to Bill Borah. Nebraska hasn't been heard from yet, but I don't doubt that Nebraska will hail William as a native son because he rode back and forth through the state on his way between Idaho and Washington.

IT SEEMS that we do not belong to the League of Nations except every month and on Tuesdays and Fridays from ten to twelve in the forenoon and three to five in the afternoon. And only on alternate years and during the full moon.

AND ANOTHER GRAND THING about Thanksgiving is that while you were eating your turkey, goose, duck, hot dog, or what not yesterday you weren't riding around in your car and running the risk of getting hurt or hurting somebody else. Maybe we ought to have a law making every day a Thanksgiving day. Sneer at this suggestion if you will, but there are lots of other proposals for cutting down the list of casualties that are just as silly. This is really not silly if you think it over and realize that even demon drivers who love to step on'er and speed from eighty to a hundred miles an hour love to eat turkey much more. In fact, roast turkey with stuffing and cranberry sauce is the only thing that can keep them from zooming up and down the country road. So it's not such a bad idea and something should be done about it. Write to your congressman today.

BURNING BUSH.

Now while Life had grown too dull
And no longer beautiful,
I heard the old words of the world
Down my saddened mind unfurled:
"Thus it is with lad and lass,
Thus it always comes to pass,
All that you had called most good
Is as poison in the hood
Of that slow, eternal snake
Crawling through the final brake.
Time—who lacquers over tears,
And love—and men—and all your fears.
Beauty in this latter day
Is most surely gone away."
. . . . . .
The burning bush against the sky
Gives them back the ancient lie.

"TO NOMINATE Grover Cleveland," said old Marse Henry Watterson in the Louisville Courier-Journal in 1892, "would be to march through a slaughter house into an open grave." If Marse Henry were alive today I wonder what name he would substitute for that of Grover Cleveland. I have my own idea, but I'm not saying nuthin'.

NOW, MEN, be on your guard this day. You will probably feel, after the way you gorged yesterday, that you can never again look a turkey in the face and you will go around saying so. Very well, then, you will not be confronted with turkey at dinner today. Oh, non, non, non! Instead of that you will be delighted when you are told you are going to have Hachis de Dindon. How very nice! But, men, 'tis a trap. Dindon is just a trap. It's French for the Tom turkey you had for your Thanksgiving day dinner, and hachis?—certainly, 'tis naught but HASH—with its face lifted.

WINDOWS IN A CHURCH.

The walls are old,
The slender windows speak of another day,
When other voices
Sang at keeping straight to the narrow way.

When sunlight falls
Through ancient panes, pale lavender and yellow,
It seems to shine
Through aged wines grown amber hued and mellow

How strange to think
These fragile squares have stood the storms of years
The winter snows,
The sun, the rain's obliterating tears;

When those whose names
Are here set forth, in letters made of glass,
Seemed then so strong,
And now are dust, beneath the growing grass.

HEART DISEASE IN PREGNANCY.

PART 1.

THERE is an old saying that necessity is the mother of invention; and history is replete with instances in which man has risen above his surroundings whenever the urge was sufficiently powerful. We are no doubt aware of many exhibitions of well nigh superhuman strength when an individual has been under the stress of fright or some emergency.

Ideas are born of a great determination; one that fills the breast of a devoted soul and that results in outstanding accomplishment for the public weal.

Britain's most distinguished heart specialist arose in a moment of stress. James Mackenzie, a Scottish lad from the University of Edinburgh, had set up in practice in the village of Burnley. One night he was summoned to assist in ushering a new life into the world. He had observed the prospective mother carefully during the period of her pregnancy and the case appeared to be normal in every respect. At that time he did not know all the ins and outs of heart disease and he failed to recognize symptoms that later spelled the state of affairs as though written in letters a foot high. The fatal termination of the case from heart failure aroused within the man an earnest resolve. Alone in his consulting room Mackenzie paced the floor in the deepest anguish confronting the question, "Would this death have occurred had I known more about heart disease?"

His own ignorance appalled him and he decided then and there to study heart conditions and if possible learn how to prevent such unfortunate accidents. From that moment he became a student of the functions and the diseases of the heart. It was as though a challenge had been flung to him—one that he could not decline. It was not necessary that he remove to London, Berlin, Edinburgh, or Paris. He remained in Burnley and through sheer force of necessity devised ways and means by which he could determine just what the heart was doing, what its symptoms meant, and what could be done from a medical point of view to aid that important structure.

Mackenzie's discoveries might have remained only of local interest if he had not told about them, and with much trepidation he described his studies of extra beats [irregular hearts]. He told how he was able to determine the type of irregularity that was without danger to life as well as the type that required careful management. As with many discoveries concerning disease much of his work fell on deaf ears and, although he ultimately challenged medical opinion in London, he was never made one of that group as he perhaps would have wished and as his discoveries fully justified. He lived long enough, however, to be the acknowledged leader of British heart specialists and he recalled with pride that the late Sir William Osler came to study his methods. It is a matter of no little interest that recognition of the value of his contributions to heart disease came first from America and Germany before the great men of his own nation deigned to acknowledge him.

But what about pregnancy and the heart? During this period the heart is called upon for more work than under routine conditions. This can well be understood when we realize that blood is being pumped to the developing fetus where many of its components are deposited. Because of this extra demand women with somewhat damaged hearts, who under ordinary circumstances would remain well, may show signs of heart failure.

As the new life develops there may appear with the prospective mother functional [not organic] heart murmurs or certain nervous symptoms that affect the heart—all of which yield promptly to treatment. About one out of every five hundred, however, will exhibit symptoms of organic heart disease not, of course, caused by pregnancy, but because this condition has uncovered a diseased state of the heart that existed long before pregnancy occurred. The added heart load of the developing fetus brought to the surface symptoms that otherwise might not have appeared.

GOITER.

R. C. writes: I am living in Michigan in a section of the state where goiter is quite prevalent. My physician insists that the whole family, including my three children, use iodized salt. I have heard that this plan is unwise and that it may cause goiter instead of preventing it.

REPLY.

About ten or twelve years ago the Michigan Medical society studied the goiter situation in that state and came to the conclusion that the use of iodized salt should be recommended. In some portions of the state 35 per cent of children of school age were found to have enlarged thyroid glands. Following the recommendation, the use of iodized salt became a matter of routine and it is reliably reported that today not more than 1 per cent of the school children show thyroid gland enlargement.

It is well known that iodine, if taken by patients who already have goiter, may aggravate what is known as adenomatous goiter and bring on toxic symptoms. On the other hand, routinely enlarged glands in young people have been reduced almost to zero and this has been attributed to the widespread use of iodized salt. After twelve years of use no increase in toxic goiter has been observed.

In Switzerland, in the canton of Appenzell, school children have been fed iodized salt for at least a dozen years. The health authorities have concluded that iodine is a food, if taken in very minute quantities, and that goiter is a symptom of iodine deficiency. It is recommended that the iodine in salt be not greater than 1 part of iodine to 100,000 parts of salt.

SCARLET FEVER.

S. L. H. writes: Is there any danger that a nurse isolated with a scarlet fever patient in a private home will expose the other members of the family by using the phone? Proper precautions, such as disinfecting the hands and face and changing the uniform, are carried out.

REPLY.

If her throat culture proves negative to streptococci it is quite safe to permit the use of the telephone.

TAX TITLE.

Oswego, Ill., Nov. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I desire information regarding the method of securing property [real estate] by paying the delinquent tax thereon. 1. How long do taxes have to be paid before I would be entitled to a deed? 2. Who issues the deed? 3. Will a title company issue a certificate of title or abstract, based on tax deed, which would show a good, merchantable title? 4. If a tax deed is issued to me, is it subject to any mortgage on the place or to any judgment secured against the former owner? W. S.

1. The tax deed would not issue until two years after the tax sale.
2. The county clerk.
3. They would give you an abstract showing you as the grantee under the tax deed, but a purchaser would not accept this as a good title and the title company would not give you a guaranty policy on the basis of it. As a practical matter, seven years' additional payment of taxes would be necessary and we would advise you to employ an attorney before embarking on the enterprise.
4. In substance, a tax deed is merely evidence of a lien. Such lien would be ahead of existing mortgages.

CLAIM ON ESTATE.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—For the last two years I have made my home with an elderly couple whom I called uncle and aunt, although they are no relation. During this time I took care of them, doing the housework, washing, etc. It was always understood that when they passed on I was to be remembered. Last week they were both called by death, neither leaving a will, and as there were no children and no close relatives the public administrator took charge, giving me nothing. 1. How must I proceed to put in a bill against the estate and [2] which estate should it be against? The woman died first. 3. To whom must the bill be presented? 4. A niece of the woman [by her first marriage] has appeared and is trying to make trouble, and the public administrator seems to heed her, although she is no blood relative. I feel I am entitled to some pay for the care I gave them. 5. At present I am without money, imposing on a neighbor. D. S.

1. We advise you to employ an attorney.
2. We see no harm to filing claims in both estates.
3. It should be filed in the office of the clerk of the Probate court, but it is necessary to follow it up to be ready to prove your case.
4. If she is not a blood relative she is not a niece. Your facts are not clear to us.
5. If you are unable to pay an attorney you may be able to employ one on a contingent fee.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—A quick reshaping of British foreign policy as the outcome of the elections is being forecast by the strengthened opposition to the national government.

During the recent political campaign and since, many charges of oblique bargaining have been raised and the next few weeks will show the extent to which these charges were shrewd guesses at the political aims of those who run the British government or were just election propaganda.

The charges have been made that this government has two aims:

First, to make a quick temporary bargain with Premier Mussolini granting him perhaps some spoils in Ethiopia—enough to enable him to claim a Roman triumph.

Second, to split up the Franco-soviet Russian pact, signed but not ratified, and make a deal with Germany whereby Reichsfuehrer Hitler would be given a free hand to divide Russian Ukraine with Poland in turn for renunciation of western expansion. This is said to be Sir Samuel Hoare's scheme for fortifying British interests against bolshevism, and at the same time guaranteeing France against German attacks by giving the Nazis something to gnaw on in the east.

The Times has been quoted here in a dispatch from Geneva as furnishing the key to secret backstairs moves which it is alleged have been taking place.

The real issue in the general European embroglio is not Mussolini and his war, but Germany and the problem of getting Germany back into the league, according to this interpretation. The Times says:

"If the Franco-soviet pact, to which Germany objected, were not ratified by the French government, this would leave the door open for an entente between Great Britain, France, and Germany, having as a condition the return of Germany to the league of nations based on a re-formed covenant from the Versailles treaty. The protest addressed to the French government by the soviet embassy in Paris against Premier Laval's recent unofficial conversations with Berlin, in contravention of the letter of the Franco-soviet pact, is significant."

With that, according to Laborite circles in London, the plot is out. Germany is to come back into the league and the united front of Germany, France, and Britain is to be re-formed. Mussolini might get in on the combination in a sort of four power pact, these same circles intimate, if he promises to stop stirring up trouble for Britain in the Mediterranean. All this is said to have been well formulated in the plans of Hoare and Laval.

By way of confirming this a reëcho has been made here of reports put out in the French press by the noted writer, Pertinax, that Dr. Hjalmer Schacht, German economic dictator, told Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, at Basle that Hitler is quite prepared to renounce expansion toward the west in return for calling off the Franco-soviet pact and a free hand to take the Ukraine. Pertinax generally speaks on the authority of the French general staf.

All this explains, according to the radicals here, why the national government's fight for collective action against aggression by Mussolini is fictitious. Actually, they assert, a corrupt bargain will shortly be made behind the scenes. Why is the national government anxious to reach a settlement with Italy? The answer, these circles reply, is that Britain is not yet ready to strike in the Mediterranean region. Strategic preparations are necessary. Also, British policy is vitally concerned with major issues in Europe, compared to which the Italian issue is secondary.

DANGEROUS TRANSFER CORNERS.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Some twenty years ago street cars discharged and took on passengers at the opposite side of intersections to what they do now. It would, I believe, contribute greatly to safety if that was the practice today, particularly so at six point crossings such as Lincoln-Ashland-Belmont. I have occasion to transfer from a downtown Lincoln avenue to a westbound Belmont car every afternoon, and, although I am fairly active on my feet and always alert, I have had two narrow escapes from being run down at this dangerous and busy intersection. Older people and children run a greater risk. I would suggest that cars stop at both sides of all six corner intersections or else honor the transfer a block east, west, north or south, whatever the case may be, of all such crossings. P. J. CAMPBELL.

TOO LATE.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Some time ago you published a letter from me relative to the barricading of the subway at Oak street. Getting over the drive at this point is well-nigh impossible. I made the suggestion that if the cost of this subway to the beach had been spent on a number of overhead bridges it would have been a great relief to the public.

Your issue of this morning states that a well dressed man about 60 was killed at this crossing and that his name remains a mystery to the police. It is too bad that the park board is so callous to the convenience of the pedestrian.

We are well aware that there is nothing of greater benefit to an individual than walking, but as the walks in Lincoln park inevitably bring the walker to a stream of trafic he takes his life in his hands when he attempts to cross it. These arteries are, of course, a necessity, but pedestrians should not be forgotten and overhead bridges should be erected, as they are economical. Granted, they are unsightly, but a mangled figure lying on the roadway is much more so. H. B.

SOCIALIST SUCCESSES.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—In the general excitement following the recent elections no one has seen fit to comment upon the success of the Socialist party in certain sections of staid New England. Let it be here recorded that in Bridgeport, Conn., Mayor Jasper McLevy and his administration were reëlected by a record breaking plurality; that in Reading, Pa., an all-Socialist ticket won, Mayor Stump by a plurality of 8,199, and that other signal successes were scored by eastern Socialists.

How the Red baiters will explain these public indorsements of municipal efficiency I do not know. They should tear their hair in dismay at the thought of subverters holding public office, and how a deluded citizenry could reëlect honest officials is a further mystery to them. It is no wonder that they do not wish these Socialist victories too widely known, for if the entire United States got the Bridgeport idea they would be ex-jobholders in a short time.

ISADORE PERLMAN.

"I GOTTA DRAG" CARDS.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Sheriff Toman's letter would indicate that he is anxious to do away with the so called "I gotta drag club" courtesy cards. If he is sincere, and I hope he is, why doesn't he stop it? There is one thing which the type of people who ask for special privileges always shun and that is publicity.

He further stated that cards were limited to men of integrity and business standing, for use as a medium of identification. Don't such people always have business cards, auto license cards and other identification cards?

If he really wants to stop giving out cards and stars, why not print the names of all who ask for them and see how fast the requests will drop off.

M. L. ROBINSON.

SHAKEDOWN.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The engineers of the Chicago park district were laid off four months this past summer. The public was deprived of hot showers for four months, the first time since the building of the parks. My husband, an engineer, was one of those laid off and he, too, was told to give 6 per cent of a month's pay to the Christmas fund.

HOUSEWIFE.

HOW TO LAND A JOB.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Your latest outstanding contribution to the general public, which I think is not getting its proper place in the sun, is your series of articles appearing in the want ad section of your Sunday editions, giving advice on the best methods to use in obtaining a job.

These articles are exceptionally well written and present the problems in a very clear, concise form. They give constructive criticism that some people might not otherwise ever get. I personally know of a dozen cases where the improvement in letters of application has been so startling as to be almost unbelievable.

I have commented on these articles so many times that I thought it was time I wrote to you and complimented you on them. You are rendering a very great service to many people. It has occurred to me that it would be an excellent idea if you could reprint the entire series in a booklet form and sell it to the public for cost. I am sure that many of your regular readers have missed one or more of the articles, and many more have not seen any of them because of the fact that they might now be working and did not have occasion to refer to the want ad section. I have made a more or less intensive study of letter writing in general and letters of application in particular and I have not been able to find published in any book information as accurate, complete, and concise as your articles. B. N. MURPHY.

PARAPHRASING ANOTHER DECLARATION.

Murphysboro, Ill., Nov. 26.—The history of the present administration is the history of an attempt to establish an absolute tyranny over these states. The President has caused to be provided an army of new officers to harass the people and eat up their substance; his policies have succeeded in cutting our trade with all the world; his administration has imposed taxes upon us without our consent; he has trampled upon our constitution and has attempted to change fundamentally our forms of government; he has systematically endeavored to arouse hatred of one group of citizens against another, and thus stir up discord; he has caused a subservient congress to ignore the protests and pleadings of our people against the passage of unjust and unconstitutional laws; he has attempted to bring our Supreme court into unjust criticism and disgrace because in its discharge of its duty under the constitution he was convicted of dense ignorance and contempt of our fundamental laws. R. J. MCELVAIN.

SWEITZER.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—So Nell Riley thinks Sweitzer was framed. It is ridiculous to say that. There was absolutely no animosity toward Sweitzer at any time on the part of the Democratic leaders. For months previous to the scandal rumors were rife in the county building of a huge Sweitzer shortage. The leaders knew that to expose one of their best vote-getters would be ruinous to the party, which it has certainly proved to be. They confronted Sweitzer and he admitted a shortage [surely this could not be a frame]. He promised to make good but said the amount was not correct. Why didn't he pay even the amount he admitted he was short? That certainly was no small sum. Flynn did the only thing any one would have or could have done under the circumstances: demanded an accounting before taking over the books.

Sweitzer was so egotistical that he seemed to think that the party would not dare to expose one of their big drawing cards no matter what the offense might be. COUNTY EMPLOYE.

SHE WASN'T INVITED.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—I'm not keeping it a secret. I wasn't invited to the Bachelors and Benedicts' ball! I'm amazed and chagrined, because I'd add to any party.

I'm throwing the old coat of arms out my window, and I'm going to buy myself a gun! Look out, bachelors, here comes a granddaughter of the American revolution and of the confederacy, too—It's the ancestors in me!! M. C. R.

ILLINOIS' YOUNG G.O.P. PLANS FIGHT ON FACTIONALISM

Map Action to Assure High Grade Ticket.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Young Republicans reported yesterday they are now organized in every county in Illinois and are planning to exert pressure against old time factionalism with the idea of providing a high grade, aggressive ticket for next year's election.

A proposal that the youth movement depart from its old rule of making no indorsements in the primaries and open the door for indorsements is to be acted on at the next meeting of the Young Republicans organization of Illinois. It is to be submitted by the executive committee of 40 members from downstate and 40 from Cook county which has been meeting this week to survey the situation.

Aim at Ending Factionalism.

R. N. Ingelson of Moline is president of the organization. The announced theory is that the change in rules, allowing primary indorsements, might serve to discourage party factionalism and promote harmony.

John T. Dempsey, 33d ward Republican committeeman, a regional director of the Young Republican national committee which met recently in Des Moines, said yesterday that reports from all congressional districts in Illinois show a growing swing of younger voters away from the Roosevelt New Deal. In the category of Young Republicans are voters up to 36 years of age inclusive.

"The reports we received this week," said Mr. Dempsey, "show that large groups of young voters are leaving the Democrats. But as yet they are not ready to support the Republican ticket regardless of who are the nominees. They are waiting to see who are the party's candidates. They are not going to vote for a ticket just because it bears a party label. To get their votes the ticket must be of the highest grade candidates. That is the report we got from all districts.

Young, but Not Novices.

"It wasn't a bunch of Boy Scouts at this Young Republican conference, but many of the men there have already won their spurs in politics. Some were state's attorneys and some held other elective offices. All were active in politics.

"What they all said was that the old factional leaders in the party seem to be up to their old stuff. Prospects being brighter for the party, some factionalists have returned to their old tactics of jockying for places and prestige, and if they persist it will injure the party instead of helping it.

"The youth movement has grown so well that we feel we can serve as a force to help get them together. We are not trying to disrupt but to promote harmony and well-being. We are coöperating with the party organization, but we feel we have an opportunity to break up the factionalism. That is the reason why it is proposed that we change our rules and provide for some indorsements at the primary.

"In the presidential preference primaries we contemplate no activities, but we do intend to make a strong effort to get some young Republicans without factional strings elected as delegates to the national convention."

Reports on Four States.

Mr. Dempsey reported that the Young Republicans are well set up in Michigan and fairly well organized in Kentucky, not so well organized in Tennessee. In Illinois every county reports a growth. Mr. Dempsey is regional director in these four states. He announced that Young Republicans, Inc., will merge with the Cook county division of the Young Republican organization of Illinois.

Activities are to start next month. Young Republicans of the Tenth congressional district will hold a convention Dec. 15 at the Evanston Country club. William N. Erickson of Evanston, a county commissioner and prominent among the Young Republicans, reports a large growth of the movement in the north shore suburbs. Downstate the congressional district is to be the unit for massmeetings.

In Chicago and Cook county, in general, activities will be by groups of wards and towns, as congressional districts have great disparities in size. The Seventh district, for example, has 889,000 population, and the Eighth district has only 138,000.

SEES NEW DEAL ATTACKING FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Assails Expansion of President's Power.

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Representative Wadsworth [Rep., N. Y.] said tonight "one cannot help suspecting" that the administration "intends to deluge the Supreme court with a flood of cases and thus pile up against the court and the constitution itself an aggregation of grievances and resentments sufficient to break down both."

In a broadcast sponsored by the national Republican congressional committee, Wadsworth, speaking on "Undermining Our Form of Government," said President Roosevelt's arrival at the White House was "skilfully and attractively staged, and hence welcome."

"An impressive gesture of economy," he said, "was indulged in at the very beginning of the congressional session. Within a few weeks, however, the famous economy act was utterly forgotten, and shortly after its enactment there commenced an orgy of spending such as the country has never known in time of peace."

Congress Gives Up Power.

Asserting the New Deal involves "a vast expansion of the power of the President and a corresponding suppression of the power of congress," the speaker said:

"Only a dictatorship heading up to a single individual can begin to wield such powers. Therefore we have seen the congress presuming to turn over to the President large elements of the lawmaking power and doing so upon his demand and upon the demand of the burocracy established under him."

The question of "grievances and resentments," he said, "is a very simple one."

"We see it standing out conspicuously," Wadsworth declared, "in the Bankhead cotton control act under whose provisions a cotton farmer who sells cotton in excess of the quantity allotted him by the secretary of agriculture without paying the prohibitive tax may be prosecuted in the federal courts as though he were a common criminal."

Other Acts Condemned.

Wadsworth similarly condemned the tobacco and potato control laws and the Wagner labor disputes act.

"These laws, and others like them," he said, "are on the statute books. It is the intention of the President and his lieutenants to enforce them. Likewise it is their intention to contend against those citizens who, feeling their liberty abridged, may appeal to the courts for a judicial determination of their rights under the constitution.

"It will not do for us to say, 'O, let the Supreme court knock it all out.'

"The court may do so and it may not, or the end sought may be accomplished by indirection or undermining by the use and abuse of the taxing power, for example."

FISH COMES OUT FOR BORAH AS G. O. P. NOMINEE

Two Hold Conference; See War on Old Guard.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Another boost for Senator Borah of Idaho as the Republican presidential nominee in 1936 came today from Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, himself known as a liberal, and possible seeker of the nomination.

A Thanksgiving day conference between the two in the Idahoan's uptown apartment was followed immediately by a statement to the press by the New Yorker. He praised Borah as one who could draw more votes in New England, New York, including the city, and Pennsylvania than any other candidate.

Considerable speculation was stirred by Fish's statement. In addition to the open courting of a western Republican liberal by an eastern Republican liberal, political observers noted another point.

See Attack on Old Guard.

Borah, who has not yet said openly he would be a candidate but who has said he had a 1936 "objective," has been held by some political soothsayers to be determined to prevent the selection of an old guard nominee. Fish lent some point to these assertions today.

Urging in his statement that candidates enter the primaries to prevent "an handful of old guard politicians" manipulating the situation "in a back room," Fish was asked if that was what he and Borah were thinking about.

"It might work out that way," the New Yorker replied.

Borah himself declined to comment on today's conference.

"I haven't anything to say now," he told newspapermen. "I may have in a day or two. I think I will let Mr. Fish say anything there is to say."

To Meet Again Monday.

Borah and Fish have arranged another conference for Monday. Some speculated that the Idahoan might speak then. There were some points of similarity between today's conference and that last Friday between Borah and former Senator Roscoe McCulloch of Ohio. After that meeting, Borah himself handed out a statement by McCulloch, saying "Presidential politics" had been discussed and that he was "one of a great many who would like to see him [Borah] make the race."

Fish today termed the Idaho Republican independent "a very able man who has great popular support in both the west and east." Borah, he said, "comes nearer representing the policies of Theodore Roosevelt [which Fish espouses] and Abraham Lincoln than any man in the country." The statement added that he [Fish] had "not decided" whether he would be a candidate himself.

COMMUNITY FUND MAKES A PLEA FOR DELAYED PLEDGES

A final appeal to contributors to the Community Fund of Chicago to send in their pledge cards before the end of next week was made yesterday by Philip D. Armour, general chairman of the $3,200,000 campaign for 147 private charities.

"There are many groups that have indicated a desire to subscribe, and have taken pledge cards," Mr. Armour said, "but they have not yet returned them, although some have been out for several weeks.

"I am afraid some of them are small concerns whose pledge will be comparatively small, and they feel that their mite doesn't make much difference in the total result. Let me remind them that more than one-third of our fund is made up of hundreds of thousands of small pledges, given by working men and women who cannot afford to give large sums. These, added together, make more than a million dollars, and every one is important."

A final meeting of the trades and industries division of the campaign will be held at the Palmer house next Friday with Clarence B. Randall, chairman, presiding.

The Store for Men

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

Christmas Note

If it's MONOGRAMMED It's his

. . . but you should order now!

There's really no substitute for a gift that's monogrammed. If it's monogrammed—it belongs to him and nobody else. If it's monogrammed it shows him that you thought of him and of his gift far enough in advance of Christmas to buy something just for him. Men like monogramming—and Style has put a seal of approval on it. A gift from The Store for Men (Chicago's largest store exclusively for men) will be doubly appreciated if it's monogrammed. But we suggest that you come in as soon as possible. Careful, neat monogramming takes time. Orders placed now will be ready for delivery about the middle of December—and will not be charged to you until they are ready. There's nothing to gain by waiting—plenty to gain by placing your order now.

In the typical monogrammed gifts listed here, the monogramming is included in the price—a very unusual feature

Monogrammed Broadcloth* SHIRTS $3.50

The lustrous broadcloth shirts are made to exacting specifications in our own factory. In collar-attached or neckband styles. You select monogram from six different styles, and it will be put on in plain white or in any color you choose. Three-in-a-box would make a nice gift.

Monogrammed Broadcloth* PAJAMAS $3.50

There's something about the simple, tailored masculinity of broadcloth pajamas that makes them a perennial favorite with men. Notched collar, low neck and middy style. You select the monogram from six types offered, in either white or in the contrasting color you choose. Three-in-a-box would be especially appreciated.

Other broadcloth pajamas from $2 to $5 monogrammed at no extra cost

Monogrammed Black or White* BRACES $2.80

Here's a gift you probably wouldn't ordinarily think of! Black or white silk braces are an unusual gift, but always acceptable, for they combine utility with luxury. You have a choice of several different three-initial monograms, and we'll put your selection on the white braces in black letters, or on the black ones in white lettering.

Monogrammed White Silk* MUFFLER $5.50

There's been no substitute found for the sleek smartness of a white silk muffler, especially when it has a neat silk fringe. But to make it the perfect personalized gift it should be monogrammed. We'll put a three-letter monogram on these, in black and white—and give you your choice of three different monogram styles. Smart!

PRINCE'S CATTLE REACH CITY TODAY FOR STOCK SHOW

Judge Biggar Arrives; Opening Tomorrow.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Eight famous shorthorn cattle, owned by Farmer David Windsor of England, usually known as the prince of Wales, are scheduled to arrive in Chicago today to compete with cattle from the United States for the highest honors at the 36th International Live Stock exposition. The exposition will oper. at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning in the International amphitheater at 43d and Halsted streets.

These and other entries are coming from the Royal Winter fair which closed at Toronto, Ont., Wednesday evening. The shipments include grand champions and other important prize winners of the Canadian exhibition.

Royal Herd Scores Heavily.

The prince's cattle are from his ranch at High River, Alberta, Canada. Four of the animals were recently imported from the royal farm in England. They scored heavily at the Canadian fair. The herd will be exhibited here under the supervision of W. L. Carlyle.

It is expected that the prince of Wales' cattle will be among candidates for the grand champion beef award, the highest honor of the Chicago show. This purple ribbon animal is to be selected by Walter Biggar of Dalbealtie, Scotland, the judge who has picked ten of the international grand champions. Judge Biggar and his wife arrived early yesterday, coming by way of Quebec and Toronto, where they attended the Canadian fair.

Junior Contest First Feature.

Following his established custom, Mr. Biggar will not even take a squint at the cattle he is to judge until they are brought before him in the judging arena. He has consented to select the champions in the junior live stock feeding contest, an opening feature of the show tomorrow.

A final survey of show entries yesterday revealed that 298 exhibitors, farm boys and girls from 40 states, from 10 to 12 years old, will show 421 calves, lambs and pigs in the junior contest. This is the largest number of exhibitors and number of animals ever entered in this contest.

Today farm boys and girls from eighteen states are to compete in the non-collegiate judging contest, an annual preliminary to the show. Each state is represented by teams of three. Agricultural scholarships totaling $500 will be given winners of this contest by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

In the whole show, said Manager B. H. Heide, 44 states and five Canadian provinces are represented with more than 12,500 entries of cattle, horses, hogs and sheep and 5,000 samples of farm products in the hay and grain show.

Pigs Modeled in Lard.

In the meat board gallery five little pigs have been modeled in snow white lard to portray the original quintuplets of nursery rhyme fame, starting with the lines, "This little pig went to market; this little pig stayed at home." The 1934 grand champion steer is also modeled in lard.

There are 190 carloads of fat cattle entered in the carlot event, and 35 carloads in the feeder cattle contest. In addition there are 35 carloads of hogs and 18 carloads of lambs in the carlot competition. Twelve states are represented in the carlot classes.

The "weeding out committee" will start work early today reviewing the fat cattle entries and will eliminate all but 100 carloads.

IDENTIFY SLAIN WIFE OF COMER; HUNT 8 OTHERS

Girl Killed in 1934 Held Gunman's Victim.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Newt Burns, police homicide officer, said today the parents of Elizabeth Childers Comer, first wife of Chester Comer, had identified the picture of a girl found slain in Wyandotte county, Kans., Oct. 6, 1934, as that of their daughter.

Burns said the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Childers, were "positive in their identification."

The girl, Burns said, was shot five times in the head and apparently tossed from an automobile.

First Definite Clew.

Identification of the picture was the first definite clew to whereabouts of any of nine persons in whose mysterious disappearances Comer was suspected.

The hitch-hiker gunman died in a hospital here last night of a bullet fired into his brain Monday by Oscar Morgan, Blanchard marshal.

With the fate of Comer's first wife apparently settled, officers are wondering what became of his second, Lucille Stevens Comer, who has not been seen or heard from by relatives in months.

Speculate on Other Victims.

Officers also are asking themselves these questions:

What befell Ray Evans, prominent Shawnee attorney, who disappeared a week ago last Tuesday? His car was found in a ditch near Maysville, where Comer allegedly abandoned it.

What became of L. A. Simpson, Piedmont farmer, and his son, Warren, 14, missing since Saturday?

Comer was in their motor car when cornered and shot.

Could Comer have told the story behind the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Lorius and Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Heberer of East St. Louis, Ill., in New Mexico last summer?

The search for a trace of the missing persons will continue, said Col. Charles W. Daley, head of the state crime bureau.

"We have run down every faint clew," he said.

"National Guardsmen, volunteers, and peace officers have searched every likely place. The investigation will go on."

Plunges from Hospital Window to His Death

Howard Roosa, 24 years old, 30 West Chicago avenue, was killed last night when he leaped or fell from the window of his room on the fourth floor of the Wesley Memorial hospital, 2449 South Dearborn street. Roosa had been in the hospital since Nov. 11, suffering from an internal disorder. He was given a blood transfusion yesterday. His nurse left for a few moments and when she returned found the window open and saw his body on the ground Roosa had been a clerk in a loop insurance office.

NEEDHAM, STONE OFFICIAL, TO QUIT PRISON TUESDAY

Four Others in 14 Million Fraud Seek Parole.

Attorney Leslie A. Needham, one of five officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate concern, who were found guilty of using the mails to defraud, will be released from the federal prison farm at Milan, Mich., next Tuesday, according to the office of the prison warden.

Needham, general counsel for the company, was sent to Milan on Feb. 1 to serve a term of one year. Under the prevailing rules he is allowed 60 days reduction in the term for good behavior and hence is now eligible for release.

The other officials convicted are Henry F. Norcott, president; Harold D. Bennett, vice president; W. Scott Carroll, controler, and Charles P. Packer Jr., treasurer. Each was sentenced to three years imprisonment and the attorney general of the United States decided they should be sent to Milan.

Parole Pleas Already Filed.

They began serving their terms on April 7, 1934, and in the ordinary course of events would be eligible for release, with time off for good behavior, in September, 1936. However, they are eligible to parole after serving one-third of their time and the warden's office at Milan disclosed that they had made an application for release in December.

As the matter was explained, the four men appeared in September at a hearing of the federal board of pardons and paroles and made their pleas, which were taken under advisement by the board, headed by Arthur P. Woods of New York. There has been no official announcement of the decision.

District Attorney Michael L. Igoe said yesterday that he had heard nothing of the parole applications.

First Conviction Reversed.

The defendants were tried twice on the fraud charges. The first trial resulted in a verdict of guilty for the five and all were sentenced to 20 years in prison. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the case and ordered a new trial, at the end of which the lighter sentences were ordered by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Principal among the charges was that the real estate concern had issued bonds and debentures at a time when the officials knew it was near insolvency, with the mails being used in the sales campaigns. Losses in the crash of the company exceeded $14,000,000.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Thanksgiving Day.

November 28, 1935.

THANKSGIVING found the tireless group of corn pickers with less than 100 acres left in the fields at the Tribune farm near Yorkville. There were nearly 400 acres left to harvest after the silos were filled this fall. Within the next week the farm manager expects every ear of corn to be cribbed, providing the weather is favorable.

Today they did not go into the field, but instead went to church and later enjoyed a typical Thanksgiving turkey dinner. They are all rested, ready to start on the last lap of their hard task of picking corn. When the men drove in with their last loads late yesterday afternoon they had cribbed between 11,000 and 12,000 bushels, not including the corn fed as grain to the steers or that used to fill the three silos on the farm.

Bad weather prevented completion of corn harvesting by Thanksgiving as originally planned. Extra effort has been made, and additional hands and a two row mechanical picker have been put in the field in an attempt to get the corn in before deep snows fall. Every hand has been at the wheel from early until late. For several weeks the lights could be seen soon after 4 o'clock each morning in the windows of every one of the homes scattered over the farm. Within a few minutes each man began swinging his lantern in the barnyard, hustling along with the various morning chores, including the feeding of more than 400 cattle, before the pickers could start to work.

So today time has been taken out for a well earned rest. But tomorrow morning it will take more than a light shower, a flurry of snow, or a dense fog to keep the pickers out of the fields. Tuesday morning the "soupy" fog was so thick the men yelled at one another to prevent collisions in the barnyards and fields. Lantern lights were too dim to cut through the dense atmosphere in the early morning and even up to noon the fog still hovered over Fox river valley fields.

As soon as the pickers finish a field there are 202 steers ready to serve as gleaners. The farm manager finds that the whitefaces have done an excellent job of cleaning the fields of fallen ears, blades, and small ends of stalks. Lately these steers have been given about one ton of soybean hay in addition to the feed they pick up in the stalk fields.

Mr. Thurow says he has had no difficulty in feeding crops grown on the farm this year. Recently one of the whiteface steers died, but his death was not caused by feed. The veterinarian diagnosed the trouble as "chronic indigestion." This steer was from the herd of 144 which has been on feed in a dry lot for several weeks. The dead animal has been replaced by an odd steer.

Thanksgiving feasting at the farm today was not limited to the families. Out in the fox pen the selfish leader of the pack of pets sat nibbling away at three plump muskrat carcasses throughout the day, envying the few bites sneaked away by others. Lately the farm's winter guide has been running his trap lines on Fox river before sunup, bringing in two or three muskrat pelts daily.

With corn picking nearly completed, men at the Tribune farms will soon have more time for working on their 1936 plans. A great deal of time will be spent working out an experimental program for next year. Managers of both farms—one near Yorkville and the other near Wheaton—are anxious to have readers of THE TRIBUNE pass along their ideas of valuable tests that may be included in the program for the third year of experimental work. If you have suggestions or proposals of tests to be included in the 1936 test program, send them in before the end of the year.

HILO, Hawaii, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Five hikers who became lost on the wild, fog covered slopes of Mauna Loa volcano while exploring lava beds were safe today. The eruption continued for the seventh day.

WPA PAYS 5,000 JUST IN TIME TO OBSERVE HOLIDAY

Five thousand Chicago families whose heads are employed on Works Progress administration projects did some hurried shopping and enjoyed real Thanksgiving dinners yesterday as the result of a special holiday distribution of pay checks.

On orders of Ralph H. Burke, deputy WPA administrator for Illinois, 125 employés in the pay roll and paymaster departments worked until after midnight Wednesday and all through yesterday. At noon a crew of 35 men took the checks that were ready and went through the city distributing them.

About 2,000 checks were delivered directly to the homes of WPA families and the remainder were distributed at project sites where workers gathered to receive them. An employé in the pay roll division said the system had been simplified by a Washington official who visited the Illinois headquarters a few days ago, so that pay rolls are being written more rapidly than heretofore.

The pay rolls for Chicago's 56,000 WPA workers are staggered so that between 4,000 and 5,000 are due to be paid on each of the twelve office days of the bi-weekly wage periods. Thus the workers paid yesterday would have received their checks as a routine matter had it not been a legal holiday.

DISTRIBUTE 400,000 CHRISTMAS SEAL PACKAGES TODAY

More than 400,000 envelopes containing individual allotments of the 1935 Christmas seals will be delivered in Chicago today as the 29th annual seal sale is begun.

The Christmas seal, for 28 years a national emblem of warfare against tuberculosis, has been instrumental in lowering the tuberculosis death rate in the United States from 200 per 100,000 of population in 1906 to 58.6 in 1935, according to the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute.

Proceeds of the Chicago sale, which will continue through the Christmas holidays, go to finance the health maintenance and disease prevention work of the Chicago institute and its sixteen affiliated health centers in Cook county.

LOOT SOUTH SIDE SCHOOL.

Vandals broke into the Beale elementary school, 6043 South Sangamon street, some time Wednesday night, pried open desks and lockers and carried away dishes valued at $10.

DRIVES AUTO INTO A CAR AND KILLS MAN; HE COMMITS SUICIDE

Boston, Mass., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Despondent after his automobile hit a parked automobile, causing fatal injuries to a man who was working underneath it, George R. MacCulley, 23, shot himself to death on the grounds of the Malden hospital a few hours after the accident today.

Joseph Salima, 43, of Cambridge, jacked up his car this morning and crawled underneath to find out why it had stopped running. MacCulley, driving a machine borrowed from a neighbor, struck it, pinning Salima beneath it.

MacCulley notified police and helped them extricate his victim, who died later of a fractured skull.

A milkman found MacCulley lying on the hospital grounds. He had shot himself through the temple.

"Shocking!" SAYS SOCIAL LEADER

"Splendid!" SAYS DENTIST

A SOCIALITE AND A DENTIST CLASH OVER A STALK OF CELERY

(But the civilized way to combat "PINK TOOTH BRUSH" is IPANA and MASSAGE)

"SHOCKING!" burst from a society leader. And she was shocked at this picture. Emphatically. Just as you'd be shocked by such conduct at your dinner table.

But modern dentistry disagrees sharply!

"Shocking?" would respond your own dentist. "That picture's not shocking. It's splendid. Any dentist will point out the scientific lesson it teaches—the proper way to use the teeth and gums. If more people today would only chew their food as vigorously, as energetically as this girl there'd be a lot less gum troubles in the world."

It's only too true. Today we all eat soft foods. They're delicious, yes. But they rob our gums of health-giving work. And without regular exercise, gums become lazy . . . weak . . . tender. It's no wonder "pink tooth brush"—a cry for help from ailing gums—appears so often.

"Pink Tooth Brush" is a Warning

"Pink tooth brush" is a definite warning that your gums are in an unhealthy condition. And ignored, "pink tooth brush" may swing the door wide open to gingivitis, Vincent's disease, even pyorrhea.

Be reasonable. Take care of your teeth and gums the way modern dental science urges—with Ipana and massage. Each time you clean your teeth massage a little extra Ipana into your gums. Feel those lazy gums wake up. Feel that fresh tingle as new circulation speeds through them. And soon you'll see—and feel—a new, healthy firmness to your gums.

Start with Ipana plus massage today. For Ipana is especially designed to help combat "pink tooth brush" . . . to help keep gums healthy and firm . . . to help keep teeth bright . . . to give your smile the brilliant and likeable sparkle you so want it to have.

PRICES OF FOODS CHANGE LITTLE FOR WEEK-END

Stores Must Fill Shelves Emptied for Holiday.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Tired clerks and retail merchants took a day off yesterday after supplying food to homes, hotels, restaurants, and clubs for one of the biggest Thanksgiving observances in years. When they locked their doors Wednesday night shelves in most stores were left empty or with a skimpy supply of foods. Early this morning retailers will be carefully restocking their shelves, counters, and cases for today and tomorrow, knowing that great quantities of turkey hash must be consumed over the week-end.

A big supply of turkeys was sold by retailers, although these prices, higher than last year and generally ranging from 27 to 37 cents a pound, turned many consumers away from the traditional holiday bird to lower priced chickens, geese and ducks, and beef, pork and lamb roasts.

Good Supply for Christmas.

Lower turkey prices may be expected for Christmas. Despite the 13 per cent reduction in the nation's turkey crop, a higher percentage of birds have been left on the range to be fattened and held for Christmas dinners. The surplus birds on the central market will be kept in cold storage, insuring an abundant supply for those who failed to have turkey on Thanksgiving day.

Merchants indicate there will be little change in the retail prices of meat in most shops today and tomorrow, although many butchers are planning to place pork loins on the sales counters at reductions of several cents a pound for week-end shoppers. Lower prices for pork loins are in keeping with lower wholesale prices on pork carcasses. Packers are offering pork loins as much as 50 cents a hundred pounds under last week's prices. Live hogs, however, are officially reported to be "unchanged to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher on all grades" than a week ago.

Rib Roast of Beef Is Higher.

Several butcher shops have raised their prices on rib roast of beef as much as 4 cents a pound and the best grades of sirloin steaks are up about the same amount. Good to choice beef is 50 cents a hundred pounds higher, and good to choice steers are 25 to 50 cents higher a hundred pounds, according to John S. Campbell, local federal live stock reporter.

Leg of lamb prices are slightly lower in some retail stores. Mr. Campbell reports fat lambs from 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds above last week's prices and wholesale lamb cuts unchanged to higher in price.

Fish prices are up. Fresh halibut is among the few fish that will be lower in price today and tomorrow than they were a week ago. Some butchers are asking about 4 cents a pound less than last week's prices for halibut.

Little Change in Most Foods.

Prices of most staple foods will vary little from last week. Several items that were generally offered by retailers at special sales prices previous to the Thanksgiving holiday will be back on the shelves at approximately the same prices asked a week ago.

On Wednesday most stores sold butter at about 5 cents a pound below the prices of last week-end. Many merchants are expected to increase butter prices several cents a pound, putting it back near the level of last week.

The better grades of eggs are higher. The lower grades of flour have been advanced slightly by many merchants.

Head lettuce, grapes and cranberries are lower in most stores than last week, while some retailers have marked up their price tags on dried onions, fresh tomatoes, and green peas.

Fewer Tomatoes on Market.

Wholesale supplies of fresh tomatoes are diminishing. Most of the shipments are coming from nearby hot houses or from outdoor gardens in California, Texas, and Florida. Supplies of green peas are also light and vary in quality. Most fruit and vegetable prices, however, have remained little changed in the retail stores during the last two weeks.

Wholesale prices were advanced this week on potatoes, apples, asparagus, broccoli, cabbage, squash, spinach, cauliflower, and fresh tomatoes, although only a few of these increases are expected to show up today and tomorrow in the retail stores. Apple shipments have been liberal during the last few days, but an increased demand for the Thanksgiving trade boosted wholesale prices slightly, according to federal market reporters.

Sweet Potatoes Require Less Humidity in Storage

Sweet potatoes can be stored in the furnace room or on a shelf near the kitchen stove, as they need less humidity and a higher temperature than do most fruits and vegetables. They should be handled with care, as they bruise easily.

SEASONINGS GIVE VARIOUS FLAVORS TO SWISS STEAK

There are many ways to make Swiss steak different, the variety being chiefly in the seasonings and liquids. Delicious steaks are made by using water, meat stock, tomato juice, sour cream, and diluted vinegar as all or part of the liquid. To obtain a slightly different flavor, onion, celery, carrots, bay leaf, and curry powder may be used in small amounts.

While a thick round steak is the cut most often used for Swiss steak, it is by no means the only one which can be cooked satisfactorily by this method. A thick chuck steak is delicious when cooked in this manner. So is a flank steak.

Pot Roast of Beef Is Tip to Housewives

The committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago issued the following report for the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores:

"Although most cuts of meat have declined somewhat in price during the last week, shoulder of pork and pot roast of beef are recommended to Chicago housewives as unusually economical meat buys over the coming week-end."

Use Glass Cover Over Fruit Cake; Bakes Evenly

One of the most satisfactory ways to bake a fruit cake evenly is by the use of a covered heat-proof glass dish. The cover keeps in the moisture, and the top, bottom and sides bake evenly. It is convenient, too, to be able to look through the glass to watch the progress of the baking.

LEFT OVER LIVER FINE SUBSTITUTE FOR TERRAPIN

Terrapin is one of the most expensive delicacies in the world, but here is a method for transforming left-over liver into a delicious substitute:

Dice either broiled or fried liver of any kind. Make a brown sauce by melting two tablespoons of vegetable margarine and adding two tablespoons of flour and a cup and a half of any kind of soup stock. Add the liver, a coarsely chopped hard cooked egg, and a dozen sliced stuffed olives, and let the mixture simmer a few minutes.

Serve on toast or in pastry shells.

THIN SLICES OF APPLE WITH SALAD DRESSING CRISP IN SANDWICHES

Very thin slices of apples dipped in lemon juice or French dressing and tucked in meat, cheese, or fruit sandwiches give a delightful crispiness. The addition of apple is especially suitable to roast lamb, veal, pork, or ham sandwiches. In using the apple slices with lamb, marinate them in lemon juice to which a few crushed mint leaves have been added. Cream, Camembert, Swiss, and American cheese sandwiches are all good when crisped with apple.

BUDGET MEALS FIND STANDBY IN ROLLED OATS

Inexpensive Food Shines in Variety of Recipes.

BY MARY MEADE.

Turkey leftovers ought, by rights, to be the subject of today's discussion. However, it's our firm belief that there's no better way of serving left-over turkey than cold, sliced, with odds and ends of leftover cranberry sauce, reheated stuffing [ever try slicing this and browning it in butter] and a hot vegetable. When it comes to the delightful task of picking the bones, a child of ten needs no instruction, and if you want to get fancy with the remains, why go farther than creamed turkey and carrots on hot biscuits, or a fine puffy dish of baked turkey hash?

Which, we feel, should polish off Thanksgiving for another year. Right now, we'd prefer to administer to the food budget, which probably is feeling holiday shock, and, at the same time, to appetites sated by too much and too rich food. The antidotes are many, among the inexpensive and simple foods, but we've been thinking especially hard about the possibilities of rolled oats.

Not just as breakfast porridge, understand, does oatmeal come into its own, but as the filling, substantial base for a number of main dishes and desserts. These three dishes, scalloped corn and tomatoes with rolled oats, salmon loaf, and prune oatmeal pudding, illustrate the point.

Post-Holiday Casserole.

2 cups canned corn
2 cups canned tomatoes
¾ cup uncooked quick-cooking rolled oats, salt, and pepper.
1 tablespoon minced onion

Combine the ingredients and pour into a greased baking dish. Sprinkle lightly with buttered bread crums and bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Salmon Loaf.

[With rolled oats.]

1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats [dry]
2 cups canned salmon
1 teaspoon salt
1 small onion, minced
¼ cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle

Mix all ingredients together lightly, and form into a loaf in a buttered pan. Bake for 25 minutes in a moderate oven, and serve with a hot tomato sauce, or a well seasoned cream sauce containing chopped, hardcooked eggs and chopped sweet pickle.

Prune Oatmeal Pudding.

4 cups boiling water
2 cups quick-cooking rolled oats [dry]
1 cup dried prunes, quartered
1 cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Sprinkle rolled oats into boiling water, slightly salted, and cook for 3 minutes. Add the prunes, spices, sugar, and milk. Cook for a half hour longer in a double boiler, or bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes. Serve hot or cold with cream.

Here Are Temperatures for Vegetable Storage

Certain vegetables keep longest at certain temperatures. The following list gives the recommended temperature and maximum storage period: Asparagus, 32 degrees, one week; carrots, 32-40 degrees, six months; cauliflower, 32 degrees, thirty to forty days; celery, 32 degrees, three to five months; lettuce, 32 degrees, three to four weeks; squash, 40 degrees, five months, and green tomatoes, 50-60 degrees, one month.

2. Have griddle or skillet just hot enough. To test, put a drop of water on griddle. If it goes right up in a puff of steam, griddle is too hot. If it bounces around a second before evaporating, griddle is hot enough.
3. Grease griddle very lightly. Don't pour grease on. Spread it thinly with pad.
4. Pour batter into griddle. Let each side bake until golden brown.

One order to your grocer brings everything for this marvelous low-cost meal. Complete with printed easy directions. Wonderfully quick to make with the special pancake blend that guarantees far more fluffiness.

THERE'S only one way to make pancakes so light, so fluffy, with the soul-satisfying flavor that won the hearts of the Old South. With Aunt Jemima's secret recipe!

It's easy for you to get them light and well-done because Aunt Jemima's special pancake blend guarantees far more fluffiness than ordinary bread or biscuit flour. For Aunt Jemima's contains only about half the amount of gluten of ordinary flour. And gluten is the taffy-like substance in flour that resists heat and slows up the baking process.

That's why, with about half the gluten of ordinary flour, Aunt Jemima's pancakes come out so perfectly done, so tender, fluffy and light in the few short minutes pancakes are on the fire. And note this, ladies, a stack of three Aunt Jemima pancakes, a square of butter and 1½ ounces of syrup are only 365 calories. Yet standard diets permit a total of 2,000 to 4,000 calories in the three daily meals.

Role of Colt Big Problem in Lloyd Film

First One Outgrows His Part in 2 Weeks.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28.—The biggest laughs about "The Milky Way," Harold Lloyd's current comedy which is nearing completion at Paramount, were not situations written into the picture by the gag men.

In the film Lloyd plays a milkman. The milkman drives a horse. The horse has a colt. Leo McCarey, director, wanted a particular kind of a horse.

The prop man, Russ Pierce, searched long and wide for such a horse. Finally he located a pinto named Agnes. Pierce got a paint brush and bleached Agnes to the desired color.

Then Director McCarey decided he needed a 2 week old colt. All the ranches around Los Angeles informed harassed Mr. Pierce that it was the wrong time of the year for colts to be born.

Pierce kept on looking and finally came back to the studio from down near San Diego with a 2 week old colt and the shooting of scenes began.

A hitch in the shooting schedule developed, however, and McCarey, unaware how fast colts grow up, postponed shooting further scenes of the colt for about two weeks. When he called for the colt again the whole studio echoed to his horror. Agnes' adopted son had grown three times his previous size and couldn't possibly be used for scenes matching up with those previously shot. "Go out and get another colt," McCarey ordered Pierce.

The latter might have given the director any of hundreds of answers that flashed through his mind, but, recalling that prop men are chosen not for their oratorical powers but for their endurance and perseverance, went about the thankless task of finding another out-of-season colt. Weeks passed.

Finally Pierce located a colt whose mother had just died. It was brought down in a special trailer from a desert farm near Mojave, Cal. Jack McIrwin, an assistant prop man, was delegated to do nothing but accompany this colt all day with a nipple bottle filled with warm milk.

The youngster flourished sufficiently under the care of its foster father, Mr. McIrwin, to pose for his scenes.

Scenes with the big and little horses finally were shot, then the "topper" of exasperations developed: No sound track had been made of a 2 week old colt whinnying, and the colt, being no longer 2 weeks of age, could no longer whinny as the script required. He had lost his baby treble.

McCarey wheezed through his own nose to improvise a whinny. Then they ran off the results for studio superiors. "That whinny is lousy," the superiors decided.

McCarey again asked Pierce to round up a 2 week old colt, but the supply in southern California had by that time been utterly exhausted. So McCarey called in forty-three "voice doublers."

Number 44 proved to be his man. He was Clarence Nash of the Walt Disney studios, where Nash is one of the experts who imitate birds, bees, and beasties for Disney's cartoon comedies.

Designers Pick Best Dressed of Chicagoans

BY KAY HALL.

Sixteen women were named by designers yesterday as being the best dressed in Chicago. The designers did not agree on any individual as the best, but they did give preference to five women. These five were given a slight edge over the others by receiving two nominations each. Their names and some of the qualities ascribed to them by the designers are:

Mrs. Gaylord Donnelley—consistent simplicity.

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed—classical beauty, absolute formality, and style mindedness.

Mrs. Byron Harvey Sr.—flawless taste in adaptation for her type [gray haired].

Miss Jean Schweppe—dresses imaginatively.

Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman—soigne, sophisticated type.

Mrs. Howard Linn and Mrs. Henry Field, the two Chicago women who were placed this week by New York designers on the roster of "best dressed women in America," received one nomination each in the Chicago poll.

The designer who named them said that Mrs. Linn "has the ability to adapt any period to her individual beauty," and that Mrs. Field "defies current fashion with décor and dramatic effect."

The other Chicago nominees and the designations of the designers are:

Mrs. Walter P. Paepcke—enhances natural fair and cold beauty with exclusive use of blue and white; total disregard for modish color trends.

Miss Peggy Hambleton—invariably prognosticates fashion by two years.

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr.—captures romance and winsomeness in her dress.

Mrs. Joseph Schwartz — follows mode daily; probably largest wardrobe in Chicago.

Mrs. Robert S. Pirie—blonde and petite.

Mrs. Lloyd A. Laflin—independent and original in dress.

Miss Pauline Palmer—portrait type among the debutantes.

Mrs. Walter Kirk—blonde, sophisticated beauty.

Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler—platinum gray hair; clothes poise.

The designers based their verdicts on the premises that a well dressed woman must have a slender figure and "finished movement" in wearing her clothes and that "she must be as lovely in a hostess gown as she is smart in sports clothes; as much 'belonging' in her attire on ship's deck as in the ballroom."

Simple Wedding

In a simple home ceremony at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Miss Helen Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Robbins of Highland Park, became the bride of William Whipple Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Miller of Winnetka. The Rev. Christoph Keller read the ceremony in the flower filled living room in the presence of relatives and intimate friends, and a reception followed.

The bride wore traditional white satin and a plain tulle head cap and finger length veil, and she carried gardenias and white violets. Her sisters, Miss Ruth and Miss Jane Robbins, who were her only attendants, wore turquoise blue heavy taffeta and carried talisman roses. Mr. Miller's younger brother, Joseph S. Miller, acted as best man.

Four Functions for Buds Will Be Held Today

The Misses Welling, Bastien and Root to Bow.

BY JUDITH CASS.

After a brief interlude in the social whirl for the enjoyment of family reunions and turkey dinners on Thanksgiving we come to another day of feverish activity in which the debutantes will hold the center of the stage. Three teas and a dinner-dance for the young ladies and their beaux will fill the all too fleeting hours.

Miss Harriet Welling, Miss Nancy Bastien, and Miss Denyse Root are the young women who will be introduced into adult society at teas this afternoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland and Miss Martha Borland are the host and hostesses at tonight's dinner-dance which will be given at the Casino.

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Welling will present their tall and graceful daughter at a tea from 4 until 7 o'clock in their Bellevue place home. During those hours the house will be crowded by friends of this popular family who will come to meet the debutante.

Miss Welling, who attended Hathaway house at Milton academy and now is a student at Vassar, arrived at home yesterday morning for the week-end. She has asked nine close friends to assist this afternoon. They include the Misses Nancy Ryerson, Barbara Hutchins, Barbara Stanley, Ethel Johnston, Martha Borland, Elisabeth Dewes, Pauline Palmer, Cornelia Ranney, and Peggy Clow. All of these young women will go on to the Borlands' party which is being given for Miss Welling, Miss Stanley, and Miss Hutchins. These three are among the most fêted of the season's debutanes, for Miss Welling and Miss Ryerson later will share the distinction of being especial guests at a supper-dance at the Casino on Dec. 23, to be given by the Wellings and the Edward L. Ryersons, Nancy's parents.

The Borlands have not limited their invitations to debutantes, for they are asking some of Miss Martha's friends—she was a debutante last year—and some of Miss Harriet Borland's friends, and a few of their own contemporaries.

Miss Bastien Will Bow at Home.

Miss Bastien, whose equally stunning brunette sister, Mrs. Frank H. Armstrong II., made her debut two years ago, will be presented by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Bastien, in their apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue. Miss Bastien attended the Master school at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. Assisting her will be Miss Ruth Brown, Miss Dewes, Miss Mary Armstrong, and Miss Joan Smith, if she is in Chicago, all debutantes; Miss Nancy Angell, Miss Dewes' house guest, and Miss Mary Wood of New York, and Miss Elise Wetter of Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Root's father, John W. Root, is giving a tea at the Tavern to introduce his daughter to his Chicago friends. Miss Root and her mother, Mrs. Ellen Dudley Root, have taken an apartment at the Ambassador so that Denyse may enjoy the season's festivities here. They have been living abroad for several years.

Miss Root has invited Miss Madelon Search, Miss Ann Lynch, Miss Patricia Forsyth Kelly, and Miss Mary Alice Bacon to assist her, but Miss Bacon will not be here, for she is in the east this week-end.

Wells-Hyde Wedding Party Enjoys Dinner.

One of the gayest Thanksgiving dinners given yesterday was one at which Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wells were host and hostess in their apartment at 1530 State parkway for their daughter, Miss Margaret Wells, and James Nevins Hyde of New York, who are to be married tomorrow at St. Chrysostom's.

Mr. Hyde and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cheney Hyde, and his sister, Miss Elizabeth Hyde, who is to be maid of honor for Miss Wells, were among the Thanksgiving guests, and others included Miss Mary Frances Bestor of New York, who roomed with the bride at Vassar; Miss Alice Durgins of Bronxville, N. Y., and Mrs. Charles Howe, cousins of the bride, who will be bridesmaids. Miss Charlotte Mayer is the fourth bridesmaid.

Wilson M. Wing of Washington, D. C., who will serve Mr. Hyde as best man, and six ushers, Whitman Knapp and Daniel B. McCook of New York, Laurens Rhinelander of Washington, D. C.; Nathaniel Rogers of Danbury, Conn.; John L. Caskey of Cincinnati, all of whom attended Choate and Yale with the bridegroom, and the bride's brother, John Warren Wells, also were present at the holiday party.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wells invited members of the bridal party and out of town guests to dine and dance with them at home in Lake Forest last night, and today Mrs. May

Set for Winter Sports

From a Chicago collection of winter sports clothes: Ski, skate or toboggan in a stunning green and white outfit. Beret, mittens, and sweater are of white wool; trousers of pine green wool, lumberjacket of plaid green wool.

Winter Sports Togs Set New Style Standard

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Tricky togs, these winter sports clothes, especially the outfits you need for skiing, skating, and tobogganing. All three winter sports need practically the same sort of clothes, so when you spend your money you really outfit for the winter.

Sweaters and matching mittens that climb cozily well up to the elbow are chosen for warmth as well as decorative contrast to the skating skirt or more practical trousers.

You can find every color you ever heard of in the sweater collections as well as some particularly stunning snow white affairs. They are thick and windproof without being sloppy or bulky. There is no excuse for dumb looking apparel or thick shapeless silhouettes this winter.

Regulation ski ensembles feature trousers that fit with zippers over the hip, a snug beltline, and sufficient length to allow all kinds of freedom and action . . . either a matching zippered hip length jacket or a contrasting lumberjacket, positively dizzy with stripes, plaids or tri-tone effects an exhilarating color contrast. To go with these lumberjackets you can get an undersweater of one color, preferably white, which keeps the color racket under control.

You'll need small snug caps or berets that stay anchored and plenty of fuzzy warm socks. The knowing shopper spends every cent she can on properly sized shoes, selected plenty large to accommodate sometime two pairs of wool socks plus a thin silk pair if your skin rebels at wool. Also a prudent soul carries a knapsack on her back stuffed with an extra sweater, an extra pair of socks and even a sandwich or other edibles, for the out of doors in such apparel has a wicked way of whipping up an appetite.

Fashion photograph . . . white mittens, white beret, and thick fuzzy white wool sweater are used for contrast with dark green water repellent wool trousers, and a vividly colored and plaid lumberjacket in shades of green. Notice the boots, square of toe and made of waterproof lether.

The entire outfit is available in a Chicago shop.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If you're smart you'll begin right now to pick up gems in the way of gifts and set them high on a shelf until Christmas; follow this plan and Dec. 26 won't find you exhausted, ill tempered, and stony broke.

Here's one thought for you: A package now in several shops that contains a handsome bottle of a luxuriously beautiful infusion, plus an atomizer to make its use still more of a pleasant rite.

In case you've forgotten what infusion is [we've told you about it before], it isn't a perfume, it isn't a toilet water, it isn't a cologne. But it's got some of the virtues of all these. A great French house makes these—and the scents of the two infusions are enough to send the sane woman who loves fine fragrances right out of her mind.

First there were—and still are—perfumes in the two scents. Beautiful, expensive, tremendously Parisian in package and flavor. The perfumes are highly concentrated. Then the makers had the elegant notion of creating infusions with the two same perfumes. These are not expensive and they practically serve a perfume's purpose.

While the fragrance of the infusions is more ephemeral than that of the perfumes it isn't faint in any sense of the word. We ourselves have probably been one of the best walking advertisments of one of these. We adore the one with the sophisticated name but the well bred scent. It's gay and glamorous and there's something vastly exciting about simply dousing oneself with infusion. You know you have a perfume on in a quantity that's never overpowering. You couldn't possibly use a perfume as lavishly as you would this—which you can use as though it were a cologne. It's refreshing in the way a cologne is, plus the added virtue that its fine perfume lasts.

Don't overlook the infusion atomizer combine on your gift hunt.

Mildred Gerber Definite Success in Her Opera Debut as Lucia

Brings Winning Youthfulness and Beautiful Voice to Role; Audience Is Pleased.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

MILDRED GERBER, a young Chicago coloratura, has survived the ordeal of her first full length performance as an operatic principal in a major house. The Chicago City Opera company exhumed "Lucia di Lammermoor" to give her the best possible vehicle for her debut, and its musicians and technicians blew enough of the breath of enthusiasm into the body of the old Donizetti opus to keep it glowingly alive on the stage of the Civic Opera house through all last evening.

Miss Gerber was a definite success. Even if the theater had not been filled with a cordial throng of friends and well-wishers, her own ability would have been sufficient to ensure two or three nice old fashioned ovations. As it was, the house rocked every time she got above an A.

This very young singer put a winning and pathetic youthfulness into her interpretation of the part of Lucia. The sweet freshness and seemingly fragile beauty of her voice blend easily into her conception of the character. This seemingly fragile voice has plenty of brilliance and carrying power, as I learnt late in the evening by listening to a bit from the extreme rear of the house.

Gerber came through most of the Donizetti fireworks without being singed. She adds to her vocal gifts quite a great deal of poise, and the antique routine of the opera never had her completely whipped.

The excitement of the debut was infectious on both sides of the footlights. Sydney Rayner, whom we saw a while ago in the hopeless rôle of Tannhäuser, proved himself an artist of gallantry and power in an opera that gives the singer a fair chance. Wilfred Engelman made a suave and scheming older brother for the heroine.

Lodovico Oliviero appeared as the doughty kilted captain in the first act and returned an hour later in a much more expensive suit of clothes to sue for Lucia's hand as Lord Arthur Bucklaw. Cordon's towering presence added dignity and impressiveness to several scenes, notably the sextette.

Ruth Mills, a friend and protégée [and in the old country a neighbor] of Rosa Raisa, sang the tragedy haunted confidante of Lucia. Dino Bigalli conducted. It was pleasant to see the overworked chorus master of the company get public recognition in the shape of a curtain call or two.

"Lucia di Lammermoor" is an entertaining and fast moving opera. Its tunes have freshness and immediate appeal; its sets are gay and eye-filling, thanks to the company's technical director, Harry W. Beatty. I would gladly trade all the pretentious hours [they seem like weeks] of three or four less aged and supposedly less artificial works in the répertoire for some more of these ingenuous Donizetti operas.

Last night's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be repeated this afternoon. An account of it will appear in tomorrow morning's paper.

Chicago Ballet Fans See Two New Numbers

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Chicago's ballet experts and enthusiasts assembled in full convocation in the Auditorium theater last night to watch the admired Russians of the Monte Carlo troupe put on two new numbers. These additions to the catalog are novelties, however, only in the American history of the company; their history runs back into the pre-war period of the Diaghileff productions in Europe.

The first was a frolic in costume comedy, with eighteenth century Italy providing its atmosphere—"The Good-Humored Ladies," based on one of Carlo Goldoni's numerous works. It has the mood of a Venetian carnival and deals in lively pantomime and gay dancing with the pranks of a quartet of high-spirited girls and their ornamental admirers. The piece has the standard plot devices of Italian farcical comedy—mistaken identities, masquerades, and comic disguises.

Alexandra Danilova is the center of the action in a soubrette rôle in which she shines as a dancing comedienne. The four funmaking ladies are charmingly mimed and danced by Mlles. Grigorieva, Morosova, Tchinarova and Nelidova. The score, a pleasant arrangement of pre-Mozartian fiddlings and flutings, comes out of the works of the junior Scarlatti.

The other novelty was the divertissement called "The Specter of the Rose," first danced in 1911 by Nijinsky and Karsavina, demi-gods of the Russian ballet. It is an after-the-ball reverie: the heroine, in her boudoir, dreams that the rose she has brought home from a soirée becomes a gallant youth in roseate tights who dances with and for her. The music is Weber's familiar "Invitation to the Dance."

The stage setting, a Bakst design in blue and white, looks as if it were fresh from the paint shop, and the round cheeked Baronova's ballroom gown also seems new to the world. She makes a delightful picture as a dancing somnambulist. David Lichine falls heir to the Nijinsky rôle and is a much more virile rose-boy than his predecessor.

REMEMBER the story about the fellow in the barber shop who tore out of the shop and down the street after some one in the shop yelled, "Hey, Abe, your house is on fire," . . . only to remember, four blocks away, that his name wasn't Abe? This is Stanton M. Meyer's version of the story:

A fellow was asleep in a hotel room, when in the middle of the night he heard a woman's voice screaming frantically, "Abe, Abe, wake up! The hotel is on fire!" He burst open the door, dashed down the corridor and ran down the stairs three at a time. Finally, on the flight nearest the street floor he stopped.

"Hell, my name ain't Abe," he said. And he went back up to bed.

ADD industrious knitters: the young matron, severely tailored in black and white, in a center box at a performance of Col. de Basil's Ballet Russe, knitting a white wool scarf. Toward the end of the evening, having completed the scarf, she folded it carefully and placed it on the edge of the box. When the Three Ivans gave their marvelous folk dance in "Aurora's Wedding," she laid aside her knitting and applauded enthusiastically.

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Fevrel is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her home, Siwash. She was taking an early morning ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, happens on the scene of the tragedy, where she meets her friend, Inspector Piper. Dr. Bloom, medical examiner, finds no wounds on the body, though murder is suspected. After the body is removed Miss Withers finds a brass pipe on the spot where the girl had lain. Miss Mandy Thwaites and her husband, Sam, are owners of the estate where Siwash is kept, and Latigo Wells, manager. Mandy Thwaite desired to own Siwash. At Violet Fevrel's apartment Miss Withers and Piper overtake Violet's young half-sister, Barbara Foley, about to elope with Eddie Fry, Violet's boy friend and a race track gambler. Barbara tells them that Violet was divorced from Don Gregg and had had him put in alimony jail. Thomas, who with his wife, Mattie, are old retainers of Don's father, Pat Gregg, comes in search of Violet. Old Mr. Gregg thinks he is going to die. Thomas hints at foul play. Miss Withers and Piper accompany Thomas to the Gregg country home. Pat Gregg is seriously ill. Dr. Peterson, who is called, says it's apoplexy. Gregg had no use for his daughter-in-law. Miss Withers explores the house. Back in town Miss Withers and Piper call at the alimony jail.

INSTALMENT XVII.

AN ESCAPE FROM ALIMONY JAIL.

"I—I'll tell the deputy warden," said the guard. The door closed, and he was gone a long time. Finally he returned, looking more unhappy than ever.

Behind him was a man in plain clothes, equally unshaven and still more lugubrious of countenance.

"I'm the deputy warden," he admitted. "Sorry, but you can't see Mr. Gregg."

"And why the hell not?" demanded Piper. He flashed his badge.

"You can come in if you want to, inspector," said the deputy. He swung the door wide.

The hallway smelled of strong soap, of cabbage, tobacco, and humanity. They went up one flight of stairs and through a long room filled with uneasy easy chairs and tables. Here a few men in their shirt sleeves were playing cards and reading newspapers. They all looked as if they had headaches.

All the eyes in the room focussed upon Miss Withers and the inspector, vacantly yet defiantly. It was hard for Miss Withers to realize that these men were not criminals, that few of them had ever stood before a judge and none of them had seen a jury. They were locked up here because ex-wives had seized an opportunity to get back at them for unpaid alimony.

At the far end of the recreation room was a tier of cells, each fairly comfortable in spite of the open bars at the door. The deputy warden indicated the farthest one, which showed only a shower curtain pinned across the door. On the shower curtain was lettered the words—"Do Not Disturb."

Piper lifted the curtain, but the cell was empty. "Well, where is Gregg?" he demanded.

The deputy warden swallowed. "That's what we'd like to know," he admitted. "He belongs in here. . . ."

"But he broke out?"

"Not exactly," the deputy hurried on. "You see, last night was Saturday night. I went out to a show, and so did some of the guards. We left Milton [the guard who let you in] in charge. Long about midnight, he says, a deputy sheriff came to the door with a writ for Gregg's release. Seems his alimony'd been paid up and it was okay for him to go. So Milt put the writ in the desk and let the prisoner go. I came back after Milt had been relieved. I checked up and figured everybody was here, on account of this curtain we let Gregg hang over his cell to keep out the light. It wasn't until this morning that I found the writ and I noticed . . . I noticed. . . ."

From his pocket the deputy took an official looking document signed by a judge of the Court of Appeals. "I noticed that Judge Bascom signed his name like he never signed it before, and the seal. . . ."

The inspector snatched the document and displayed it to Miss Withers. "The seal," he announced sarcastically, "is made of pretty red wax, but it reads 'Sacred Order of the Sons of Ananias!' You can buy 'em at 10 cents a dozen at any trick and magic store on Broadway!"

"Anyways," said the deputy warden, "he's flew the coop."

Inspector Oscar Piper drew a deep breath. "Did you send out a general alarm—notify all radio cars, ferryboats, railroad stations. . . ."

The deputy warden shook his head sadly. "He got out of here about midnight, and by the time we discovered that the writ wasn't kosher he'd had plenty of time to get across the river into New Jersey. And there's no extradition for the offense of contempt of court. This is just a disciplinary jail, not a penal institution," he went on to explain. "It's almost impossible to get out-of-the-state police to cooperate with us just to pick up a missing prisoner. Besides, we figured he might come back after he'd attended to some private business or other. . . ."

"How I should hate to remain sitting upon a red hot stove until young Mr. Gregg wanders back to alimony jail!" Miss Withers observed.

"Well," decided the inspector suddenly, "I'll authorize the general alarm for Gregg. There's extradition to cover the crime we want him for!"

"For which we want him," corrected Miss Withers absently. "But Oscar, even if Don Gregg is suspect No. 1, I wish you'd make haste slowly. I have a feeling that he isn't far away, but if you make a loud noise you'll send him scooting."

"He's got to be found, all the same," insisted Oscar Piper.

Miss Withers told him that she would rather find the deputy sheriff who had appeared out of nowhere and freed the prisoner so handily. Piper seized upon the idea.

"Say, that's right! Who was he?"

The deputy warden didn't know. Milton, the hapless keeper who now awaited suspension or worse, was hardly more helpful. By dint of much questioning, the inspector managed to build up a figure slightly less shadowy than nobody. It seemed that the stranger had been of medium height, had worn a hat and dark overcoat of blue or black, and was chewing gum. "That's all I remember," he insisted.

"We could pick him out of a million with that description," the inspector pointed out warmly. "Probably the badge was a tin shield with 'Chicken Inspector' on it. So all we have to do is look for a medium-sized guy in an overcoat. . . ."

"Who chews gum," Miss Withers concluded. "I'm surprised at that. I rather thought he'd have smoked a pipe." She gave Milton an innocent glance.

"A pipe? Say, that reminds me—he did smoke a pipe. Threw away the gum while he was waiting for me to bring down the prisoner, and lit a terrible smelling old hod."

Miss Withers followed the inspector through the dismal portals and out into the street again. She put her hand upon his arm as he was about to dash off in the direction of the nearest telephone booth.

"Before you have young Gregg arrested for the murder of his ex-wife, how about getting a report from Dr. Bloom?"

The inspector spent a busy five minutes at the telephone. "The case is still pretty much at a standstill," he reported as he emerged from the booth. "No word from Bloom yet—we might as well drop in on him on our way uptown."

Miss Withers agreed. They hurried to that grim building above the East river where life and death overlap.

There was a short wait, and then Charles Bloom, veteran medical examiner for the borough of Manhattan, came out of the back room and closed the door carefully behind him.

"Nice of you both to drop in," said Dr. Bloom. "Just finished—want to have a look?"

Piper shook his head. "Well?"

Dr. Bloom nodded. "It was murder, right enough." He rolled something thoughtfully in the palm of his hand. "One of the neatest jobs I've seen for some time. I'm writing down the cause of death as internal hemorrhage, caused by rupture of the main throat artery with—with this!"

He showed them what was in his palm—a tiny pellet of lead, slightly flattened.

"What? Killed with a BB?" gasped Piper.

Glasses That Fit Properly Are Aid to Eye Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Some one happened to notice a peculiarity she had noted in many people who wear glasses, the way they frown, although glasses are supposed to prevent that habit.

From an authority in the field I learned something about glasses and people who wear them that may explain the frowns and other idiosyncrasies of the eyeglass wearers.

Mr. Hugo Krieger, my authority, and connected with the optical department of the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled, in New York City, says that people who wear glasses should have the eyes reëxamined every year and one-half; certainly not later than every two years. All kinds of changes may come over eyes and glasses in the term mentioned. In any event, because eyes have been found to need glasses, it is assumed rightly that there is something the matter with the sight.

Because no magic in the world can restore sight once gone, this would seem reason enough for the frequent reëxamination. Then, because as good eyesight as one can have with the correctly fitted glasses is important to nerve calm, and to beauty in wrinkle, the more frequent knocking at the examiner's door is urged.

Arguing against woman's vanity, which sometimes postpones eyeglass adoption, Mr. Krieger points out that a woman with the calmer nerves is a much better looking woman than she whose eyestrain is causing her to be sharp, grouchy, tired, and nervous.

The glasses may need only a little adjusting to rid that brow of its petulant frown. If the glasses don't fit there will be strain. They may become loose. After the purchase of eyeglasses from four to six weeks are required for proper adjustment, sometimes demanding a return visit to the oculist and optician. And, ridiculously enough, sometimes the frowns are seen in brows for no other reason than that one is trying to see through dirty glasses. Lukewarm water, with soap on the hands, is my authority's recommendation for keeping them clean.

The Misses Welling, Bastien and Root to Bow.

Wells Noyes and Mrs. George D. Smith, aunts of the bride, will give a luncheon for her in Mrs. Noyes' Winnetka home. Mr. Hyde will give a bachelor dinner at the University club and Miss Wells will give a spinster dinner at the Woman's Athletic club tonight.

Chauncey B. Borlands Will Entertain.

The Chauncey B. Borlands will entertain at luncheon tomorrow in their Lakeview avenue apartment for the out of town guests. These include Mr. Wells' cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Luther E. Roby, and their son and daughter, Edward and Isabel, from Peoria, Ill.; the William P. Lindseys of Hamilton, Ont.; Mrs. Darling Fleck and her daughter, Norah, of Schenectady, and Mrs. Knapp, wife of one of the ushers.

The wedding will take place at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with the Rev. Dudley S. Stark officiating, and a reception at home will follow, to which only relatives and close friends have been invited. Mr. Hyde and his bride will be at home in New York after a few days in Virginia.

Prenuptial Parties for Miss Pelouze.

The town is in a whirl of pre-nuptial parties. Those for Miss Medora Pelouze and Bruce P. Adams are beginning this week-end with a tea that Miss Margery Garvey is giving this afternoon. Miss Garvey is entertaining for Miss Louise Parsons as well as Miss Pelouze, for Miss Parsons is to be married on Jan. 4 to Francis R. Stanton. Miss Pelouze and Mr. Adams are to be married next Friday at the Woman's Athletic club.

Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. John J. Cummings will entertain at cocktails in her apartment at 70 Scott street for Miss Pelouze and Mr. Adams, and tomorrow night Miss Barbara Shaffer, who will be one of Miss Pelouze's bridesmaids, will entertain at dinner and dancing at the Palmer house.

On Sunday Miss Mildred Starck will give a buffet supper at home and Tuesday night Miss Ann Huston will give a dinner at the Blackstone. Miss Eleanor McKenna will give a cocktail party at the Woman's Athletic club on Thursday, and that night Col. and Mrs. Pelouze will give the bridal dinner for their daughter at the Drake.

Symphony Stags to Attend Ballet.

The Symphony Stags, who meet every Thursday night for dinner and the concert, are dining together and attending the Russian ballet tonight. Gaylord Donnelley, one of the Stags until he married Dorothy Ranney, will be a bachelor for tonight and will entertain the party at cocktails.

Dinner will be at the Racquet club and then the young men will go to the Auditorium where they will occupy several center boxes.

Daggett Harvey also will be a bachelor again just for the night and among others who will be in the party are Philip S. Dalton Jr., Burke Williamson, William Parke, Stewart Boal, Durand Smith, Donald McClure, Ross J. Beatty Jr., and Thomas Tyler.

Dinner Guests Will Attend Parish Sale.

Mrs. Mark D. Cummings is having so many friends for a buffet supper at her residence, 1550 State parkway, next Wednesday night that she is dividing them into two groups and asking some for 6:30 and others for 7:30. After supper they all will go to the entertainment Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. is staging at St. Chrysostom's parish house in connection with the "Christmas Windows" to be held Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Cummings is co-chairman with Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt and Mrs. Harold Eldridge of the Christmas sale. The entertainment Mrs. Winterbotham will provide Wednesday and Thursday nights—there will be two performances each night, the first at 8 and the second at 9 o'clock—are tableaux vivants.

On Thursday night at the parish house a turkey dinner will be served and tickets for three sittings are being sold so great is the demand for them. Mrs. William E. Parsons is in charge of the dinner.

Mrs. Cummings is interested in another Christmas sale to be held next week, too, the annual gift and toy sale at the Rummage Shop in East Ohio street which is conducted for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital. The sale will be held on Tuesday and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine will entertain at luncheon for those who will assist.

Tea This Afternoon for English Guests.

Today between 5 and 6 o'clock in the Fountain room of the Casino the English-Speaking union will give a tea for Richard Kay Shuttleworth and Arthur Greenwood, the members of the Oxford Union Debating club who are visiting the Samuel M. Rinakers in Lake Forest.

Vassar college alumnae, who last year gave a dinner-dance in Diana Court for the benefit of their scholarship fund, are going to make it an annual affair and Jan. 4 has been chosen as the date for this year's party.

North shore children will crowd the auditorium of the Skokie school in Winnetka today for two performances of "The Emperor's New Clothes" by the Goodman Theater Players. The Winnetka Public Nursery school will benefit from the performances. Mrs. George F. Munns is president of the board of the school.

There will be dozens of luncheon parties for children after the morning performance or before the afternoon one. Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard will give one of them for her daughter, Mary, on her birthday.

Among other luncheon hostesses are Mrs. Vernon Welsh, who is entertaining for her daughters, Rosanna and Sally; Mrs. Walter T. Fisher, whose children are Jerry and Frank, and Mrs. Herbert Butz, who has twins, Robert and Mona.

Lecture This Evening on Symphony Instruments.

Anne Faulkner Oberndorfer's lecture on "The Instruments of the Orchestra," which will introduce the 18 principals of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will draw a large number of music lovers to Orchestra hall this evening.

Among those who have reserved seats or boxes are Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, Mrs. Wentworth Field, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Henry A. Rumsey, and Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson.

Miss Elizabeth Byron Smith and her brother-in-law, Morrison Waud, will be wedding attendants at the marriage in Bridgeport, Conn., this afternoon of Miss Helen Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Bennett of New Britain, to John Gillespie Jackson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gillespie Jackson of New York and Washington. Mrs. Waud, the former Anne Smith, accompanied her husband and sister east.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago are sailing today from San Francisco for Hawaii and will not return to Chicago until about Dec. 21. They left about ten days ago so that Dr. Hutchins could lecture in the west before taking a vacation.

Pullman Employes to Hold Charity Ball Tomorrow

The annual charity ball through which employes of the Pullman Car company hope to raise funds for 150 Christmas baskets for needy Chicago families will be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman tomorrow night. Walter A. Gross, general chairman, said two orchestras will play.

Flying Geese Are Graceful Figures in Simple Quilt

Flying Geese.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Flying Geese" is a most interesting and simple pieced design. As the block appears in the illustration, the geese are flying northward. By inverting the block in the arrangement on the coverlet, the fowl may be seen flying southward. The entire quilt is composed of pieced blocks, but the simplicity of the patches make it an easy design to set together quickly.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Good Morning!

The Sonotone again houses a soviet film.

The picture is an adaptation of the novel "White Lights," by Dostoyevski. It tells the story of a musician, frustrated in his life and ambitions by the gnawing sense of injustice which makes him spurn patronage. He will not play for an aristocrat. He will not fiddle for an actress. He goes to St. Petersburg to win recognition on his merits; succeeds in infuriating everybody with whom he comes in contact; finds that a supposed friend has stolen one of his themes and has the dickens of a time generally until—after many years have passed . . . . he hears a horde of factory workers who have been driven out of the factory and are headed for Siberia singing. One of his songs!

At last he knows he hasn't lived in vain. He is appreciated in the way he wants to be appreciated.

The picture is detailed in the dilatory fashion characteristic of most Russian output. Characters are sincerely portrayed. B. Dobronravov plays the violin in a fiery, fanatic vein that is convincing. Settings and costumes are interesting, and at times the photography is nice.

The film is in no way "box office" but it should be of interest to Russians.

See you tomorrow.

Conversational Practice Might Cure Shyness

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The girl is 21 and he is 23. They've known each other for five years. He travels a great deal and when away, he confides, thoughts of the girl are with him always. He gets a peculiar feeling inside which he can't describe when he is indulging in these romantic reveries. But when he gets back home, with every intention of proposing to the girl, the feeling escapes him. They're both quiet and never have much to say to each other. He goes completely tongue tied, he tells, so they never get anywhere. The question is: "What recommendation have you for a case like this, and where is it all going to lead?" Muggs.

It doesn't look as if it will lead anywhere, Muggs, unless you give that tongue of yours a little exercise practice. You're one of those young men who can think of all the bright things to say at a dinner table long after the party has vanished, yes? You can get over this habit of doing all your bright talking to yourself by practice. And more practice.

Naturally, when you come along to see the girl after an absence, she's all primed for a little enthusiasm, at least. You go dead on her and she, being reserved, too, reciprocates in kind. One of you must become the aggressor. Your experience out in the world, traveling around, should better qualify you for the job, don't you think, son?

Countless numbers of men have suffered the social disability you have, but they've gotten over it by keeping an ear to the ground as other men talk. They force themselves into conversational situations and say something regardless of where the chips may fall, just for the sake of practice.

According to CULBERTSON

FROM PILLAR TO POST.

"You'd make a great statesman," my opponent cynically remarked to his partner. "You had all the earmarks of a man making a momentous decision—while actually making a beautiful straddle."

The criticism may have been unkind, but it certainly was justified. East's error was that of many a more experienced player—he wanted to try out every suit.

He should have recognized that this was one of the many no trump hands which contain a stopper or two in each of three suits, and the bulk of the tricks in one long suit. In the race for time which often develops in such a case, the task of the defense is to pick one of the weak spots [the weakest, if possible] and hammer out the stoppers before declarer's suit is established. There often is time for one shift, but practically never for two.

After some deliberation West led the four of clubs—an unfortunate choice. East won with the ace and I dropped the nine. At this point East made his first mistake by returning the suit. By the "rule of eleven" I was marked with only one card higher than the four. But if this were the nine, his partner had led low from a six card suit headed by the king-jack-ten! The more logical conclusion to draw was that the lead was not fourth best, in which case a shift was imperative.

I won the club return with the king and led the heart. West covered, dummy ducked, and East overtook with the king to lead a spade. Having won with the spade king, dummy led the heart ace and a low heart which East snapped up. Disappointed at not finding the spade ace in his partner's hand, East decided to shift once more—a fatal error.

I won the diamond and overtook the jack of clubs with dummy's queen to knock out the last heart. Nothing could defeat the contract at this stage, since the eight of clubs had been preserved as an entry to bring in the hearts and since I still had a stopper in both spades and diamonds. But had East plugged away consistently at either suit, the defense would have taken five tricks before I could run the hearts.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: May dummy call attention to a revoke?

Answer: Yes. Provided that he has not intentionally looked at the cards of either opponent, declarer's partner may announce that a defender has revoked and may ask declarer whether he knows his rights.

Adolescents Need Guiding, Not Flogging

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"His father was a martinet. He called the boy into the book lined library and there flogged him until his arm was limp. He would stand no nonsense and no rebellion," reads many an old narrative of clipper ship days. "So at 14 Isaiah ran away to sea, breaking his mother's heart, and his father's too, if the truth were known, though no sign of it appeared upon the latter's granite face."

A short time ago an "inquiring reporter" asked a number of boys in early adolescence if they had ever run away from home, and why. Of those whose replies were printed all had run away either because they had been whipped or because they were afraid to go home, expecting punishment for something they had done [though not serious misdemeanors].

In every case except one the boys had returned home without going through with their plans. The one exception was apparently a boy with the wanderlust, which is quite another story.

The other boys saw the light in various ways—because of their common sense; or, because they had cooled down; or because they decided to "face the music," or because they knew that a hard road lay ahead, or because, in one case, the boy met one who had run away and had had some terrible experiences.

Running away from home is happily not resorted to as it used to be. I don't believe there's the glamor about it that there was when swaggering, dark skinned sailors with earrings in their ears and a parrot on their shoulders told tales of pirates and adventure on the high seas.

But—make it your business to see that you don't subject your teen age boy to the indignity of spanking or whipping, and that you don't inspire fear by your methods. Your son needs guidance and control. Achieve these through a mutual confidence and friendship.

Physiognomist Reassures Girl as to Marriage

Timid Inquirer Is Told She Will Wed.

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

"Shall I ever get married?" asks a pretty 17 year old girl. The question brings a not very creditable temptation to give a facetious answer which is promptly suppressed, however. The matter is a serious one to the youthful inquirer and of general interest to thoughtful people. She is not satisfied with merely a boy friend, some one to "take her around." She obeys an inborn impulse to do her share in the world, to make a home for an ambitious male and raise a family that successfully carries on in the regular order of human progress.

RONALD COLMAN.

This girl's eyebrows, her photograph shows, are light in color and growth, and that is a sign of shyness and timidity. Her man will have dark eyebrows and will boldly sue for her favor. She has a short upper lip and a tendency to worry but he will be calm and purposeful. He may hesitate with the bashfulness of youth in the face of a new experience but she will find a way of prompting him tactfully. Certainly she will get married.

Ronald Colman would appeal to the girl just mentioned. He has the ability to concentrate his attention, denoted by his upper eyelids slanting down outwardly, partly covering the eyes. He has the courage to deal with people on a matter-of-fact basis [eyebrows dark and heavy], but does not know much about their bad or unfriendly tendencies [narrow nose in front view]. The mouth is harmoniously strong and well proportioned and shows a well balanced relation between his desire for personal gain and his ability to satisfy it.

The chin is moderately protruding and denotes persistency of opinion and perseverance in action. The nose tip is rather rounded in the side view, which means a tolerant judgment of the shortcomings of others without undue sensitiveness to the way they treat his friendly advances. The sum total of his features expresses a kindliness to the weak and unfortunate, but an unflinching hardness in the face of hostility.

Some Real Information on COLDS
How any community can reduce the suffering time and discomfort in "Cold" season

Place no faith in so-called "instant" cold cures. To relieve a cold, you should clear the head, dry the secretions, reduce the fever and keep the bowels open. This takes more than a "few minutes" and medicine of more than one kind.

You can get the necessary medicines of any druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve a "new" cold take two of these little tablets; chew them up, drink a glass of water.

Some colds may require additional treatment. If so, follow directions on the package. The relief thus afforded and the comfort it brings you are well worth the time.

Nothing else that would be safe for you to take will relieve a cold more quickly than Pape's Cold Compound.

Swedish Artists Open Splendid Annual Exhibit

Water Colors Are Brisk and Decorative.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The eighth annual exhibition by Swedish artists of Chicago has opened in the east lounge of the Edgewater Beach hotel. It is a colorful and amusing show, quite as good as that of last year.

The water colors are especially brisk and decorative. Thomas Hall, Lydia D. Pohl and Grace Spongberg carry most of this division on their shoulders and do it forcefully and graciously. There is a generous depth about the painting of all three that makes their work stand out.

Axel Claesson has a delightful still life in "Amaryllis" and Gotthilf Ahlman shows several picturesque dune landscapes.

Among the oils the brilliant painting of Mary C. Peterson makes her a power to be reckoned with. Her painting is loose and her color gorgeous. She paints casually but exquisitely. Her "Still Life" and "Portrait, O. Henry" are two as fine paintings as one will meet with in a dozen shows. Signe Palmblad is represented by "Summer, Skansen," a charming rural landscape and Elias Olson has a vigorous episode in "The Covered Wagon."

Elisabeth Goranson shows several paintings, the "White Fragrance," a still life of flowers, is a decorative canvas. W. Hoffman offers a superb piece of composition in "Roofs of Oak Park"; this is an outstanding painting in the show.

R. E. Hult has an interesting "Green Apples," admirable in technique. Carl E. Wallin has shifted for the moment from his allegorical manner and offers a fascinating and subtle portrait, "At the Window."

Among the sculpture the "A Friend of Ours" by Carl Hallsthammar is of most importance, for, not only is it well done, but it gives us again, to the life, Will Rogers.

New York., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Lynn Patrick, son of the New York Rangers' manager, won a game for the old man tonight, scoring both goals that gave the Rangers a 2 to 1 National Hocky league victory over the Chicago Blackhawks before 12,000.

The younger Patrick concentrated his scoring efforts in one minute of the second period to overcome an early Chicago lead and send New York to the top of the league's American division.

Mushy March put Chicago ahead early in the first period when he took a pass from Eddie Ouellette, went down the right side and whipped home a shot so fast Goalie Dave Kerr had hardly begun to move when the puck hit the cords.

Johnson Is Injured.

Patrick's first shot came from the same quarter. He was almost along side the goal post when he fired. Meanwhile Jumbo Ayres, who had fed him the puck, was struggling with a Chicago defenseman in front of the cage and somewhere in the mêlée the disc hit a skate and glanced in. The second tally, less than a minute later, was on a clean cut shot after a double pass from Cecil Dillon and Murray Murdoch.

The Rangers, minus Ching Johnson, who starred in the early part of the game, put up a superb defense in the final period to keep the Hawks from tying the score. The Chicagoans got only seven shots at Kerr although they were on the offensive most of the time. Johnson retired in the second period when he suffered a recurrence of a rib fracture. Bunny Cook and Frank Boucher were outstanding in the final Ranger stand.

Hawks Take Lead.

There was back checking and more back checking at the start, and the first lines retired without having made a scoring threat. March got off a pretty shot just before the middle of the period to give the Hawks a 1 to 0 lead. Taking a pass from Ouellette inside the blue line he slipped past Keeling and Seibert and drove the puck into the far corner from a sharp angle.

The Hawks set about protecting this lead by stiff body checking, and Wiebe gave a fine exhibition of defense play in staving off the Ranger rushes.

Rangers Get Going.

Keeling still had more than a minute to serve in the penalty box when the second period began, and it nearly cost the Rangers another goal. Romnes got a clean shot at the net with Kerr down on one knee, but he failed to lift his shot over the goalie.

Patrick finally took the puck down alongside the cage and fired across the mouth. Ayres was struggling with a Chicago defense man in front of the net and the puck apparently hit a skate and glanced in, but the goal was credited to Patrick.

Less than a minute later Patrick whipped home another shot from a mêlée close to the cage, with Murdoch and Dillon drawing assists, to put the Rangers ahead, 2 to 1.

The Hawks' efforts to even the score were hampered by offsides and overskating passes. Bill Cook was sent off for charging McFadyen, and the Hawks found plenty of opportunities in his absence, but some one usually Johnson, always got in to spoil their shots.

Defense Holds Out.

Chicago opened the final period with another furious drive, but couldn't make a dent in the improved Ranger defense. A penalty to Burke for tripping Patrick ended a threat and gave the Rangers a chance to do some sniping. Their best threat came on a raid started by Seibert just before Burke returned.

GARCIA TOSSES PUNCHES AT ROSS IN BOUT TONIGHT

Barney Back at Stadium After Two Years.

The Card

THE boxing card to be presented at the Chicago Stadium tonight, with the first bout going on at 8:30 o'clock, is as follows:

Barney Ross vs. Ceferino Garcia, 10 rounds, 148 pounds.

Freddie Miller vs. Jimmy Christy, 10 rounds, 127 pounds.

Eddie Cool vs. Geno Salvatore, 8 rounds, 138 pounds.

Pat Murphy vs. Bob Le Monte, 8 rounds, 150 pounds.

Virgil Bemi vs. Harold Brown, 6 rounds, 142 pounds.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Barney Ross, grandly equipped with the world's welterweight boxing championship which he did not possess two years ago when he last fought in these parts, comes home tonight for a 10 round battle at the Chicago Stadium with Ceferino Garcia, hard hitting Filipino from Los Angeles.

Much has gone under the bridge for Barney since that last Chicago fight late in 1933.

It will be recalled that he departed that night leaving a bad taste, due to the fact that spectators thought he had put up a weak fight against his rather mediocre opponent, Sammy Fuller. He won that fight, but not in the fashion which becomes a world's champion. Barney even at that time held the world's lightweight title.

Whether this discouraging reception by the home folk was responsible for Barney's two years of wandering he has never revealed. There was a fight last winter among local promoters which might have caused his absence, and again the obvious explanation may be simply that there was more gold in them thar other hills for Barney.

Gives Up Lightweight Title.

Twice since Barney started to roam the country he has held the welterweight crown. He lost it the first time to Jimmy McLarnin and then won it back again. And during those travels his world's lightweight title slipped away from him because he grew just enough to make it impossible for him to scale the lightweight limit. So that championship was lost by default.

The great little fighting man who has become such a stranger will be royally welcomed back by his friends and admirers. The ticket sale, the Stadium counting room announced, indicates a gathering of about 15,000. Regardless of how roughly the rugged Filipino treats him Barney still will be the champion when the fight is over, because it is an overweight match as far as Garcia is concerned.

In their only previous meeting, a clash that took place in San Francisco, Garcia did treat Barney in a most careless manner. Although he lost the decision, Garcia knocked the Chicagoan down twice in the first round and says he would have finished him if he hadn't put so much power in those blows. He contends that his right arm was thrown out of place at the shoulder the second time he floored the Chicagoan.

Miller Faces Christy.

All of this has caused the ring followers to expect a great deal when these two fellows come together tonight. And in addition they are looking for still more fireworks when another world's champion, Freddie Miller of Cincinnati, the boss of all the featherweights, goes into combat against Jimy Christy of Chicago.

This, too, is a non-title affair because Christy could not make the featherweight mark. Still that does not make any difference to Christy, who is driving his way toward an

DUTCH CLARK IS PUNCH BEHIND LIONS' ATTACK

Takes Two Passes for Detroit Touchdowns.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—Dutch Clark led two successful assaults against the Chicago Bears' defense today and by these drives the Detroit Lions whipped their professional rivals, 14 to 2. The Lions' victory coupled with the triumph by the Chicago Cardinals over the Green Bay Packers, left them tied with the Cards for the lead in the western division of the National league.

Detroit, with still a hope to win the western championship, looks to the Bears now to whip the Cardinals, thus insuring the Lions the title. Today's victory was the Lions' sixth against three defeats and two ties. Detroit meets the Brooklyn Dodgers here Sunday. The Cardinals today piled up their sixth victory against three losses and one tie and have two games coming up with the Bears.

20,000 See Battle.

Twenty thousand gathered in the University of Detroit stadium for the Thanksgiving day battle despite yesterday's rain and a discouraging drizzle early this morning.

Measurement of distance gained and first downs prove that the Lions and Bears were evenly matched. The Bears had their scoring opportunities, for six times they were deep in Detroit territory, but there was no Dutch Clark to show the way to the goal. Three of Chicago's regulars, Beattie Feathers, Art Buss and Bill Karr, who scored three touchdowns last Sunday when these same elevens fought to a 20 to 20 deadlock at Wrigley field, were out of today's clash because of injuries.

Without Clark the Lions might not have scored. But as soon as Clark took the field Detroit marched 53 yards for its first touchdown, which came just before the end of the first quarter. And with him again directing the attack in the third quarter the Lions, who had only a 7 to 2 advantage at the rest period, shoved over a second touchdown which put the decision beyond reach of the Bears.

Shepherd Leading Gainer.

Bill Shepherd, recently obtained from Boston, was the ground gainer in the first drive directed by Clark until Dutch called for a touchdown pass on the Bears' 12 yard line. But Shepherd's effectiveness largely was due to Clark's threat at the ends.

In the second successful drive, a move of thirty-four yards in four plays, Clark turned in a twenty yard dash to the goal line which was the feature of the game. On the play at least four Bears failed to stop Dutch, although they had clean shots at him.

The Bears scored their two points

Utah and Utah State Tie, 14-14; Aggies Share Title

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Utah and Utah State fought a thrilling 14 to 14 football tie here today. The tie gave the Aggies a share with Colorado university in the Rocky Mountain conference title.

N.Y.U. Given 21-0 Beating by Fordham

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A combination of "Rose Bowl prospect jitters" and an alert and rugged Fordham team smeared New York university's unbeaten and untied record today and shattered the Violet's hopes of participating in the annual post-season Pacific coast classic.

Before a Thanksgiving day crowd of 72,000—the largest ever to attend one of these intra-city contests which started in 1899—the Rams overwhelmed the Violet, 21 to 0, in a game which saw the rival players engaged in a free for all fist fight in the second period.

Two Tackles Banished.

The fisticuffs were inspired by Perry Geffen of N. Y. U. and Amerino Sarno of Fordham, opposing tackles, who squared off after a 15 yard penalty had been called against N. Y. U. After order was restored by the officials Geffen and Sarno were banished from the game.

Coming up for the 16th game of the series with a spotless record and one of the most widely publicized passing attacks in the east, New York university was virtually shackled on foot by the Fordham's closely knit and powerful forward wall, and 20 per cent of the Violet's aerial thrusts were speared by Ram players.

Maniaci Leads Attack.

Although he failed to account for any of his team's points, Joe Maniaci, captain and half back, was the spark plug of the Rams' offense and defense. The big, black haired fellow closed his collegiate gridiron career with one of the most sparkling individual performances in the 36 years of the series. Fordham gained 230 yards overland and Maniaci contributed almost half of the total yardage, in addition to taking a terrific body battering that twice forced him out of the game.

BUCKNELL BEATS TEMPLE, 7-6, ON LONG PASS, RUN

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Bucknell gained a surprise 7 to 6 victory over Temple in the Owls stadium today, before 13,000, on a long pass and Walter Doble's drop kick. Rain fell throughout most of the game.

A 42 yard scoring pass from Phil Miller to Stuart Smith late in the opening period resulted in Bucknell's touchdown.

Smith, a full back from Montour Falls, N. Y., caught the ball on the 22 yard line and continued to the goal line.

Then Walter Doble, veteran guard, who was injured in the Penn State game last week, was rushed in to try for the extra point. He booted a drop kick between the posts for what proved the winning point.

Not until the last period could Temple find the goal line, although it had the ball on the 1 yard line late in the second period.

Johnny Kusko, who alternated with Big Dave Smukler at full back, turned in the Temple touchdown when he crashed his way through right guard from the 1 yard line after Capt. Sitarsky's fumble of a punt gave the Owls possession on Bucknell's 22 yard line.

In eight plays Temple went the necessary distance, aided by a 6 yard pass from Kusko to Frey.

TEXAS U. SCORES ON 38 YARD RUN, BUT LOSES, 20-6

College Station, Tex., Nov. 28.—(AP)—For the first time in four years the Texas Aggies today defeated the University of Texas, 20 to 6. Texas scored in the first three minutes on a 38 yard run by Buster Jurecka, but the Aggies held the upper hand the remainder of the way.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Chicago Cardinals virtually eliminated Green Bay from the western division championship race in the National Professional Football league yesterday by whipping the Packers, 9 to 7, at Wrigley field.

A 30 yard field goal by Bill Smith and a 33 yard touchdown drive in the second period blighted the Packers' hopes of clinching the sectional title. But not until the final 50 seconds of as fierce and well played a game as Chicago has seen this year were the Cardinals assured of the victory which sent them into a tie for the lead with Detroit.

Miss Victory By Inches.

Only the distance of a foot on an attempted field goal prevented the Packers from snatching victory in the last minute. With third down and 12 yards to go, Ade Schwammel, the tackle whose place kicking had saved the Packers from defeat on several occasions, dropped back to the Cardinal 23 yard line. Bobby Monnett, kneeled down in the mud.

The timekeeper announced 55 seconds remained to play. Center Frank Butler passed the ball to Monnett and the little back set it down perfectly. But Schwammel swung his foot out of line and struck low on the ball.

It lofted high over the upright and to the 7,500 who sat bundled in blankets it appeared Green Bay had duplicated its sensational finish against the Bears on the same gridiron several weeks ago. But Referee James Durfee shook his head and signaled failure. The ball had curved outside the upright by a foot and Green Bay's chance was gone.

Third Victory Over Packers.

It was the Cardinals' fifth consecutive victory over the Packers and their third this year. Their rise to first place marked the third time in this tense championship race that the Chicago eleven has gone into the lead.

The victory was as costly as it was coveted, however, for it was discovered after the game that Phil Sarboe, Cardinal quarter back, had suffered a recurrence of a shoulder injury sustained in Boston last week and will be unable to play against the Bears Sunday. Sarboe's loss leaves the Cardinals without a quarter back. Paul Pardonner, the other pilot, was unable to dress yesterday because of a similar injury. It was doubtful whether either would be available for the second Bear game a week from Sunday.

Only 17 plays after the opening kickoff Monnett, who with Johnny Blood carried the brunt of the Packers' offensive, spun through center, where two plays before Bert Pearson had replaced Bernie Hughes in the Cardinal line, and raced 60 yards to a touchdown. Ernie Smith kicked the extra point and the Packers led, 7 to 0. Prior to this the Cardinals had held the Packers to three yards in eight plays.

March 56 Yards.

The Chicagoans, notorious for a lack of offense, sprang their first surprise on the Packers and the shivering 7,500 by taking the kickoff and marching 56 yards. Passing and running from a spread formation, it took eight plays to traverse this distance. On the fourth down on the Packers' 22 yard line, Bill Smith dropped back eight yards for a field goal. His place kick split the uprights.

Ten plays later in the second quarter Al Nichelini raced ten yards around end on a reverse and outsprinted the Packer secondary to the corner of the field for a touchdown. This run wound up a 33 yard drive that got under way after Monnett had passed 8 yards to Blood and Blood's attempt to lateral had rolled into the open, where Dave Cook, Cardinal half back, recovered.

Upon gaining possession of the ball on the Packer 33 yard line, Phil Sar-

GIANTS DEFEAT DODGERS, 21-0; INCREASE LEAD

March 76 Yards for First Touchdown.

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The New York Giants increased their lead in the eastern division of the National Football league today by drubbing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 21 to 0, before 25,000, in the mud of Ebbets field. The Giants now are two full games ahead of the Dodgers.

The Giants put on a 76 yard march to score a touchdown in the second period, passed their way to another in the third, and capitalized on a break to score again just before the game ended.

The last half was played in a driving rain. The players were so covered with mud they were hardly recognizable.

Burnett Scores on Pass.

With Eddie Danowski hurling passes to Tod Goodwin and Dale Burnett, the Giants charged down from their own 35 yard line to score their first touchdown in the second quarter. Burnett speared a nine yard toss behind the goal line for the score. Ken Strong kicked the extra point.

In the next period, Danowski took a Dodger kick on the Brooklyn 35 yard line and later passed to Goodwin, who ran ten yards to the goal. Bo Molenda added the point.

The third touchdown was the result of a break. The Giants kicked almost to the Dodger goal. Wilbur White, Brooklyn back, fumbled and Ike Frankian recovered for the Giants on the 2 yard line and stepped across to score. Again Molenda kicked the point.

Dodgers Miss Chance.

The Dodgers tossed away their one good chance. Late in the second period their most sustained drive put them within eight yards of the goal, but Jack Grossman's passes failed to click and the ball went over on downs. Lineup:

The work of Wilf Cude, former Detroit goalie, in the Montreal cage, was a feature of the largely defensive game. Cude made 26 stops, a majority of them on hard drives. Nine penalties were handed out, five going against Montreal. Lineup:

Lions Defeat Bears, 14 to 2; Tie for Lead

just before the end of the first half when Buddy Parker, substitute full back, fumbled in his own end zone. Detroit had the ball on its 1 yard line, after a pass interception and apparently hoped to retain possession by a plunge since less than a minute remained to play.

Bill Hewitt dropped Parker behind the goal line, but the Bears argued that they should have had a touchdown since the ball eluded Parker after he had fallen on it. The official decision was that the ball did not get away from Parker a second time until the referee had blown his whistle.

Glen Presnell, starting quarter back, set the stage for Detroit's first threat in the opening quarter when he returned Molesworth's punt for 42 yards to midfield. Two first downs advanced the ball to the Bears' 28 yard line, but the Chicagoans threw back the attack and kicked out to Detroit's 47 yard line. Here Clark took command from Presnell and the Lion machine moved steadily to the goal.

Six plays, alternating with smashes by Shepherd and wide runs by Ernie Caddel, with Clark in a flanker position, drove to the Bears' 19 yard line. Shepherd then picked a low pass from center off the ground and skidded around the Bears' left end for seven yards.

Clark Takes Pass for Touchdown.

The Bears now held for three plays, but Shepherd then passed wide to the left to Clark, who had raced past John Sisk into the corner of the end zone. Clark followed with a place kick for the point.

This score goaded the Bears into action and with advantage of the wind in the second period they forced play into Detroit territory. Molesworth's quick kick to Detroit's one yard line was the lever and his 12 yard run back of Frank Christensen's return kick put the ball on the Lions' 20 yard line. Two running plays, on one of which Sisk fumbled and recovered, lost a yard and then two incomplete passes ended the sortie.

The Bears started again from their own 48 yard line. After a pass failure, Molesworth completed a toss to Johnsos, who lateral passed to Ronzani after an advance of 30 yards. Gene was run down on the Lions' 9 yard line, a gain of 43 yards for the play. The Bears were shoved back 15 yards when convicted of illegal use of the hands on offense, but this was offset two plays later when Detroit held illegally and the Bears were given the ball and a first down on the Lions' 11 yard line.

Bear Pass Fails.

Bronko Nagurski lost a yard in two smashes. On the third play Ronzani passed to Molesworth on Detroit's three yard line. The fourth down lob pass from Nagurski to Johnsos in the end zone was knocked down by Clark as Luke reached the ball. Clark's dive also upset Johnsos, but the officials ruled Dutch was legitimately trying for the ball.

The Bears had one more scoring chance before the half ended when Johnsos recovered Parker's fumble on Detroit's 13 yard line. There was one minute and 20 seconds to play. A pass failed and another by Ronzani was intercepted by Parker on Detroit's one yard line. This was the setup when Detroit tried to keep possession with Parker plunging into the line. The fumble followed which Parker recovered for a safety.

After an exchange of kicks in the third period Clark stepped off 18 yards with one of Molesworth's punts and was dropped on the Bears' 34 yard line. Gutowski, now at full back, ran to the Bears' 22 yard line in two plays. Clark got two yards at the Bears' left tackle and then, in a flanker position at the east side line, he received a lateral pass from Gutowski. Reds Pollock, covering Clark, had a straight tackle and missed. Nagurski also failed to bring Clark down as he ran straight ahead for 15 yards. Here Clark turned toward midfield, retreated five yards, and then, behind a screen of interferers, came wide before bending his course to the goal. Dutch again place kicked the point.

RULES of the Big Ten conference colleges and of the so-called Big Three of Princeton, Yale, and Harvard against post-season football contests this season are deflating importance of the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Cal., considerably.

Minnesota, Ohio State, and Princeton are outstanding performers whose presence on the west coast would assure a capacity or near capacity crowd. They are automatically barred by their own governing bodies. Elevens chosen to represent the Pacific coast no longer even submit "feelers" to ascertain whether an invitation could be accepted.

The last well organized agitation for a conference eleven to visit Pasadena was in behalf of Michigan's champions of 1932. Michigan was receptive to a bid, but declined to take the initiative in seeking permission from the conference faculty board. The Big Ten club of Los Angeles sponsored a petition.

While the necessary procedure was being followed, so much time elapsed that Southern California found it necessary to invite Pittsburgh, which was humiliated, 35 to 0. At the time it was said Michigan might have secured an affirmative vote if more time had been allowed.

Later an attempt was made in the conference for legislation permitting a champion to play at the Rose Bowl at stated periods, say every five years. This, however, was defeated on the ground it would be difficult to name in advance any particular year when the rule might be waived and still have a representative team, also because there would be petitions nearly every fall once the door was opened. This action, in the opinion of those taking it, sounded the death knell of Rose Bowl games for Big Ten teams.

On the whole the Big Ten rule is sound. Five weeks is a long time to keep a gridiron team in training after its regular season closes. Stanford last year broke training and then resumed again before the New Year's day game. In this climate weather is not conducive to outdoor practice. It is extremely doubtful whether any middle western team could approximate its season's strength five weeks later.

Nevertheless many conference partisans regret that an eleven such as Minnesota cannot have a chance to show its prowess, believing as they do that the Gophers are the strongest squad in the whole country. But such are the rules.

Cardinals Dim Packer Hopes for Title, 9-7

boe immediately called a spread formation and passed 10 yards to Full Back Mike Mikulak. Nichelini added two yards at left end as the first quarter ended. Doug Russell, Hal Pangle, and Mule Dowell then went into the Cardinal back field, with Pangle relieving Sarboe. Pangle shunned the spread with which Sarboe had been confusing the Packers and resorted to a power attack. Russell, who formerly had been regarded as an open field runner, amazed the Packers by turning plunger and ripping to the 10 yard line in three plays. Nichelini then went over.

Packers' Threat Halted.

The Cardinals, out in front after Nichelini's touchdown, gave evidence of relaxing and before the crowd had settled back comfortably in its blankets, the Packers were on the threshold of another score. Full Back Clark Hinkle brought the kickoff back 25 yards to the Packers' 20 yard line and on the first play Monnett passed 19 yards to Milt Gantenbein. On the next play Monnett went 35 yards around right end to the Cardinals' 22 yard line. The threat was choked off when Mikulak intercepted Monnett's pass on the Cardinal one yard line.

Schwammel attempted a place kick in the third period from the Cardinals' 32 yard line, but this one also came to grief, although it supplied the outstanding thrill of the game. Blood, kneeling in the mud, fumbled the pass from center, but grabbed the ball off the ground and as Bill Smith rushed in, lateraled to Schwammel. Schwammel fumbled and Smith recovered, running 68 yards to the goal in a zigzag course with Cardinals blocking out Packers as fast as they overtook the fleeing end.

Hard to Convince Cards.

The play was illegal, however. An opponent can recover but not advance a fumbled lateral pass. It took a little time for the officials to convince the fiery Cardinals, though.

Green Bay played without its star passer, Arnie Herber, and Don Hutson, whose pass catching has kept the Packers at the top of the league for several weeks. Herber had an injured hand and Hutson has been bothered with a fractious appendix.

In their absence Monnett and Blood took over the Packers' passing, which is their offense. Monnett threw 18 of Green Bay's 20 passes, completing ten. Six of the ten were caught by Blood for 72 yards. Blood threw the other two, both of which were incomplete.

Interference Almost Hurts.

One of Monnett's tosses was ruled complete on the Cardinals' 14 yard line when Russell interfered with Blood in the final minute of play. This penalty set the stage for Schwammel's final field goal attempt.

Monnett was the offensive star of the game. In addition to throwing the ten passes which netted the Packers 115 yards, he made 107 of his team's 137 yards by rushing. His total included the 60 yard touchdown run and the 35 yard sprint around end.

The Packers led the Cardinals, 8 to 7, in first downs, and 252 yards to 147 in net gains. The Cardinals' total was comprised of 98 yards by rushing and 49 on five completed passes. The completions were all by Sarboe, who threw eight of the Cardinals' 12 aerials.

COAST CADETS PASS TO BEAT ST. JOHN'S, 20 TO 14

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—Black Foxe Military academy of Los Angeles won, 20 to 14, from St. John's academy of Delafield, Wis., on a pass in the last quarter today.

Four thousand saw the game in Los Angeles Coliseum.

Navy All Set; Off to Battle Army Eleven

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Naval Academy football squad finished its training on a wet field here today and left for Philadelphia to meet the Army Saturday in the thirty-sixth clash between the service rivals.

"We're all set," Tom Hamilton, Navy coach, said as he boarded the train. "The squad is in good physical shape. We hope it's good enough to take the Army.

"When the Army and the Navy get together there is no place for bear stories. We are going up to play our best game of the year."

The squad was given a light workout in the rain.

Last year before the squad left to defeat Army, 3 to 0, the players worked out in the rain. This fact was cited by many today as a good luck sign for the sailors.

Hamilton named a starting lineup for Saturday that averages 177 pounds.

The lineup:

Center—Louis B. Robertshaw, captain, 179 pounds, senior, Haverford, Pa.
Right guard—Rivers J. Morrell Jr., 183 pounds, junior, Los Angeles, Cal.
Right end—Archie H. Soucek, 182 pounds, junior, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Quarter back—Richard R. Pratt, 171 pounds, senior, Washington, D. C.
Right half—Thomas S. King Jr., 178 pounds, senior, Annapolis, Md.
Full back—Frank D. Case Jr., 172 pounds, sophomore, Evanston, Ill.

ARMY DRILLS IN MUD.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Army went out in the mud and rain today to finish its home work for the Navy game. Not much was accomplished, so wretched were the weather conditions, but the players passed and kicked the ball about for an hour.

So far as the West Pointers are now concerned the scene shifts to Philadelphia, for which point the football squad and coaches departed by special train at 5:30 this evening. The entire cadet corps and band will make the trip in special trains leaving here early Saturday morning.

LINDBLOM, LEO GO BACK TO WORK FOR TITLE GAME

Both Teams Reach Full Strength.

Lindblom and Leo, principals in the city high school football championship game at Soldiers' field tomorrow afternoon, will continue preparations for the game today after tussling with turkey dinners. The game, sponsored by Mayor Kelly's Christmas benefit fund, is expected to attract a crowd of 75,000.

The public and Catholic league champions will be at full strength for the contest, barring injuries in the final practice sessions. Both teams are undefeated. However, each has played one tie in league competition.

Rely on Hennis, Goldberg.

Capt. Ted Hennis and Joe Goldberg, husky full back, are relied upon to carry the brunt of Lindblom's attack. Capt. Hennis, one of the outstanding quarter backs in the City league this season, scored Lindblom's only touchdown against Parker in the game that decided the City league title at Stagg field last Saturday.

Hal Bowen, flashy half back, whose running, kicking and passing led Leo to its second league championship, is expected to star for Leo. Bowen played the entire 60 minutes against Lindblom last year when the public school champions won, 6 to 0.

In last year's game Leo tried to run the ends and was thwarted. This time Whitey Cronin, Leo coach, is expected to insist upon a few line smashes.

Bands from 11 Schools.

Bands from 11 Chicago schools will perform before the game and during the half. In addition an R. O. T. C. unit of 1,000 will parade from the north end of the stadium to the center of the huge lake front arena at 1:15 o'clock. The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

PENN TRAMPLES CORNELL, 33-7, ON MUDDY FIELD

45,000 See Quakers Score 3 Times in First Half.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 28.—(AP)—In the mud and slime of Franklin field, Pennsylvania's football eleven wrote a successful finish today to an otherwise up and down campaign by soundly whipping Cornell, 33 to 7, in the 42d renewal of their traditional rivalry.

The defeat, its 30th in this long time series, wound up the 1935 campaign for Cornell without a victory in seven starts. Only a tie with Columbia makes the Ithacans' record anything except a total failure.

Penn Scores Three Times in First Half.

Forty-five thousand fans saw Penn score three times in the first two periods, and twice more before the game ended. Cornell, meantime, was stopped cold, both by the rugged Penn line and via the air, and only the splendid kicking of John Batten kept the Quakers from adding at least two more touchdowns to their total.

Penn's first touchdown came when the game was less than five minutes old. Lew Elverson, hard running half back, got away on a 25 yard sweep to the left. Then a long pass, from Franny Murray to John Neil at right end, was good for the score. Only minutes later, Penn started another march from midfield, with Elverson passing to Ed Warwick for 26 yards, and Murray finally going over.

Kurlish Plunges for Score.

Early in the second period, Penn took the ball on its own 40 yard line and drove over another touchdown, with Bill Kurlish ploughing through the heart of the line for the last few yards after Murray advanced the ball 39 yards on a pass from Elverson.

Late in that period, Cornell put up only effective offensive, after recovering a Penn fumble on its own 40 yard line. Batten passed to Andy Peirce for 37 yards. The advance gained ten more on two offsides against Penn, and then Peirce smashed through for the touchdown.

Penn's two second half touchdowns were the results of long runs, with Elverson clicking for the first on a 60 yard run back of a punt late in the third period, and Dougherty, a third string right end, getting away for a 45 yard scoring run with only minutes remaining of the final quarter.

The lineup:

| CORNELL [7]. | | PENN [33]. |
|---|---|---|
| Nunn | L. E. | Bradford |
| Hutchinson | L. T. | King |

Touchdowns—Neil, Murray, Kurlish, Elverson, Dougherty [sub for Neil], A. Peirce. Points after touchdown—Murray [place kick], Kurlish [place kick], Crosson [sub for Elverson] [end run], Stofer [place kick].

COLGATE, 33; BROWN, 0.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Colgate's Red Raiders swamped Brown today, 33 to 0, before the smallest crowd in the history of the Thanksgiving day meeting between the two institutions. Not more than 4,000 turned out on this drab, rainy day to see the twentieth renewal of the gridiron warfare, which marked the seventh straight triumph for Colgate.

Colgate scored one touchdown in the first period, three in the second, one in the third, and then despite the return of the entire Colgate starting lineup failed to count at all in the fourth. On the contrary the Red Raiders attack was pretty much muffled in that final quarter and the Bruins countered surprisingly by making their lone first down of the afternoon very early in the period.

Otherwise the Brown offensive was completely smothered by the alert Colgate line, the Bruins having a net gain in rushing of three yards.

SYNDICATE ALSO PLANS TO BUY BROWNS' FARM

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 28.—(AP)—A syndicate's plan to purchase the St. Louis Browns of the American league also includes purchase of the team's lone farm, San Antonio of the Texas league.

George Sisler, one time manager of the Browns and a member of the syndicate, said tonight the minor league team was included in the contemplated purchase. He gave no other additional details to his announcement last night that he and a group of St. Louis business men and sportsmen planned to buy the Browns.

Members of the syndicate have invited civic leaders to a meeting Monday to work out financial details of an offer to be made to the Phil Ball estate, owner of the two teams.

HUDGENS LEADS WASHINGTON U. TO 26 TO 0 VICTORY

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Bob Hudgens led the Washington university eleven to the Missouri state college football championship today as the Bears closed the 1935 season with a 26 to 0 victory over the St. Louis university Billikens. Hudgens romped to three touchdowns in the 20th renewal of the Thanksgiving day game, played before 18,000. Co-Capt. Chuck Droke, playing his last game, plunged for the final score.

Pitt Held to Scoreless Tie by Carnegie

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Carnegie Tech, on the short end of 10 to 3 odds, played the University of Pittsburgh to a scoreless tie in the 22nd game of their series today.

Approximately 25,000 watched the teams struggle on the soggy gridiron and saw Carnegie, noted for its upsets, courageously turn back every Pitt scoring threat, then launch a few of its own. Tech only won two games this season, but one of these was a victory over Purdue.

Pitt outgained the Tech 262 yards to 64.

Randour Drops Pass.

Once the ball slipped through the fingers of Hubert Randour, Pitt back field star, as he stepped across the goal line to catch a pass thrown by Leon Shedlowski.

Pitt's big scoring threat came in the second period. The entire back field alternated in carrying the ball to Carnegie's five yard line. There the Tartans turned back a touchdown drive. Frank Patrick's kick from placement on the 13 yard line in an effort to save the drive went wide.

Three Kicks Miss.

Charles Spisak, Tech half back, tried three times to score from the field. His first placement in the second period and another in the fourth were wide. The third attempt—just before the final whistle from the 40 yard line—failed to clear the cross bar. Lineup:

| PITT [0]. | | CARNEGIE [0]. |
|---|---|---|
| Souchak | L. E. | Patt |
| Daniell | L. T. | Henrion |

MARYLAND, SYRACUSE TIE.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The University of Maryland eleven held favored Syracuse university to a scoreless tie today in a downpour before 5,000.

Maryland never was in difficulty until the final period, when Syracuse blocked and recovered one of Guckeyson's quick kicks on Maryland's 37 yard line. An exchange of punts signaled the start of a Syracuse 48 yard drive, led by Vannie Albanese, full back.

The attack bogged down on Maryland's 12 and Syracuse lost the ball on downs after a pass, Reckmack to Touchton, turned up an eight yard loss. It was the only time the Orange got inside Maryland's 30 yard line.

Maryland's hopes died in the fourth when Rekstis, Jontos and Webster blocked Guckeyson's kick. The only Syracuse scoring threat failed just before the final whistle when Buckald's place kick from the 20 was blocked. Lineup:

| SYRACUSE [0]. | | MARYLAND [0]. |
|---|---|---|
| Rekstis | L. E. | Ennis |
| Webster | L. T. | Stalfort |
| Jontos | L. G. | Minion |

Substitutions: Syracuse—End, Buckwals; tackle, Hemingway; back, Perkins.

Maryland—Ends, Willis, Smith; tackle, Birkland; guards, Surgent, Fletcher; backs, Stonebraker, Headley, Daly, Yeager, Sachs.

Referee—Carrington [Virginia]. Umpire—Sharpe [Yale]. Head linesman—Young [Pennsylvania]. Field judge—Ramey [V. M. I.].

DETROIT HOLDS EARLY LEAD TO BEAT TEXAS TECH

Lubbock, Tex., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Led by Half Back Andrew Farkas, Detroit university defeated Texas Tech, 12 to 7, today. Detroit gained a 12 point lead in the first two periods, then settled down to a stubborn defense. Six plays within the two yard mark failed to produce the winning touchdown for Tech. Tech made 225 yards from scrimmage to Detroit's 125 yards. Tech led, 17 to 6, in first downs.

A triple lateral, Lutz to Wilson to Kondraski, netted Detroit 19 yards and a touchdown late in the first quarter. Cooper's placekick was wide. Early in the next period a 39 yard sprint by Lutz and an offside penalty against Tech gave Detroit the ball on the one yard line. Payne, substitute full back, plowed over. Kondraski's kick was blocked.

Tech scored on an 11 yard pass from Ed Smithgn, half back, to Beauchamp. Davis, a guard, kicked the extra point.

Mishawaka Eleven Beats Culver Military, 24 to 0

Culver, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Mishawaka High school's state champion football team today defeated the Culver Military academy eleven, 24 to 0. More than 3,000 watched the annual homecoming day contest.

George Washington Wins from North Dakota, 13-0

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Taking advantage of the breaks, George Washington's Colonials defeated a hard fighting North Dakota university football team today, 13 to 0, in a driving rain.

TONIC FOR BOXING SEASON

Garcia Tosses His Punches at Ross Tonight

early fling at the lightweight championship. Jimmy will have about a five pound pull in the weights as he expects to weigh 133, while Miller will come in at about 127.

Ross, who is much lighter than his handlers had wanted him to be, was allowed to rest except for limbering up exercises yesterday. He, too, was permitted to do away with a big helping of the turkey dinner his mother, Mrs. Sarah Rasof, had prepared for him at the Rasof home on the west side.

Christy, Garcia Work.

Miller also took things easy, but Garcia and Christy did more work than fighters usually do on an afternoon before an important match. They went through all their regular routines, eliminating only boxing from the menu.

The show is the first big fistic offering of the new indoor season. The presence of the two world's champions on the same card has brought boxing fans into town from many parts of the country.

There hasn't been much wagering on the outcome of the bouts in which the champions are involved. Ross was the favorite to trounce the Filipino at odds of 8 to 5. The wagering indicated the tussle between Christy and Miller is a tossup. It was even money and take your choice last night if you wanted to bet on the outcome of that one.

Wilberforce Wins National Negro Football Title

Columbus, O., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Wilberforce staged a last period touchdown rally and then staved off a last minute threat on its goal line today to defeat West Virginia State, 14 to 13, before 7,000 shivering fans.

The game was billed as for the Negro collegiate national title, and Joe Louis, Negro heavyweight fighter, was among the spectators.

The West Virginians, who have not defeated Wilberforce since 1925, had a 13 to 7 edge at the half, practically all of the scoring being due to Floyd Meadows, shifty half back.

They battled on even terms through the third period, but Wilberforce scored on a break in the final quarter, plunged for the deciding point, and then held a pass throwing foe at bay. The gun sounded with West Virginia State on the Wilberforce one yard line.

Meadows provided the big thrill of the contest. He missed a kick for point after touchdown, which left Wilberforce in front, 7 to 6, but as Burton took the next kickoff and passed a lateral to him, he threaded his way 90 yards through Wilberforce for a touchdown.

Kentucky Runs Wild Against Tennessee

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Kentucky ran over Tennessee, 27 to 0, today on a muddy field. More than 15,000 saw the contest, which resulted in Kentucky's first victory over Tennessee since 1925.

Behind an inspired line, Kentucky's back field shone brightly. Bert Johnson, who scored two touchdowns last year against Alabama's Rose bowl team, delivered two of the four scores today. Quarter Back McMillan accounted for the other two.

Bob Davis, sophomore half back, who has scored 66 points for Kentucky this season, dashed through the Tennessee line and around ends, and caught passes for a good share of the 225 yards Kentucky gained from scrimmage. Tennessee gained only 41 yards.

ALABAMA BEATEN, 14-6.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Vanderbilt thrilled 18,000 this afternoon with a 14 to 6 triumph over Alabama. The victory, Vanderbilt's first in six games with Alabama, clinched runnerup honors in the Southeastern conference race.

A little quarter back who had warmed the bench for most of his varsity career, Pete Curley, was sent into the game in the second half and stole the show with a dazzling piece of work that gave Vanderbilt its second touchdown.

Near the middle of the final period Vanderbilt advanced from its own 33 yard line to Alabama's 45 on a lateral from Full Back Sam Agee to Curley. Line plays and a 15 yard penalty carried to the Alabama 20 yard line. Curley tossed two passes and then Byron Beard, substitute half back, lost three yards.

Curley dropped back for a fourth down pass. The toss from center was wide and the ball rolled down the field. Curley dashed back, picked it up, and kicked the ball toward Alabama's goal. Joe Riley, Alabama half back, caught it and as Beard tackled him the ball bounded from his hands across the goal. Beard fell on the ball for the touchdown. Throgmorton kicked both extra points.

NORTH CAROLINA WINS.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—University of North Carolina today conquered Virginia, 61 to 0. Virginia advanced into Carolina territory only once, in the fourth quarter, and the Cavaliers made only two first downs while North Carolina was rolling up 21.

Herbert Tade, 21 year old Tennessee center, was in a critical condition tonight from a fractured skull suffered in the last quarter. Physicians said he had "a good chance" to recover if he lives through the night.

PEORIA CENTRAL WINS.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Peoria Central defeated Peoria Manual today, 7 to 0.

Stanford Looks to Texas for Its Rose Bowl Foe

Stanford University, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Stanford probably will invite the winner of the Southern Methodist-Texas Christian game Saturday as its Rose bowl football opponent on New Year's day.

This was indicated today when Graduate Manager Alfred R. Masters of Stanford said he would not make a decision until the week-end games had been played. He must have learned of New York university's 21 to 0 drubbing by Fordham.

The outcome of the eastern game gave Masters a Thanksgiving day headache. He readily conceded New York university had been considered "highly eligible."

"I will not make a move until Saturday's games have been cleared up" Masters said.

From confidential sources it was learned Stanford did not give up the idea of persuading undefeated Princeton to accept an invitation until yesterday. Informal meetings of high Princeton officials were held then, it was learned, but the proposition of a post-season game was disapproved. Stanford had no hand in the matter but an influential alumnus prompted the discussion in a telegram to a Princeton authority.

NEBRASKA WINS IN 4TH PERIOD CHARGE, 26-20

Cardwell Leads Attack on Oregon State.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 28.—(AP)—A 65 yard drive to a touchdown in the last two minutes of play gave Nebraska a 26 to 20 victory over Oregon State today before 25,000.

Nebraska scored in the first four minutes of play, and again nine minutes later on a blocked punt, to start what it appeared would be a walkaway victory. Oregon State went into the lead, however, early in the fourth quarter, and it looked as if the tide had turned.

Thirteen line plays, with Lloyd Cardwell, Nebraska's ace half back, carrying the ball seven times, shot the Cornhuskers back in front, and they protected their advantage until the timer ended the wild scramble.

Lloyd Scores Twice.

Cardwell scored two of Nebraska's four touchdowns, and Ralph Eldridge and Elmer Dohrmann accounted for the others. Sam Francis kicked two extra points for Nebraska. Joe Gray, star Oregon State half back, scored the Beavers' first touchdown, and Elmer Kolberg and Maynard Schultz made the others. Thomas Swanson kicked Oregon State's two extra points.

KANSAS, MISSOURI TIE.

Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Kansas, after defeating Missouri for five straight years, was held to a scoreless tie today before 17,000.

Except for one mild threat by each team the game was played between the 20 yard lines. John Peterson led a Kansas drive that reached the Tiger 16 yard line in the third quarter. Once the Tigers got to the Kansas 14, but there Hapgood intercepted a pass on his own two yard line.

The opening kickoff was taken by Jack Frye of Missouri on the goal line. He raced to Missouri's 46 before Hapgood, the last Kansan in his path, brought him down. The lineup:

| KANSAS [0]. | | MISSOURI [0]. |
|---|---|---|
| Hayes | L. E. | Henderson |
| Nesmith | L. T. | Heidel |
| McCall | L. G. | Simon |
| Phelps | C. | Betty |
| Sklar | R. G. | Beger |
| Vogel | R. T. | Smith |
| Green | R. E. | Grenda |
| Wienecke | Q. B. | Frye |
| Harris | L. H. | Combs |
| Hapgood | R. H. | Johnson |
| Peterson | F. B. | Houston |

OKLAHOMA WINS.

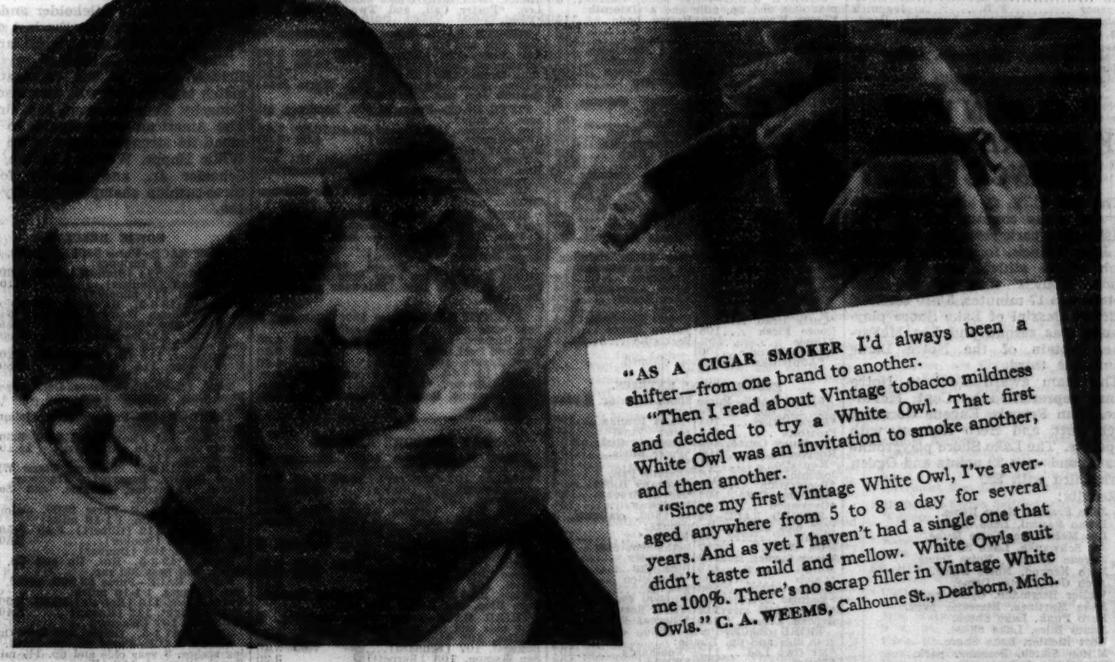
Norman, Okla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The University of Oklahoma today trounced Oklahoma A. and M., 25 to 0, ending a five year period of "Aggie trouble."

The Sooners marched through the Aggie line for two touchdowns in the second and two in the fourth periods, largely as a result of the speed of Bill Breeden, 200 pound half back, but the play of the day was a 50 yard touchdown sprint by Melbourne Robertson.

"I stopped switching when I discovered the uniform mildness of Vintage Tobacco"



"AS A CIGAR SMOKER I'd always been a shifter—from one brand to another.

"Then I read about Vintage tobacco mildness and decided to try a White Owl. That first White Owl was an invitation to smoke another, and then another.

"Since my first Vintage White Owl, I've averaged anywhere from 5 to 8 a day for several years. And as yet I haven't had a single one that didn't taste mild and mellow. White Owls suit me 100%. There's no scrap filler in Vintage White Owls." C. A. WEEMS, Calhoune St., Dearborn, Mich.

Tobaccos, like wines, are best in Vintage Years

TOBACCOS are a lot like wines—they're at their best in Vintage years. That's why cigars made of Vintage tobaccos are always mild and mellow.

White Owl maintains a vast crop inspection system, the only known organization of its kind in the world . . . keeps track of the growing tobacco . . . reports climatic conditions. And at harvest time we know when and where Vintage tobacco is maturing.

Even in Vintage years, we classify all filler tobacco into seven grades—and buy only tobacco of the quality of the top three for use in White Owls.

Light up a Vintage White Owl. Notice its mellow mildness.

Wesleyan's first score came midway in the opening quarter after Capt. Willard Benson had booted a 70 yard punt to the Hanover 12 yard line. Denny Cochrane brought the return punt back 26 yards to Hanover's 14 yard line. He went over for the touchdown on a reverse from the 12 yard line. Benson's placement was good.

In the third quarter Kenny Chittum, substitute back, raced 22 yards to the Hanover 15 yard line and then swept around end to the six yard line. An offside penalty placed the ball on the one yard line and Capt. Benson went over for the second touchdown.

Late in the final quarter Benson intercepted a pass on his 30, lateral passed to Chittum, who ran 51 yards to Hanover's 19 yard line. Clyde Peterson, substitute half back, went the remaining distance for the final touchdown.

ARIZONA PASSES, RUNS DRAKE INTO 53 TO 0 DEFEAT

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The University of Arizona, uncorking a powerful running and accurate passing attack, trampled Drake university, 53 to 0, here today in an intersectional football clash.

Ted Bland was the spearhead of the Arizona onslaught. Equally important were Ronnie Henderson, Kenneth Knox, and Fred Wallace. With Bland feeding them the ball on reverses and spinners, they accounted for a good portion of the yardage gained by the victors, and also took part in the scoring.

PLAN BILLIARD MATCH BETWEEN U. S. AND BRITAIN

Walter Lindrum, billiard champion of the British Empire, is in Chicago to confer with officials of the National Billiard association on plans for an international billiard match between England and America to be held the early part of the year.

Lindrum is at present touring Canada with Clark McConachy, New Zealand billiards titleholder and runner up to Lindrum in the last championship at English style billiards.

The British titleholder says the British team, if the international match is arranged, will comprise McConachy, Tom Newman, and himself. The American team would, to command its strongest front, come from Willie Hoppe, Welker Cochran, Jake Schaefer Jr., and possibly former three-cushion champion, Johnny Layton.

GANGSTER GIRL'S CHICAGO IDENTITY BARED AS A HOAX

Name She Uses Is That of Hospital Patient.

Relatives of Miss Janet Henderson, 16 years old, 8621 Wallace street, were astonished yesterday to read that a blonde young woman who had been taken into custody Wednesday at Vincennes, Ind., as a companion of a band of robbers and killers, had asserted she was Miss Henderson.

This hardly could be, the relatives declared, because Janet Henderson is —and has been for eight weeks—a patient in the County hospital, where she was taken after a bicycle accident.

Miss Henderson, informed yesterday of the claim for identity made by the blonde at Vincennes, which was repeated after she had been taken to the headquarters of the state highway police at Indianapolis, also was astonished.

Hospital Patient 2 Months.

"I can't imagine what the idea is," she asserted. "I never ran around with gangsters, and I was never in Vincennes. Last summer I met a young man in Valparaiso, Ind., and it is just possible he passed my name on to some girl who wants to keep her own name a secret."

Physicians at the County hospital were firm in their statements that Miss Henderson had been a patient there for two months.

The Indiana "Janet Henderson," who was found unconscious, apparently as the result of a beating given her by her gangster companions, continued to insist on her assumed personality and reiterated she used to live at 8621 Wallace street.

Also, she remained firm in her declaration that her male companions, Tony Sardell and one "Foots" [these names also rest only on her statement] had been implicated in several robberies and shootings.

Linked to Police Shooting.

From the information gleaned from her, the state highway police pieced out a theory that her friends were the slayers of Policeman Frank M. Levy, who was shot down Sunday at Anderson, Ind., when he attempted to question the occupants of a sedan which had been parked more than an hour in a residential district.

It is suspected that one of the gangster girl's companions is Willard Carson, long sought desperado. Policemen at Richmond, Ind., engaged in a gun battle with two men and a girl early yesterday and the state highway police were patroling the roads in the vicinity last night in the hope of catching Carson. His home formerly was in Richmond.

FUNERAL SERVICE TO BE HELD FOR BENSINGER TODAY

Private funeral service for Benjamin E. Bensinger, chairman of the board of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, who died on Wednesday night, will be held at 2:30 this afternoon in the chapel at Rosehill cemetery. Burial will be in the cemetery.

BENJAMIN E. BENSINGER.

Mr. Bensinger died of heart disease in his home at 1421 Astor street. He had been ill intermittently for some time but handled his affairs almost to the moment of his death. He was 67 years old.

Mr. Bensinger was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1868. He became associated with the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company in 1885 and in 1905, after the death of his father, Moses, he became president of the concern. He assumed the board chairmanship in 1931.

He is survived by two sons, Robert F. and Benjamin E. Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Cora B. Hyman and Mrs. C. K. Corsant. His wife, Rose, died in 1928.

DOUBLE FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR ROBT. CHANDLERS

Double funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. in St. Matthew's church, Evanston, for Robert Chandler, 66 year old, 7226 North Clark street, and his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Chandler, also 66.

Mrs. Chandler died on Wednesday of pneumonia in the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, and Mr. Chandler, also afflicted with pneumonia, died yesterday morning in the same institution. Each had been ill only a few days.

Mr. Chandler was a valuation engineer for the Chicago and North Western railroad and a veteran in the service. He and his wife resided for many years in Evanston. They are survived by two sons and a daughter.

Funeral Service Tomorrow for Policeman H. T. Hogan

Funeral services will be held in St. Gabriel's church tomorrow morning for Policeman Hugh T. Hogan of the bureau of records, who died on Tuesday in his home at 614 West 47th place. Hogan was 34 years old. He had been a member of the police force for eight years. He is survived by his widow, Marguerite, a son, Thomas, a daughter, Marguerite, and his father and four brothers. One of the brothers, Francis, is also a policeman. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

BLAZE RUINS 2 CARS AND GARAGE.

Two automobiles and a frame garage behind the home of Charles Cable at 10235 South Turner avenue, Evergreen Park, were destroyed by fire which started in an overheated stove in the garage yesterday.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Television is a word that is more often on the lips of radio engineers this year than in many a season. Like prosperity television long has been lurking "just around the corner"—but has been mighty hesitant of making the turn. But there are hopeful signs.

Great Britain, Germany, and France have been doing a lot of talk about television and making promises lately. This has caused American specialists to hasten to Europe to investigate. On their return they reported that America is fully abreast of everything that Europe is doing and that they face the same difficulty with television abroad that we do at home—getting it out of the laboratory.

A practical television set, said to approach the perfection of the movies in fidelity of pictorial reproduction, is now in use at the Camden plant of Radio Corporation of America. Similar developments are reported in other television laboratories. But the RCA investment to produce this television apparatus is said to be in excess of $4,500,000. How to produce such a receiver inexpensively is one of the puzzlers.

David Sarnoff, president of RCA, hesitates to predict how soon practical, inexpensive television receivers will be available to the public. Another representative of RCA, however, has stated that the way is likely to be cleared to offer a fool proof receiver to the public, costing from $250 to $500, by Christmas of 1936. Other manufacturers may be able to do likewise.

The biggest project to get television out of the laboratory and into the home is said to be under way now in New York. Working in secrecy RCA and NBC engineers are reported installing new television transmitting equipment atop the Empire State building. After getting preliminary testing out of the way during the winter the New York metropolitan area is to be used as an outdoor laboratory probably early in the spring.

Five hundred television receivers of four different designs, it is reported, are to be distributed at research outposts and in homes of picked observers with the view of checking performance. After several months it is hoped that a choice of the most satisfactory receiver may be made and then wrinkles ironed out preparatory to turning it out for the public.

The RCA images are described as "very clear," particularly since a new fluorescent material has been introduced into the kinescope, as the receiver is known. The pictures are cream colored but engineers expect eventually to be able to produce them in black and white.

Among the major problems faced before television can be put on the market is that of transmission. Transmission of images is entirely different from that of sound, Mr. Sarnoff stated in a recent article in Collier's magazine.

"Any old sound receiver," he explained, "even the amateur crystal sets of years ago, can still pick up programs from any standard transmitting station. Thus sound sets do not become obsolete. Unless they are fully standardized television sets will. The reason is this: In television every receiving set must be perfectly coordinated as to number of lines, method of scanning, size of picture, and synchronization of signals with the transmitter at the broadcasting station, or else it will not work."

Thus manufacturers must be sure they are pretty close to right before they go ahead. At best it is expected that television sets will require much more servicing by experts than radios do.

Another major difficulty is that of establishing widespread coverage.

"Television is carried on ultra-short waves whose effective broadcasting range, so far as we know now, is only as far as you can see, or about 25 to 30 miles," Mr. Sarnoff is quoted as saying. "To send a television program from New York to Philadelphia would require three or four relay stations and of course it wouldn't be practical to cover the entire country with thousands of such stations. The alternative, therefore, is a wire hookup, but here also there is a difficulty because television, being short wave and high frequency, requires the use of an entirely different cable from sound, which as you know can be carried over telephone wires."

Such a cable, reported capable of relaying "pictures in pipes," has been developed by engineers of American Telephone and Telegraph company. Recently various interests, said to include sound pictures, certain broadcasters, and telegraph companies objected to the laying of such a cable, called the Coaxial line, from New York to Philadelphia for experimental purposes on the grounds that it would disrupt existing services. The federal communications commission, however, granted permission for the laying of the Coaxial cable last July.

REVEAL QUARTER OF INCOME GOES TO GOVERNMENT

Manufacturers Cite Effect of Growing Burocracy.

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Pointing out that governmental expenditures today take more than 25 per cent of the national income, the report of the committee on government finance of the National Association of Manufacturers says these expenditures have been accompanied by a substantially similar increase in public employés.

It estimates the total of governmental employés in the United States at 3,400,000, of whom about one-third are employed by the federal government, and places the total pay roll of governmental employés, federal, state, and local, at more than 4 billion dollars yearly.

The committee estimates the total debt now at 50 billion dollars, or about 16.7 per cent of the total national wealth.

Future Generations Burdened.

This debt, the committee maintains, spells increasing taxes, and adds: "These futures taxes must not only be paid by the present generation but they represent a mortgage placed by this generation upon the income of future generations."

The report embodied a series of recommendations designed to curb the cost of government which will be considered at the annual Congress of American Industry Dec. 4 and 5. Among the recommendations were:

1. Use of federal funds for absolutely necessary relief only where private, local, and state resources are actually inadequate.

2. Cease using federal funds for local purposes or for regulation of matters which the constitution places exclusively within the domain of the states.

3. Reduce, and as soon as practicable eliminate, federal investments or loans to local governments and private enterprises.

Urges Ending Federal Grants.

4. Discontinue all federal grants, or "matching" allotments to the states.

5. Refunding of public debt obligations where this will reduce annual interest charges.

6. Convert the Reconstruction Finance corporation into a liquidating agency. This would result in an estimated collection of $1,250,000,000 the first year.

7. Cease the creation of public works for the primary purpose of providing relief, since experience demonstrates that they provide relatively little additional employment, invite waste, and defer balancing of the budget.

8. Discontinue the use of public funds to establish or conduct enterprises competing with private industry and labor.

9. Oppose immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

UTILITIES DELAY IN JOINING U. S. TO TEST NEW ACT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—A waiting policy before making definite overtures to the government on procedure for testing validity of the holding company act was discussed today in utility circles. Utility executives said the holding companies still intended to seek such cooperation, but that there would be time enough for that when both government and companies have instituted all their suits.

Eight major holding systems so far have attacked the law. Many more are expected to act in the next three days before the deadline for registering with the securities commission expires on Dec. 1. The government has started only one suit, but has announced it intends to meet other challenges.

AMERICAN LIFE GROUP SELECTS STATE OFFICERS

Selection of committees and state vice presidents of the American Life convention were announced yesterday by Gerard S. Nollen, new head of the convention and president of the Bankers' Life of Des Moines, following a conference here recently with Col. C. C. Robbins, manager and general counsel of the organization.

Isaac Miller Hamilton, president of the Federal Life, and a Chicagoan, is the only committee chairman named from this state. He heads the committee on departmental supervision.

S. Mosley & Co. and N. L. Rogers & Co. Proceeds will be used to redeem outstanding 7 per cent preferred stock called for Jan. 15, 1936 at $105.

AAA Legality Rule Expected Next Jan. 13

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The expectation that the fate of the agricultural adjustment administration would be decided by the Supreme court within ten days after congress resumes its session on Jan. 3, was expressed today by all parties to the important legal controversy.

Basing their optimism on the recent tendency of the court to expedite New Deal cases, lawyers for the government as well as for the assailants of the AAA said they expected the nine justices to hand down their findings Jan. 13. On that day the court will reconvene after a recess starting Dec. 23, and preceded by three weeks of arguments during which the suits of the Hoosac Mills and the Louisiana rice millers will be argued.

Hughes Opposes Delay.

Since the Hoosac case is set for discussion Dec. 9, and the millers' action for Dec. 16, a decision on one or both of the cases Jan. 13 would not be at all improbable in view of the court's previous course in New Deal issues. Contrasted sharply with the slow procedure of former years, the court, under Chief Justice Hughes, announces its opinions in comparatively short time, even on suits of outstanding importance.

Belief that the court would probably deal with the two cases at the same time spread among attorneys who said that the order impounding the processing taxes of the rice millers instead of paying them to the government, was significant as pointing to a combined opinion on the Hoosac and rice cases.

Want Rulings on Both Suits.

Every one apparently would be pleased to see the court take such a step, because in this way the legality of the original AAA, attacked in the Hoosac lawsuit, and the amended law fought by the rice millers, could be dealt with simultaneously and thus give congress an opportunity for any possible corrective legislation.

The injunction preventing the government from collecting the rice millers' processing taxes while their lawsuit is being considered and decided was signed by Chief Justice Hughes today. Ordered by the court on Monday, the injunction not only held up collections but directed that the taxes be placed in a court appointed depository.

REPORT ORDERS FOR STRUCTURAL STEEL INCREASE

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The American Institute of Steel Construction reported today that orders for fabricated structural steel booked during October were 12 per cent larger than the monthly average for 1935.

Contracts closed amounted to 72,505 tons. The total for the first ten months of the year was 646,941 tons. Shipments during October amounted to 66,353 tons and the total for the ten months 693,282 tons. Production last month was reported at the rate of 32.2 per cent of the yearly average of 1928 to 1931, inclusive.

In addition to the tonnage figures given by reporting members of the industry, the institute estimated the total tonnage for the entire industry on contracts closed during October at 100,841 tons, compared with 865,505 tons for the first 10 months of this year. Shipments estimated for the entire industry in October aggregated 91,901 tons, against 920,223 for 10 months.

HOME BUILDING SHOWS BIG GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Conditions in the building industry continue to improve rapidly, according to a report today by the department of labor. More than twice as many family dwelling units were built during the first ten months of 1935 as in the entire year 1934, the report said.

The 9,313 units constructed in October exceeded the October, 1934, record by 158 per cent, reports received from 775 cities, including all towns of more than 10,000 population, revealed. From Jan. 1 to Oct. 31 dwelling units provided numbered 66,261, which is 150 per cent more than during the same period of 1934 and 112 per cent more than in the 12 months of last year, officials said.

October Advertising Gains Over Month and Year Ago

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Printers' Ink index of general advertising, released today, shows advertising activity for October increased 3.1 per cent over September and 6.8 per cent over October last year. "This represents the improvement in October advertising volume after the usual adjustments including correction for seasonal change," it was stated.

Treasury Offers 50 Million of 273 Day Discount Bills

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Tenders for $50,000,000 of treasury bills were invited today by Secretary Morgenthau. They will be 273 day bills, and will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders. The bills will be dated Dec. 4, 1935, and will mature Sept. 2, 1936.

Beer Drinking Is Increasing—July Set a Post Prohibition Record

Chicago Trade and Industry Move Faster

Almost every field of commercial and industrial activity in Chicago experienced an increase during October over the corresponding month of last year, the Chicago Association of Commerce has just announced.

Building permits issued during the month rose 80 per cent over a year ago and there was an increase of more than $500,000 in the value of new building contracts actually awarded. Real estate transactions declined 451 in number, but gained more than $2,000,000 in actual consideration.

Store Trade Improves.

The index of department stores trade improved 2 per cent and manufacturing pay rolls advanced 3 per cent, although the employment index declined slightly.

Public utilities, with the exception of surface line trafic, which had an unfavorable comparison due principally to the abnormally heavy trafic during the World's Fair, showed substantial gains.

Pig iron output, considered one of the dependable gauges of general economic prosperity, more than doubled the total of a year ago.

Standard Tobacco to Buy Control of Axton-Fisher

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—An option to purchase four-fifths of the voting common stock of the $10,000,000 Axton-Fisher Tobacco company will be exercised by the Standard Commercial Tobacco company before the end of this year, according to plans of the management of the latter company. The deal is one of the largest in the industry in the last ten years. Most of the stock covered by the option is held by the estate of the late Col. Wood Axton, who died last spring. The remainder is held by members of his family and employés, it is understood.

FRENCH BANK LOSES $90,024,000 MORE OF GOLD; FRANC IS LOWER

PARIS, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Loss of 1,364,000,000 francs in gold [about $90,024,000] during the week ended Nov. 22 was reported by the Bank of France today. This loss reflected the heavy gold shipments which during the last four weeks have drained 3,132,000,000 francs in gold from France's steadily decreasing gold reserve.

The outflow was dwindling, financial quarters said, but shipments continued with the United States dollar quoted at 15.19 francs [6.58375 cents to the franc]. The overnight New York rate was 6.585 cents to the franc.

The bank showed gold reserves of 69,025,000,000 francs on Nov. 22, providing a bank note coverage of 72.27 per cent. It was reported that gold shipments since Nov. 22 have brought the bank's gold reserve to less than 69 billion francs.

Pound Gains on Dollar.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The United States dollar closed officially on the foreign exchange market today at $4.93 11-16 to the pound, compared to the overnight New York rate of $4.93⅝. The French franc closed at 75 to the pound as compared to yesterday's close of 74.96.

Bar gold declined 1 penny to 140 shillings 11 pence per ounce [United States equivalent, $34.78]. The Bank of England bought £424,700 in bar gold.

PLAN TO REFUND 48 MILLION BOND DEBT OF COUNTY

The Cook county bond refunding plan which will be placed before the county finance committee today provides for refunding of all of the $48,000,000 outstanding bonds, Lee J. Howard, county auditor, stated last night. Tax levies of approximately $4,500,000 annually are set up to service the bonds.

Howard said all past due bonds and those maturing to and including June 1, 1936, would be retired with proceeds of new bonds in the approximate amount of $11,300,000. The new bonds to be sold for cash would mature in 15 years and become callable in 10 years.

Under the plan the bonds maturing after next June 1, amounting to about $36,000,000, would be exchanged for new obligations due in 20 years.

Improvement by Industry Helps Rails

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Recent improvement in the earnings of leading railroads is generally regarded as one of the most promising developments since the current upturn in business began last spring.

Increased railway freight is due partly to a pickup in the heavy industries. Early in the year consumers goods industries began to report greatly increased sales, but railroad freight car loadings did not show a corresponding improvement, because motor trucks haul a large proportion of such goods. In handling heavy goods, such as steel, coal, and lumber, the railroads have less competition.

* *

The railroads appear to be on the upgrade, but most of them still have a long way to go. Their income figures are somewhat misleading, for, unlike industrial corporations, railroads usually report "net operating income," which represents earnings before large deductions for bond interest, taxes, and other fixed charges.

It is currently estimated that the operations of class I railroads as a whole for 1935 will result in a combined deficit of 11 million dollars after all charges but before dividend payments on their stock, compared with a deficit of 32 millions last year, a deficit of 14 millions in 1933, and a profit of 896 millions in 1929.

A bright prospect in the railroad picture, however, lies in the fact that once heavy fixed charges are covered a large part of any additional increase in gross revenues will be clear profit.

* *

Due partly to the steady rise in share prices since last spring the stock market next month will probably have less "tax selling" to absorb than at any time since 1928. Ordinarily investors anu speculators late in December indulge in heavy selling of shares on which they have suffered losses during the year. Such losses can then be used to a certain extent to reduce their income tax payments. This year, however, most stocks have gone up almost steadily in price since March. There will be some selling, of course, but the volume is not expected to be large enough to exert a bearish influence on the market during late December.

Another deterrent to heavy "tax selling" this year—and one which operated last year—lies in the limitation to $2,000 of the excess of capital losses over capital gains that can be deducted from ordinary incomes of individuals.

* *

One of the things worrying the business community is what the administration will do to raise money to pay bonuses to farmers in case the United States Supreme court finds the AAA processing tax unconstitutional. If this tax is ruled out, it is argued, some other tax will probably have to be devised to replace it. More than a half billion dollars yearly is involved.

The processing tax on wheat, cotton, and corn is now paid, supposedly, by the ordinary householder on his purchases of food and clothing. A substitute tax, it is feared, might be levied on corporate and individual incomes.

MARKETS REOPEN AFTER HOLIDAY

All security and commodity exchanges and banks in the United States were closed yesterday, Thanksgiving day. Canadian and foreign markes were open as usual. The markets and banks will be open again today as usual.

STEVENS HOTEL REPORT FAVORS CREDITORS' PLAN

Eliminates Stockholders in Reorganization.

Finding the Stevens Hotel company unquestionably insolvent, Master-in-Chancery Jacob I. Grossman has recommended its reorganization on lines suggested by the principal creditors, eliminating original stockholders from participation in the new company. Grossman's report was made to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom proceedings are pending for reorganization under section 77B of the bankruptcy laws.

The value of the company's properties—the largest hotel in the world—was placed by Grossman at $7,350,000 "as a going concern, and for its highest and best use." This is less than one-fourth of the $30,000,000 valuation put on the property by the Stevens family, who built the hotel, and compares with indebtedness totaling $27,182,676.

Hotel Operated at Loss.

In making his report, Master Grossman pointed out that the 25 story hotel, extending between 7th and 8th streets on Michigan avenue, has operated at a loss ever since its opening in 1928, with the exception of the World's Fair year of 1933.

"The hotel contains 2,784 guest rooms," he continued. "It is more than a half mile south of the main loop district of Chicago."

The reorganization plan, as modified and approved by the master after extensive hearings, provides for issuance of $6,648,750 in new income bonds and 89,023 shares of common stock.

In distributing these securities, $6,150,000 in new bonds and 73,800 shares of stock—92.5 and 82.9 per cent, respectively—would go to holders of first mortgage series "A" notes, which amount to $14,164,437 with accrued interest.

Distribution of Securities.

Holders of first mortgage series "B" notes, amounting to $3,495,015 with accrued interest, would receive $133,000 in bonds and 10,326 shares of stock.

Holders of general mortgage bonds, amounting to $7,150,889 with accrued interest, would receive $275,250 in bonds and 3,686 shares of stock.

Trade creditors would receive $90,500 in bonds and 1,211 shares of stock. Unsecured and general claims aggregate $2,362,335, of which nearly $1,000,000 consists of unpaid taxes and penalties.

The holders of $3,600,000 in preferred stock and $3,400,000 in common stock would receive nothing.

POLITICS DELAYS REPEAL OF STATE GOLD CLAUSE ACT

Horner Turns Deaf Ear to Banker Pleas.

State politics, it was learned yesterday, stands as the principal barrier for at least a year to repeal or amendment of the provision of the Illinois security laws which forbid sales of "gold clause" securities in the state.

The Securities and Exchange commission has authorized the sale of gold bonds when a statement is printed on their faces to the effect that actual payment in gold is impossible under federal law, which provides that payment in legal tender be acceptable in all such instances.

On the basis of this provision companies are saved the considerable added expense of drawing up new indentures [mortgages] and may issue new securities under provisions of their old indentures. Under it sale of these securities is made possible in other states, but not in Illinois.

Kerner Makes Rulings.

The barrier in this state is contained in section 12B of the Illinois securities act as amended in 1933. Attorney General Otto Kerner, in two rulings, has stated that the intent of the law is clearly that "no security shall be sold or offered for sale containing the word 'gold' unless it be redeemable or payable in gold."

Investment bankers believe that no action can be taken before the next regular session of the legislature in January, 1937, to have the troublesome section amended or repealed and so break down the dam which prevents public offering of such securities in Illinois.

Gov. Horner so far has turned a deaf ear to all pleas for including this matter in the call for a special session of the legislature. Without its inclusion in a call no action can be taken until a regular session.

Horner Avoids Decision.

Gov. Horner signed the amendments which included section 12B. To make amendment or repeal of that section a subject in a special call, he is said to believe, would reflect on him because it would place him in the position of admitting that he approved a poor piece of legislation, perhaps without proper consideration. If, on the other hand, the matter comes up merely as a part of the grist of the next regular session —after the election—it would make no difference.

Midland Valley Railroad.

Investors' Guide: Would you please give me your opinion of Midland Valley first 5s, due 1943?—H. W. R.

Answer: Midland Valley railroad is a comparatively small line, operating 363 miles of track from Wichita, Kas., to Fort Smith, Fidelity, and Hartford, Okla. The bulk of its tonnage is coal and petroleum products. Passenger trafic during the last fifteen years has practically disappeared.

The outstanding feature of earnings in recent years is the downward trend in gross. In 1934 gross operating revenues were $1,320,000, against $1,358,000 in 1933, $1,518,000 in 1932, and $3,582,000 in 1929. Drastic economies, however, have enabled the company to continue covering fixed charges. Excluding adjustment income bond interest, fixed charges were earned 1.50 times in 1934, 1.53 times in 1933, 1.44 times in 1932, and 2 times in 1931.

The comparatively favorable results, in the face of declining trafic revenues, were accomplished by slashing of maintenance charges [which will probably have to be made up at some future date] and some increase in other revenues.

In the first eight months of 1935 gross was $822,000 and fixed charges were earned 1.39 times. This compared with gross of $815,000 and coverage of 1.33 times in the corresponding 1934 period

It seems likely that a good part of the petroleum transportation business has been lost permanently to pipe lines. This will act as a check on any resumption of boom time earnings. Favorable factors, however, are a conservative capitalization on a mileage basis, good current position, and retirement of a substantial portion of funded debt during the last few years.

The first 5s, due 1943, are secured by a first mortgage on the company's entire property, including coal lands.

Bank Clearings.

Investors' Guide: Please give me the amount of bank clearings of New York, Chicago, and Detroit for this year and for 1934. In my judgment these specifically state the cause of our depression.—L. E. F.

Answer: Here are the figures which you request [last three ciphers omitted]:

| | First 9 mos. 1935. | All of 1934. |
| Chicago | $ 9,550,681 | $ 11,193,884 |
| New York | 136,397,050 | 161,506,795 |
| Detroit | 3,297,452 | 3,574,899 |

FURTHER RISE SHOWN IN BANK CLEARINGS; 31% ABOVE YEAR AGO

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Bank clearings continue to score heavy gains, according to the weekly report of Dun & Bradstreet, issued today. The total for the 22 leading cities in the United States for the week ended Wednesday was $5,472,471,000, compared with $4,174,354,000 a year ago, an upturn of 31 per cent. For the preceding week the gain was 21.7 per cent.

New York City clearings were $3,521,727,000, an increase of 34.4 per cent over the total reported a year ago. The aggregate for centers outside New York was $1,950,744,000, or 25.7 per cent ahead of the 1934 total. The increase at New York was greater than shown for a number of weeks and to some extent reflected the heavier dealings in securities.

The amounts this week were particularly large at nearly all eastern and western points, the report said. Clearings continue ahead of a year ago at every city reporting. Continued large gains at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and Detroit reflect centering at those cities, the survey stated.

WHEAT RECEDES MODERATELY IN WINNIPEG MART

Liverpool Prices Sag; Buenos Aires Firm.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Wheat futures did not get out of a fractional range today and at the close prices were ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower. Trading was entirely local and dealings were exceptionally quiet with little pressure in evidence. Export business was negligible.

Closing of United States markets for the Thanksgiving holiday had a restraining influence in Winnipeg dealings.

West Australia's wheat harvest was officially estimated at 20,109,000 bushels. This represents a substantial decrease from the figures of 26,980,000 bushels in 1934 and 37,533,000 bushels in 1933.

Argentine Prices Firmer.

Buenos Aires continued to show individual strength. The weather was reported clear in the Argentine, but cable advices Wednesday indicated that rust had appeared in some sections, although it was not regarded as serious yet.

FRIEND OF THE COAL USER

Hot Water vs. Warm Air Systems.

In reply to several letters from manufacturers of both hot water and warm air heating systems who asserted that a recent reply in this department to the query regarding the relative cleanliness of the two methods, was incorrect, we are glad to publish some of their comments.

A maker of both kinds of heaters says: "A warm air furnace installation is, under the same operating circumstances, cleaner than a hot water or steam radiator job; in fact, by the use of filters it can be made to deliver warm air into the rooms to be heated without a trace of dust.

"The statement made that hot water heat would increase the value of the property is debatable and certainly there is no more fire risk with one than the other, while the cost of operation for warm air is very decidedly less than the cost for hot water in a six room residence."
